INTRODUCTION

Some time, a long time ago when I was young, my father took my grandfather back for one last visit to Bethel, Maine - the place of his birth and growing up - and also took my little brother with them. They came back with fabulous stories of the farm and how my brother, Harrison, had tried to ride on a calf and got thrown off. But, I had never been to Bethel.

Many years later, with almost yearly trips back to Lowell, Mass. to visit my folks, I had never been to Bethel. Finally, in 1974, while visiting my Aunt in Warner, N.H., I decided that I should go to Bethel. So, Virginia and I drove there from N.H. and looked up my nearest relative (except for my father and brother) Charles Blake. He is nearest because his grandfather and mine were brothers - and his grandmother and mine were sisters. So, I guess he is a "double cousin".

His wife brought out a book called "East Bethel Road". It was full of Blakes. Grandfather was named David Arthur but was always called Arthur (except at Church) and he was listed in the book as Arthur Blake. This was so interesting because I really knew so little about my family of Blakes. It was strange that I knew so little because I already had a knowledge of genealogy and have researched my maternal lines of Holman, Grant and Libby and, to some extent, some of the others. But, I had not started on the Blakes. Now, I knew, I must do the Blakes.

Back home a few weeks later I started, with full expectation that I should merely trace back a few generations and find my ancestry fully developed in an existing book. But no!! There was no book with my ancestry. There were several books on Blake Families at the Library of Congress and at the DAR in Washington about 7 miles from my home. But, they were all on other Blake families. Where was my Blake Family Book? Such discrimination must not continue. I searched in vain. So, I decided that I must try to put it all together in a book. What a silly, expensive, time consuming, frustrating and exciting decision. Once commenced, the only cure is completion.

But, here I am with an incomplete book ready to publish. No genealogy is ever complete. Yesterday another descendant was born. Tomorrow there will be another. But, I have run out of time, patience and money (and maybe gasoline) and so must print what I have before it is too late. Too often in the past there have been wonderful genealogies thrown out when the author died before publishing. All that work into the garbage heap. No. It must get to my "cousins" all over the United States and Canada. And they are really all over the country. Just now I got a nice telephone call from the State of Washington from Harold Blake and his mother. What a wonderful family.

So, I set to work in 1974 with the History of Hampton, N.H. as a starting point. Listing the Blake Family in the usual genealogical fashion I soon became quite confused with the repetition of names. I discovered that they used the ditto system for naming children. After three months, I threw it all in the trash and spent three days pondering the system that I should use for numbering. It must be so simple that any of my correspondents would easily understand it even though they had not done any genealogy. It must be adaptable to a computer for future additions. It must be expandable. It must be limitless. It must have a method of numbering for the multiple marriages of the Blakes.

During the next four years I spent most of my spare time - some 40 to 60 hours a week - after and during working hours, researching at the Library of Congress, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Sons of The American Revolution, the Library of the Church of Latter Day Saints, the Map Service of the U.S. in Alexandria, Va. and the National Genealogical Society. In addition to the research locally, I made numerous trips to Maine, N.H. and Vermont. I copied all the Vital Records of the three states - all I could obtain. This then, was the base for the documentation. But, many of the Blakes are not on these records. So, I started corresponding with Blakes by sending a form letter requesting data on ancestry. The results amazed me. Letters came from everywhere with data and with requests for more information. Hardly a day passed without a letter containing data on a Blake.

Much that was sent to me came from Family Bibles and from diaries and old letters that had been in the family for many years. It was surprising that they had been saved. Of course, many who wrote belonged to other Blake families. But, most who wrote to me had already traced back four or five generations and were "stuck". Some who wrote were highly competent professional genealogists who heard about what I was doing and offered their services for a fee. Some were highly competent professional genealogists who heard what I was doing and kindly sent data that they had collected and did not request any fee at all. Most were from Blakes who had little knowledge of their ancestry but sent what they had and I then traced back the rest of the way. However, a few were from members of our Blake Family who had thoroughly traced their own lines and had documented data from various good sources and were anxious to be of help in collecting more data for the book. These few are listed as researchers in my source index and were of great help in locating data in their home areas when I was unable to find it in the Libraries.

From the History of Hampton the first few generations were listed. Then the movement of the Blakes began as they spread out in New Hampshire, Maine and Massachusetts in the earliest years. It was not too difficult to trace the growth at first because they moved short distances and nearly all the surrounding towns were blessed with "Town Histories" available at the Libraries; the Blakes are in these Town Histories. Also, many of the Blakes are listed in genealogies of other families. But, as travel became easier, they moved longer distances - jumping hundreds of miles at a time. Then a pattern became clear: the Blakes were pioneers. Sell the farm. Buy cheap land in a new township. Be the first (many were) or one of the first to go to the new town. Clear the land. Build a farm. Sell at a profit. Buy cheap land in a new town. Be first in the new town. Clear the land, build a farm. Sell and move again. So - I looked for the new towns, and found them there.

Hundreds of Town Histories were searched fruitlessly.

The first U. S. Census was in 1790 which came after 150 years of Blake progeny had arrived. Prior to this Census the Town Records gave the most accurate data on the Blakes. These are indexed for N.H. but not for Vt. or Maine. The Mormons have microfilmed most of these records for both Civil and the Churches and were available to me on loan at the local libraries. I used the original handwritten records as much as possible so that I could do my own interpretation of the handwriting. This was fortunate as I discovered many instances where the names had been interpreted incorrectly by others and then typed up on various records. The handwriting in some cases was most difficult to read and to interpret but corroborating evidence was usually available in the Vital Records and in Cemetery records which I found at the DAR. I looked for more than one source for each item of data and have listed these with each item of data so that anyone who wishes more information on a certain person in the book may be able to find it according to the source as listed. Many of the Town Histories give much interesting information that I did not include in the book for lack of space.

Organization of data is quite important to successful research. Therefor, I made one data sheet for each person and kept them in numerical order. Also, I made a file card cross-indexed with the number. The file cards were kept in alphabetical order. This was necessary when you consider that I have 56 Abigail Blakes (not counting Abbie or Abby) and 167 John Blakes (not counting Jon) and the same multiplicity with many other names. These are kept in birth date order by name, and are so indexed. Therefor, the index has the birth year to help locate the particular person. No sense in looking in the wrong century.

Early in 1978 I received a letter from a Blake in Maine in which he stated that he had examined a handwritten manuscript of the Descendants of Jasper Blake some 30 or more years ago. This, he said, was located at the Essex Institute in Salem, Mass. I wrote to the Director and asked permission to examine it, if indeed it existed. By July of 1978 I had connected over 3,100 Blakes and had my index cards in an easily carried wooden box and my data sheets in 7 plastic file boxes. I was only able to spend about 4 hours in Salem in July of 1978 but used those four hours examining the manuscript and discussing what I had already done with Mrs. Norton of the Essex Library. She was most helpful and interested in the research that I had with me.

The original manuscript of Perley Derby is on file at Essex Institute and, of course, cannot be taken out. But, permission was granted to me to have a copy with my promise not to divulge it to anyone. I received the photocopies of 501 handwritten pages on August 25, 1978 and commenced checking the data against my files that very day. Who could wait?

Most of the Derby Manuscript had identical data with mine. But, he had stories about people that were unavailable elsewhere. And, he had developed some lines that I did not have. I had some that he had never found, and, of course, I had much on those born after he died. Together, they are the History of our Blake Family.

Since that time most of the data added has been from correspondence developed by writing to the members of our Blake Family. My files contain several hundred letters from helpful "cousins" who have taken an interest in the book and wish to include whatever they can find. Without these letters much would have been missed because of the westward movement of the Blakes. But, in spite of this, you will see that most of the Blake family groups that have been developed are from Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire. Some day research should be done on Massachusetts and New York where many of our relatives moved in the early years. Little was done on them for lack of time.

Much of this data is on a computer and the rest, hopefully, will be put on some time in the near future. Retrieval requires the full name, so each person's surname is listed. Also, each person gets a line. This means more paper used but it also means that future expansion becomes quite easy because new data can be inserted on the word processing machine. This cannot be done with a stiched up book. There are thousands of other descendants who belong in this book. I never expected to find this many but perhaps a Blake Family Association will some day be formed and will try to find all the Blakes who are descendants of Jasper Blake. Then the computer will come into full use.

Because of the format of the book, these additions can be made without a drastic renumbering of the pages and a reindexing. In many cases no new pages need be added.

As an aide to others in their research, I have included ALL the Blakes on the Census exhibits. Of course, some are from other Blake families. I had planned to include the 1850 Census of Illinois and Ohio but ran out of time. Many of our Blake Family settled there.

Perhaps some day a record will be found that will verify all the Ancestry of Jasper Blake. That which I have listed is all I could find. I believe there is more to be found if the place can be found where he spent some 20 years of his life. Much research has been done in England but none in Ireland. It is possible that he was there.

Hopefully this book will bring much pleasure and information to our Blake Family.

HOW TO READ THE NUMBERS

THIS NUMBERING SYSTEM WAS SELECTED FOR SEVERAL REASONS:

1. IT IS EASILY UNDERSTOOD
2. THE NUMBER OF PERSONS WHO CAN BE ADDED IS LIMITLESS
3. THE DEGREE OF RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN ANY TWO DESCENDANTS CAN BE DETERMINED
4. THE DATA IS ON COMPUTER AND INSERTS AND ADDITIONS CAN BE EASILY MADE

JASPER BLAKE HAS NO NUMBER - HE IS THE EMIGRANT. EACH DESCENDANT HAS A NUMBER ACCORDING TO POSITION IN THE FAMILY. ALL DESCENDANTS OF THE SECOND MARRIAGE WOULD FOLLOW THE DESCENDANTS OF THE FIRST MARRIAGE, THEREFOR THEY MAY BE MANY PAGES APART.

NUMBERS SHOULD BE READ FROM RIGHT TO LEFT. EACH NUMBER REPRESENTS A GENERATION. IF THE SURNAME CHANGES, A LETTER IS USED. IF THE SURNAME IS THE SAME, A NUMBER IS USED. THE LETTER OR NUMBER IS UNDERLINED IF THE PERSON IS FROM A SECOND MARRIAGE. EXAMPLE: 1-4-7-10-C-1-A-3 (FICTITIOUS) WOULD BE READ AS FOLLOWS:

THE THIRD CHILD-OF THE SECOND MARRIAGE OF THE FIRST CHILD-OF THE FIRST CHILD-OF THE THIRD CHILD-OF THE TENTH CHILD-OF THE SEVENTH CHILD-OF THE FOURTH CHILD OF-THE SECOND MARRIAGE OF THE FIRST CHILD, OF JASPER BLAKE.

THE CHILDREN OF THE SECOND MARRIAGE ARE UNDERLINED ONCE. THE CHILDREN OF A THIRD MARRIAGE WOULD BE UNDERLINED TWICE.

A BLAKE GIRL WOULD BE INDICATED BY A NUMBER BUT HER CHILDREN WOULD HAVE LETTERS.

I HAVE ATTEMPTED TO PUT ALL CHILDREN IN ORDER WITH A FEW EXCEPTIONS. TO FIND THE PARENTS OF ANYONE-GO TOWARD THE FRONT OF THE BOOK UNTIL YOU FIND THE SAME NUMBER BUT WITHOUT THE LAST DIGIT. REMOVING THE RIGHT HAND NUMBER GIVES THE FATHER'S NUMBER. EXAMPLE:

SOURCE CODE

BETWEEN THE--SEMI-COLONS WHICH SET OFF EACH ITEM OF DATA, YOU WILL USUALLY FIND A LETTER OR A NUMBER IN PARENTHESES WHICH GIVES THE SOURCE OF THAT PARTICULAR ITEM OF DATA. AN EFFORT WAS MADE TO FIND MORE THAN ONE SOURCE, BUT THIS WAS NOT ALWAYS SUCCESSFUL. VITAL RECORDS ARE NOT ALWAYS THE BEST SOURCE AS THEY ARE SOMETIMES INCORRECT. LINDA EDWARDS OF SEATTLE, WASHINGTON WHO MADE A TRIP TO WIMBOTSHAM, NORFOLK, ENG. AND OBTAINED MUCH DATA AND THE PHOTOGRAPHS IN THIS BOOK.

DEBBIE KIRWAN OF HAMPTON, N.H. WHO (ALTHOUGH OF A DIFFERENT BLAKE FAMILY) SENT ME MUCH DATA ON THE HAMPTON BLAKES.

CHARLOTTE JUNGE (95) AND RUBY JUNGE (95) SPENT MUCH TIME LOCATING LAND RECORDS.

EXPLANATION OF SOME TERMS USED IN BOOK

(S) In the old days we find the term "freeman", "Yeoman" "gent", or "gentlemen" of which the explanation is as follows:

By Massachusetts law at first only church members were freemen, and only such could vote or hold office. This law was somewhat modified in 1648 and non-freemen were allowed in town affairs but could not vote for Province officials or Deputies to the General Court. The law was further modified and men were allowed the full franchise as freemen if they took the freemen's oath.

In England people below the nobility and above the Plebians had various titles which were also used in early colonial life in America. An educated man or a man of wealth was called Mister. A man who could live without manual labor was called Gent or Gentleman. A man who owned land was a Yeoman and was designated by the title Goodman while his wife was designated as "Goodie". Magistrates were called "Esquire". Militia officers had military titles, and Ministers and Doctors had their respective titles.

Prior to 1700 children were given only a single Christian name and the double Christian name does not become common till after 1800. Most of the names were taken from the Bible, John being the name most often used, after which came: Samuel, Ebenezer, Joseph, Nathaniel, Jonathan, William, Thomas, Daniel, Stephen, James, and Moses.

Owing to an error in the calendar, established by Caeser, 46 BC, one day was lost in every 129 years. The English Parliament corrected the situation in 1752 when it shortened the month of September to 19 days. The change made a distinction between "old style" and "new style". Columbus discovered America October 12, 1492 "old style" but Oct 21 "new style".

Caesar began the year January first but the Christian calendar began with Easter, but as this was a movable date they reckoned back nine months from December 25th, the date of Jesus birth, which gave them March 25th, the date of his conception, and began the year then. In the 1752 change by Parliament, it was for a time the practice to designate with double figures the period between January 1, and March 25. Thus February 1, 1745-6 indicated the year 1745, beginning in March but the year 1746 beginning in January.

Massachusetts Bay in 1702 began the issue of Province bill. In 1736 the amount of silver at which bills could be redeemed was changed. The first bills were called "old tenor" and the new bills were called "new tenor". Later another change was made and there was "old tenor", "middle tenor", and "new tenor".

The English pound of sterling silver was originally coined into twenty shillings; other silver coins were the crown (5 shillings), the half-crown, six pence, four pence, and also the copper penny. Massachusetts in 1652 began to coin the pine tree shilling, which contained only 72 grains of silver as against the 92 grains in English shilling. This was so in order to keep these coins in America. Any silver coin was good money as the Spanish "piece of eight" worth 6 shillings.

ANCIENT BLAKES

The following is copied from an undated issue of Magazine of Western History. Probably issue c 1900.

Old Norman manuscripts, somewhat recently translated, and published in London, contain the names of Odo, Robert, Matthew, Unfried and William le Blache, under date of A.D. 1086, at which time Domesday Book also reports Robert le Blac as holding lands in Kent, England. In 1120 Godehart le Blac was in Carmanthenshire, Nicholas Blache was in Warwickshire in 1158, whose son, Geoffrey Blache, 1165, held from Pershire Abbey. Walter Blache occurs in 1273 in Somersetshire - the birthplace of Admiral Robert Blake. A Norman knight, Richard Blake, accompanied Prince John, afterwards King John, of England, upon the invasion of Ireland in 1185, and for his services obtained large grants of land, thus founding in Ireland "a branch of the great house of Blake". Another Richard Blake, in 1306, was the ancestor of the family of Blakes, Baronets of Langhan, County Suffolk and of Twisel Castle, County Durham. Of this ancient family was also John Blake, Gent., who was born in Somersetshire, 1583. He removed with some of his family to County Norfolk, and was buried in 1646 in Bunwell Church. Upon his monument were engraved the arms of Blake (identical with the arms of Blake of Somersetshire), having a fleur-de-lis for a difference.

THE FAMILY TREE

by Willis Corbitt of Portland, Oregon
#10-2-4-10-B-1-A

I think that I shall never see The finish of a Family Tree
As it forever seems to grow From roots that started very low;
'Way back in ancient history times, In foreign lands and distant climes.
From them grew trunk and branching limb, That dated back to time so dim.
One seldom knows exactly when The parents met and married then.
Nor when the twigs began to grow With odd named children, row on row.
'Though a verse like this is made by me, And the end's in sight as you can see;
'Tis not the same with Family Trees That grow and grow through centuries.

To the spouse who cannot understand the genealogist of the family: Thomas Overbury, a 17th century Englishman said, "The man who has not anything to boast of but his illustrious ancestors is like a potato - the only good belonging to him is underground".

Notes to the Family Genealogist

Do not be alarmed if your ancestor appears to have been born in three different places - at three different dates. I refuse to take the blame.

The explanation is simple: The birth record may give one date and place. The marriage record may give another because it was given by the groom. The death record was surely given by someone other than the deceased, probably a near relative, but not necessarily so. The Bible record may have been done from memory many years later by an elderly member of the family (who may have lost part of that memory). The person who ordered the monument for the cemetery may have done so many years after the death - all in altruism, but with a foggy memory. Also, baptisms are sometimes listed as births. But, I have been kind enough to list my source with the item of information. Sometimes they conflict. So, if you wish to check further for extreme accuracy, you will know the quickest place to search.

If Dow and Derby disagree, Please don't put the blame on me.
It's hard to prove Genealogy. So, I just write that which I see.
Talk face to face or write a letter, You never know which one is better.
Use the "glass" and strain your eyes, Microfiche is compromise.
Is it he or is it she? Two genealogists do not agree:
Olive or Oliver, which can it be? - I already said, "Please don't blame me".

- CIRCA -

Webster's Dictionary defines it: Cir-ca, sur'ka, adv (L) About; used esp. in giving approximate dates, and often abbreviated: c , cir , circ.; as: c1550.

The primary reason for using c in this genealogy is for indexing purposes. There are so many with the same first names that an approximate date is very helpful in the index for finding the right one. Where data was insufficient (or entirely lacking) I have given a date which is, hopefully, within a decade, certainly within a quarter century, so that it helps you.

THE NEWS OF 1780 TRAVELED SLOWLY AND THE MANY EVENTS TRANSPIRING IN THE SOUTH SEEMED REMOTE TO OUR NEW ENGLAND ANCESTORS, AND THEIR SIGNIFICANCE LOST DURING THE HARSH WINTER OF THE NORTH. THE GREAT SEA BATTLES ALSO WERE RECOGNIZED ONLY BY THE MILITARY AND NOT THE GENERAL POPULATION AS HIGHLY IMPORTANT. HOWEVER, THE SUFFERING OF THE TROOPS AT WINTER QUARTERS COULD BE FELT BY NEARLY EVERY FAMILY BECAUSE MOST HAD SOME FRIEND OR RELATIVE IN THE ARMY. AS LISTED, SOME OF OUR BLAKE FAMILY WERE AT VALLEY FORGE AND OTHER FAR AWAY PLACES. ALSO, MOST HAD SOME CONTINENTAL CURRENCY.

ANCESTRY OF JASPER BLAKE

(64) JASPER BLAKE, a seaman or fisherman, early settler of Hampton, N.H. First record as witness on a deed from James Davis, Sen. to Timothy Dalton, for land in Hampton, February 6, 1647. The name of Jasper is very unusual; the only other mention of it I have found is in a Norfolk, England family where the name is repeated so persistently that it would seem as if this must be the parent stock. This family is:

BLAKE OF WIMBOTSHAM

1. PETER BLAKE of Southeney, and afterwards of Wimbotsham, purchased the manor of Tonwalls from John Skott of London in 1466; will dated October 21, 1500; buried at Wimbotsham. By wife Elizabeth who survived him, had:
2. i. Peter Blake
   ii. Sir John Blake, clerk of Swaffham
   iii. Mary Blake, unm. in 1500
2. PETER BLAKE of Swaffham, Gent., had by wife____ ____, sister of Sir John Spilman, Kt.
3. JASPER BLAKE of Wimbotsham, Gent., devisee of manor of Tonwalls. Will dated July 17, 1547. Married 1st, Anne, daughter of Robert Blunderville of Newton Flotman; 2nd, Anne, daughter of John Pigott of Stradsett, Nor., Gent. By second wife had:
4. i. Peter Blake
   ii. Henry
   iii. Thomas, under age in 1547
   iv. John, under age in 1547
   v. Eleanor
   vi. Alice, under age in 1547
4. PETER BLAKE of Wimbotsham, married Beatrix Badiscroff, daughter of Richard Bekeswell. Will dated October 16, 1570. Buried October 24, 1570. Had:
   5. i. Jasper
      ii. John, of the Isle of Ely; d. s. p.
   6. iii. Thomas
      iv. Francis, b Dec 19, 1564
5. JASPER BLAKE, under age in 1570. Married, 1592, Anne, daughter of Thomas Amyas of Deopham in Norf., Gent. Buried at Wimbotsham, 1614. Had following children:
   7. i. Jasper, b 1592
      ii. Ellen, b Nov 26, 1593; d March, 1594
      iii. Beatrix, b Oct. 7, 1595; executrix to father's will; m Roger, son of Gregory Pratt of Ryston, who bought manor from Jasper Blake.
      iv. Anne, b 1597; d 1598
      v. Jane, b 1597; d 1598
6. THOMAS BLAKE had:
      i. Thomas Blake, clerk at Shelford in Cambridgeshire, Curate of Narford in same County; Vicar of Wereham, Norf., where buried in 1666; executor to his uncle's will.
7. JASPER BLAKE, bap. September 27, 1592; churchwarden, 1612; registered pedigree at Herald's College, 1614. Married Frances_____, living in 1624, and then his wife. In 1623 alienated all his lands to Roger Pratt.

(64) My theory is that Jasper (7) above, was the father or grandfather of Jasper Blake of Hampton.
Ed. note: Above published in 1894, independent research by Victor Sanborn.

(E) The original name "Aplake", "On the lake", passed thru various forms of spelling to become Blake. Jasper, pioneer to Hampton, came from the Blakes of Wimbotsham, - The generations of the family traced are:-
PETER BLAKE, first of Southeny, later of Wimbotsham, owner of the Manor Tonwalls in London, 1466.
PETER BLAKE, gent.
JASPER BLAKE, gent. devisee of above Manor Tonwalls.
PETER BLAKE of Wimbotsham, wills property to son Jasper.
JASPER BLAKE, Wimbotsham, married 1570.
JASPER BLAKE, born 1592, church warden; registered at Herald's College, fortunes lost after 1623, father of Jasper who came to America prior to 1643.
Ed. note: The above published in 1935 appears to be independent research by Rev. Roland D. Sawyer of Kensington, N.H.; he has error: Tonwalls is not in London.

Ed. note: I have found no PROOF of the connection between Jasper Blake of Hampton and the Blakes of Wimbotsham. The ancestry opinions of Sanborn, Sawyer and Stackpool and the Arms are included for your information. However, the most likely conclusion seems to be that Jasper Blake of Hampton was the son of Jasper Blake (b 1592) of Wimbotsham, Norfolk, England. But numerous books state that Jasper Blake b 1592 was the emigrant.

From a typed paper sent by a Blake in Michigan:

"The name of Jasper Blake was unusual and the Rev. E. S. Stackpool, DD of Bradford spent some time in England some years ago in a careful research in which he satisfied himself that he identified the American, Jasper, with a family in Norfolk, England, where the name of Jasper was repeated so persistently as to apparently be the parent stock. The family is Blake of Wimbotsham". -"The English record shows seven generations beginning with Peter Blake of Southeney, afterward of Wimbotsham, who purchased the manor Tonwells from John Scott of London in 1466. His will is dated Oct 21, 1500 and he was survived by a Widow Elizabeth. Of his three children, Peter had a son Jasper who is known as Jasper of Wimbotsham, devisee of Manor Tonwells. Of his six children another Peter appears who in turn had four children, one of them a Jasper. This Jasper had four children, one of whom, a Thomas, had a son another Jasper, who was baptized Sept 27, 1592. We find him church warden in 1612, and still living in 1624. This Jasper is supposed to be the father of the Jasper Blake of Hampton, N.H." "In the Blake family in America we find the customary "Three brothers" tradition; but analyzed we find the patriarchal Blakes to have been a William Blake who came to Dorchester, Massachusetts in 1630 in the ship MARY & JOHN, and from whom the Dorchester Blakes have descended. A Richard Blake who came to Dorchester in 1638 was probably a nephew of William, and died at Andover, Mass. without issue."

"JASPER BLAKE is found at Hampton, N.H. in 1634. There is NOTHING TO CONNECT HIM WITH THE DORCHESTER BLAKES, AND FROM HIM SPRANG THE NEW HAMPSHIRE BLAKES OF WHICH YOU AND I ARE A PART"

William B. Blake

Ed. Note: - Above by William B. Blake states date of 1634, but I can find nothing before 1643. Perhaps this is typo? Capital letters added for emphasis.

Ed. Note: From the above we find that Jasper Blake (b 1592) "lost his fortunes after 1623" and "alienated all his lands to Roger Pratt" (his brother-in-law); was living in 1614 at the time of his father's death -- but was not executor of his father's will! HIS SISTER, BEATRIX, WAS EXECUTRIX! This indicates to me that Jasper Blake (b 1592) was not available. In 1612 he was Churchwarden and two years later, in the year of his father's death, registered his Arms. (Why register if there is no issue?) In 1624 his wife was Frances_____. I believe he was out of the county and for some reason not presumed to be available to be executor of his father's estate. Further research may discover his whereabouts and his family.

ORIGIN OF THE NAME OF BLAKE
(take your pick)

1. From a typed paper sent by a Blake in Michigan:
   The original surname of Blake is supposed to have been Aplake which would indicate that the family was Welsh in its original locality: viz: "The family on or by the Lake".
   Note: See "The Story of Language" by Mario Pei page 78 which gives the Celtic form as O' - the gaelic & Welsh as Mc, Mac and Ap - and the anglo-norman form as Fitz. - -
   This original Aplake we find as one of the Knights of King Arthur's Round Table. After this, the name passed through various changes, dropping the A to Plake, then corrupted to Blaake, finally to Blake.
2. From Ancestral Heads of N.E. Families by Frank R. Holmes:
   BLAKE: Ancient English family; the name is a corruption of British Ap Lake, from Ap signifying from, or son, and Lake - - the son of Lake. The name has its origin in descriptive adjective of color, and was applied to one whose complexion was of dark color. The family went to Ireland with Strongbow. Ap Lake was one of the Knights of Arthur's Round Table. It is recorded in its present form in the Hundred Rolls of 1273, in which appears Hans le Blake. The name is also mentioned in the rolls of subsiders, 1286, in Wiltshire. Robert de Blake was a resident of Calne, adjoining the family estates in Blakeland, in the reign of Edward III.
3. Rev. C. M. Blake, N.D., noted genealogist and author, of San Francisco, a descendant of William and Agnes Blake of Dorchester, Mass., stated in 1877 "The ancestors of William, in England, have been traced four generations; and the name is known to earliest times in British annals. It means "black" which Chaucer spells "blake".
4. Dictionary of names: BLAKE - pale, yellow (Blaek, Bleak) Scotch.

Blake

ARMS OF THE BLAKES OF WIMBOTSHAM

BURKE'S GENERAL ARMORY lists 21 different Coats of Arms for the various BLAKE families. Burke's is the generally recognized authority on English Heraldry.

(64) ARMS, Ermine a pile embattled-counter-embattled sable, between 2 lions gambs erect and erased, gules; over all a bend, vert.

From a typed paper sent by a Blake in Michigan:
ARMS - ermine, a pile embattled counter, embattled sable between two lions, gambs erect, and erased gules; over all a bendvert.

(E) ARMS - "Ermine, a pile embattled, counter embattled, sable, between two lion's gambs erect and erased, gules, over all a bend vert."

From Burke's General Armory:

BLAKE (Swaffham, co. Norfolk)
Erm. on a pale engr. sa. bezantee' betw. two lions' paws erect and erased gu. a mullet ar. over all a bend vert.

BLAKE (Wimbotsham, co. Norfolk)
Erm. a pile embattled, counter embattled sa. bezantee' betw. two lions' paws erect and erased gu. over all a bend vert.

Ed. note: please note the similarity of the Blake arms of Swaffham and the Blake arms of Wimbotsham. This shows a family relationship.

Ed. note: the only difference between (64)(E) and Burke's description of Blake of Wimbotsham is the addition of the word bezantee'. It would appear that Jasper Blake forgot to include that when he registered his arms.

Ed. note: if you were to order a BLAKE coat of arms or a BLAKE family crest ring from a commercial house in the United States, you would probably get the one belonging to the other branch of the Blake family which settled in Dorchester, Mass. Possibly you would receive that of Admiral Blake. An example of one from a mail-order house gives the following:

ARMS - "Argent, a fret gules. A cat passant guardant proper."
Motto on bottom:
"Virtus sola Nobilitat" (Virtue is the only nobility)

Please note that this entirely different coat of arms shows no family relationship to the BLAKES OF WIMBOTSHAM.
If Jasper Blake was of the Blakes of Wimbotsham, which appears probable, any relationship to the Blakes of Dorchester must have been before the 12th Century.

I have repeatedly found the following statement in books on genealogy and in Family Histories and Town Histories:
"All the Blakes of New England were descended from the Blakes of Dorchester, Mass."
This is simply not true. There were 4 or 5 separate Blake families as early immigrants to New England. There are probably almost as many Blakes who are descended from Jasper Blake as from the Dorchester Blakes. However, almost nothing has been published about the descendants of Jasper Blake, whereas many books have been written about the other Blakes of Dorchester.

Each of the items which comprise a coat of arms has a meaning. The true meaning is probably lost in antiquity but sometimes can be ascertained by research. The following description of the words which determine the composition is in laymen's terms (if you are not a layman, you don't need it). ERMINE is a furry animal, this shows that the field (basic color)is white, with little black animals; a pile: this is the triangle; embattled: the indentation like embattlements; counter embattled: means that they are embattled-][-on both sides; sable: pile is black; bezantee': roundels, like gold coins of Byzantium; between two lions gambs: lion's paws (the lion often signifies royalty); erect: the paws are erect as opposed to a prone lion; erased: jagged edges on paws as if torn rather than cut; gules: red paws; over all a bend: the diagonal stripe; vert: the stripe is green.

The ARMS OF THE BLAKES OF WIMBOTSHAM, as shown, are the work of my friend IRVING LYONS of Alexandria, Virginia, who is an Heraldic Artist for the United States Government.

WHY DID JASPER BLAKE LEAVE ENGLAND ?

We know that Jasper Blake b 1592 at Wimbotsham had lost his fortunes. If this was the Jasper Blake who emigrated to Hampton, as some believe and as listed in many books, then he probably was trying to recoup.

But, there has been a tradition in the Blake Family that Jasper Blake left England because of religious persecution. During this time period there was great religious dissention causing much death and anguish.

Henry the Eighth became King in 1509 and married Katherine of Arragon whom he divorced in 1532 without permission of the Pope--leading to trouble. He died in 1547 and Edward VI ascended but died soon after. Then the daughter of Henry VIII, Mary, ascended in 1553. Henry had persecuted Catholics but Mary was Catholic and now proceeded to persecute Protestants. The leading Protestant Clergy were condemned to the flames and great numbers were tortured and put to death by "Bloody Mary".

But she died in 1558 and her place was taken by Elizabeth, daughter of Henry VIII and the murdered Queen Anne Boleyn who then established Protestantism as the religion of England. Lots of good reading in your Public Library (probably listed under "gore").

Thus, it became against the law to attend services of a clergyman not belonging to the Church of England. Many were killed because they wished to attend different Protestant churches. These "nonconformists" became a very determined opposition and the ones who professed to follow the "Pure word of God" were called Puritans and were in the lead of the opposition, especially after 1564.

Meanwhile in Scotland, there was a population seeking land when James came to the throne in 1603 and came into possession of Northern Ireland. He resettled thousands of Scots in Ulster which was a wild and lawless province, nearly unoccupied except for lingering bands of Irish. James, hoping to convert the Scotch from Presbyterians to Episcopalians, offered the land on such favorable terms that they could hardly refuse. They flourished for nearly 30 years, but the Irish among them looked on them as invaders and their hate grew. Both lived together in harmony, so it was thought.

But, in 1641, when there was disturbance in England and Scotland and the settlers could get no help from the Crown, a conspiracy developed. There was conflict between the King and Parliament and there were few troops in Ireland

8,000 Catholic soldiers were disbanded by King Charles and help was promised from France. All the English and Scotch in the island were only one sixth of the population, were unarmed and unaware of the plot. The plan was to rise in all parts of the kingdom at once and wipe out the unsuspecting Protestants by death. The plot was discovered in Dublin which saved it and the close area, but in the North of Ireland was carried out with great cruelty.

On the morning of Oct 23, 1641 the Catholics, being everywhere intermingled with the Protestants, fell upon them by surprise and commenced their contemplated butchery on every hand. The Protestants, outnumbered five to one, unarmed, scattered, and surprised, had no chance at all. Their neighbors whom they had befriended and instructed, became their murderers. Whole families were butchered, one after another, slowly, so that each living one might see the anguish of the dying before enduring the same cruel fate.

The Irish women went further than their husbands in exquisite torture of young mothers and helpless children. Of this quiet and harmless people, who had not shown the least unkindness to the Catholics, nor been in any open way opposed to them, living in neighborly love and peace, it has been estimated that two hundred thousand were thus butchered in a single day. The English colonists in northern Ireland were nearly wiped out and many Scotch fled back to Scotland. The Scotch who remained were then constantly on the defensive until 1649 when Cromwell subdued the Irish. The Papists were disarmed and the Protestants armed. From this fact arose the habit of firing guns at Scotch weddings.

In this atmosphere of religious turmoil we find Jasper Blake listed as a Churchwarden in 1612 at Wimbotsham, Rev. Timothy Dalton seeking emigrants in Norfolk County, Jasper losing his title to Tonwalls, registering at Herald's College in 1623 and emigrating to Hampton about 1643. His location (or his son's) during this 20 year period is still unknown.

THE RULERS OF ENGLAND

Excerpted from History of Antrim, N.H. by Rev. W. R. Cochrane

Prior to 55 BC native Britons as wild tribes who were conquered by the Romans
55 BC to 449 AD under Roman Rule - until withdrawal by Rome
449 AD the Scots took over from Romans for short time until the Britons asked in 449 AD for help from German Tribes of Saxons, Angles and Jutes and 7,000 warriors expelled the Scots. Then with 5,000 more Saxons, they took over the country and ruled it for three hundred years, as seven little kingdoms.
827 AD Egbert of Wessex united them into one which was called England (Angles Land) and held it 23 years, after which the government returned to the Saxons until William the Norman in 1066 AD conquered them and gained the throne.

WIMBOTSHAM

From Bloomfield's History of Norfolk County 1807

At the general survey called Winebotesham and Winebodesham, from its site, a dwelling by the water.

ABBOT OF RAMSEY'S MANOR

King Edgar gave this manor, with one in Downham, into which it extended, to this abbey; in the Conqueror's time it consisted of 2 carucates of land, to which there belonged 13 borderers, 2 carucates also in domain, etc. In the 35th of Henry III, the abbot had a charter for tree warren in all--lands. At this town the gaol for the hundred of Clacklose, which belonged to the abbot as lord of the hundred, was kept; and in 1258, William Brito, one of the King's judges, held by the King's writ a gaol delivery of many robbers, etc taken in and without the abbot's liberty. In the 3rd of Edward I, this manor, with that of Helgy, the market of Dunham, and the hundred and half of Clackline -etc -

TONWELL MANOR

Hermerus de Ferrariis, on the conquest, seized on 40 acres of land here, held by 3 freemen, in the time of the Confessor, which constituted this lordship--etc--The possessions of Hermerus descended to the Lords Bardolph of Wormegey, and became part of that honour or barony, and William LORD Bardolph, in the 38th of Henry III, had a grant of free warren here. In the reign of Henry VI, John Tonwell, senior, was lord, and held it of the aforesaid honour, and paid a quitrent for lands which he held here for the abbot of Ramsey. In 1500, Peter Blake died possessed of it, and by his will, dated 21st of October, bequeaths it to his nephew Jasper Blake; Elizabeth his wife, Thomas Blake, Esq. William Skypwith, Esq. executors. Jasper died lord, as appears by his will dated 17th of July 1547. In the 18th of James I, Roger Pratt, Gent. held it; after this I meet with no further account of it, being soon after (as I conceive) joined to the above mentioned lordship.

THE CHURCH OF WIMBOTSHAM
from Bloomfield's

The Church of WIMBOTSHAM is dedicated to St. Mary, is a single pile of rag-stone and bolder, covered with reed, with a broad square tower of the aforesaid materials, embattled and coped with free stone, with a carved pinnacle at each corner, in which hang three bells; round the Crown of the first is the name of the Virgin MARY in a cypher, with this motto, ORA PRO NOBIS; on the 2d, CELISTI: MANNA: TUA: PROLES: NOS:CIBAT: ANNA. It is in legth about 52 fret, and about 22 in breadth, the roof is camerated and impanelled with oak, on the mitres of which are several small antique heads of saints, kings, etc. and at the east end the bust (as it seems) of the Virgin, with a legend.

On the head of an old seat of oak are the arms of Spelman of Narburgh, impaled by Blake; ermin, on a pile indented sable, bezanty, between two lions gambs erect and erased, gules, and an orle of escollops of the 2d, a bendlet over all, vert.

In the church were formerly the arms of Inglethorp, gules, a cross ingrailed, argent, impaling sable, a fess dauncy, and three mullets in chief, pierced, argent.

The chancel is about 25 feet long, and 17 broad, the communion table is railed in, the whole is covered with reed.

WIMBOTSHAM CHURCH

Notes on the Church of

ST. MARY THE VIRGIN

WIMBOTSHAM

by J. C. Turner

The Church of St. Mary the Virgin is not mentioned in Domesday Book (1085) but that does not mean the non-existence of a church at that date.

It was not the purpose of the Commissioners to record churches and when this does occur, it is merely a matter of interest to the particular Commissioner.

The church is first mentioned in a document, undated, but from internal evidence, attributable to about 1230, which records that "John de Yngolsthorp is the patron of Wimbotsham church to which belong 30 acres of arable land and 3 acres of pasture held by the parson of the aforesaid church". The name of the parson is unfortunately omitted and, apart from a solitary entry in the Ramsey Abbey Cartulary, of Thomas de Docking rector of Wimbotsham in 1253, the list of Wimbotsham rectors does not begin until early in the 14th century.

The founder of the church is unknown but as the building was erected on land belonging to the Manor of Ingoldisthorp, the probability is either a member of the de Warenne family who were the tenants-in-capite of the manor or of their mediate tenants Roger de Welle and the later Ingoldisthorpes.

The oldest part of the existing building is the nave constructed of the local rag-stone with ashlar dressings obtained from the quarry at Barnwell and is, apparently, the original Norman erection of approximately the period 1170-1190.

There are two fine Norman doorways in the nave, the one on the north side having the arch decorated with twisted cable and double billet mouldings and a plain roll: the arch rests on each side on a cylindrical shaft with cap and base; the tympanum is plain. The doorway is covered by a porch of transitional style between late Decorated and Perpendicular (late 14th - early 15th century).

The doorway on the south side is more elaborate the arch having two shafted orders - the outer shafts are twisted and the inner ones covered with zig-zag work; the arch-moulds consist of double billet, zig-zag, and twisted cable work; the tympanum is plain.

The windows of the nave, with one exception, are of the 15th century or later and of no particular merit. The exception is the window on the south side near the piscina; it is an interesting example of 'plate tracery' or the combination of two distinct lancet windows under the same arch and could be late 13th - early 14th century.

The tower is of later date (14th century) and has a Perpendicular Gothic west window (15th century).

The belfry contains three bells:-

1. Attributed by L'Estrange to a London foundry cast by Derby. It bears the inscription:-
   ± SANCTA ± MARIA ± ORA ± PRO ± NOBIS. On the crown. Three crowned heads. Date uncertain.
2. Cast at Norwich by the Brasyer family. It bears the inscription:-
   ± CELESTI MANNA TUA PROLES NOS CIBET ANNA.
   On the crown. Three shields. Brasyer diapered. Date C. 1470-1513.

3. THOMAS NEWMAN MADE ME 1726.

In the inventory of church goods compiled in 1552 three bells are recorded but the 'lytell' bell was confiscated by the Commissioners and from that date to 1726 there were only two bells both of which are still perfect. About 1905 the 1726 bell cracked and is now useless.

The west arch leading into the tower is pointed and of two orders plainly chamfered throughout.

In addition to the plate-tracery window already mentioned, the nave contains two other features worthy of notice, the beautiful Early English piscina on the south side and the rood-stair leading to the rood-loft on the north side.

Previous to the alterations of the 1850's, a sqint pierced the southern side of the chancel arch level with the piscina thus allowing a view of the chief altar from that point and suggesting the existence of a chantry-chapel. Perhaps for the Blake family who were the resident Lords of the Manor of Tunwells in Wimbotsham from 1470 to 1621 and most of whom are buried in the church.

The rood-loft probably remained until the suppression of chantries in the reign of Edward VI.

The nave roof is a fine specimen of seven cants dated about 1480-1500 the whole being divided into square panels with a richly carved boss at each intersection.

The chancel-arch is Norman of two shafted orders with plain roll mouldings on the west side only. East of the chancel-arch the whole building is part of the 1853-54 restoration retaining only the foundations, Norman corbel-table and the sounder portions of ragstone work which were incorporated into the rebuilding.

The previous chancel had been square ended with the eastern gable containing a three-light window (late 14th - early 15th century) which was removed and in 1869 inserted in the south gable of the new village school where it remained until 1912 when it was again removed to become at last a rockery in the garden of a Bexwell Road resident.

The south wall of the original chancel showed traces of a 'low-side' window destroyed, however, during the re-building Johnson's 1838 sketch shows traces of an arch on the exterior masonry of the east gable and when the ground immediately eastwards was opened semi-circular foundations were revealed indicating the previous existence of an apse, which, presumably, had been demolished to make way for the above-mentioned three-light window; it was on these old foundations that the present apse was erected. The space now enclosed by the apse was occupied by the graves and tombstones of various members of the Garnham family who farmed the Tunwells manor farm (Lower Farm now-a-days) from 1760-1839; the graves were undisturbed but the stones were removed and the names commemorated on a square pillar placed immediately east of the new apse, which pillar was often used as a test of youthful credulity, the victim being informed that if he placed his headgear on the cross which formerly surmounted the pillar and then ran full tilt round the church, by the time he arrived at the starting point, his hat would have disappeared - which it did! Then being told that to recover his property, it would be necessary for him to run round the church again but in the opposite direction and at once: let it be recorded that the panting victim was usually allowed to behold his property re-adorning the cross!

By the middle of the 19th century, the church at Wimbotsham, like those of most villages throughout the country, was in a condition of semi-decay owing, chiefly, to the rough treatment received during the 17th century plus the deliberate neglect of the 18th and early 19th centuries.

Operations were put in hand by the Rev. G.H.Dashwood, the then rector and an accomplished antiquarian: an Office of Works being set up in part of the former work-house which was still standing and used as a private house and Mr. Harris became Clerk of the Works.

The thatched roof was removed in 1853 and the church was roofless for about a year and the walls of the nave were raised about two feet for the new slate roof. When the thatched roof was removed from the chancel, the walls were found to be insecure and were almost completely demolished, being rebuilt with the sound sections of ragstone in addition to the new material needed to make up the deficiency; the original Norman corbel-table was replaced as at present. Though the tower possessed pinnacles in Blomefield's time (1720-30), they had disappeared by the 1830's - both Johnson's and Ladbrook's sketches proving this and fragments may be found by careful searching in the churchyard wall.

The pinnacles were duly replaced by new ones and the plain parapets by the present embattled ones.

The bell staging on examination showed signs of death-watch beetle so the bells were let down to the tower floor where they remained while the whole of the tower wood-work was renewed.

In the nave and chancel, a considerable amount of old benching remained but in a dilapidated condition: most, if not all of this, was cleared out and replaced by the present collection of real and unreal creatures. They were executed in the nearby work-house Office of Works by the most celebrated 19th century wood-carver in England - James Rattee -who was born at Fundenhall near Norwich in 1820, settled later at Cambridge where he died in 1855 and is buried there: his most famous work is the reredos in Ely Cathedral.

Note on the carvings in the nave.

On the north side (near pulpit)

Poppy head with a human face - perhaps featuring a local character.

On the south side

East End. Monk telling his beads.

Pew near piscina. Human figure in ecclesiastical garb supporting a shield bearing the arms of Spelman impaling Blake.

The letters E.S. for Elizabeth (?) Spelman surmount the arms of Peter Blake and the letters P.B. the arms of the Spelman family.

The Peter Blake is probably the founder of the family in Wimbotsham in 1470 who died in 1500 and is buried in Wimbotsham church.

West end. Poppy head formed by a pair of pelicans.

The whole of the stone carving including the new corbel-tables, font and pulpit was the work of William Lawrie who was born at Upavon in Wiltshire, settled in Downham and was buried in Bexwell churchyard in 1891 aged 74.

Some of the work was carried out by local craftsmen: a good bit of the joinery including the north and south doors was the work of Henry Pond and the new iron-work on the doors was copied from the ancient examples shown on Cotman's view of the south door by Robert Sherwood, repectively the village carpenter and village blacksmith of the day.

As a black mark against the restorers, the white washing of the Saint Christopher on the south wall must be recorded but under successive coats of whitewash, he may still be lurking and, finally, the new pinnacles so carefully carved by the hand of Lawrie were found to be insecure and were recently sent crashing to the ground. "Sic transit etc!"

The registers commence with the year 1562 and, excepting the hiatus of two years mentioned below, are complete and in good condition.

The continuous list of Rectors begins in 1313 with the name of Ralph Sawyer followed by 1779	Philip Bell	1912	Charles E.H.Wilford	1964	Malcolm Donald, the present Incumbent.

Though the livings of Wimbotsham and Stow were originally separate each having its own incumbent, towards the end of the 17th century the Wimbotsham rectory had become dilapidated and it became the practice for both livings to be held by the same incumbent who resided at Stow Vicarage: this practice was at length regularised in 1769 when Dr. Thomas Moore, in addition to being the patron, held both livings, petitioned for their consolidation.

Meantime the rectory had, apparently, remained untenanted: it stood in one of the glebe closes known as Kate Longs Meadow or Catlings Meadow (the real name being uncertain), the approach being known as Catling's drove - to a later generation better known as Horne's drove.

Incidentally, it was Dr. Thomas Moore who built the middle portion of the present Stow Vicarage, the two wings being added by Mr. Dashwood.

JASPER BLAKE, probably (64) son of Jasper Blake and Frances_____, prob b c1614 at Wimbotsham in Norfolk, England; died Jan 5, 1674 at Hampton, N.H. (C); his will made July 18, 1673; probably he arrived with brother-in-law, Timothy Dalton in 1639 (C); first written record as a witness on deed in Hampton in 1647 for Timothy Dalton (b); (f) says he was married 4 times but gives no source and John Farmer says same with no source; (C) he owned several tracts of land in Hampton, one of 8 acres on which he prob resided, and a farm of 100 acres received by gift from Rev. Dalton; he was self-styled "mariner" but certainly was farmer in Hampton and if he had ships or made voyages, there seems no record except a deed calling him a fisherman; certainly a prominent man in early Hampton; The Compendium of American Genealogy by Virkus lists Jasper Blake born 1592 and died 1643, which may be data for father of emigrant; Genealogical Guide to Early Settlers states: "Joseph Blake, of Hampton, died Feb 11, 1673. In his will he named wife Deborah and children Timothy, Israel, John, Joshua and Deborah" which proves you should not rely on these books, for we see that it has the name and date incorrect; (D) states: "Rev. Timothy Dalton was b in England in 1577. He graduated from Cambridge in 1613. Came to Dedham, Mass. in 1637 and stayed there for 1 1/2 years then removed to Hampton, N.H." so it is possible that Deborah Dalton was dau of Rev. Timothy Dalton but most sources believe her to be the sister; if Jasper Blake was married 4 times and Deborah was his 4th wife, this would mean that date 1592 for his birth is correct; the marriage to Deborah Dalton prob occurred in 1648 with first child born 1649; the book "English Home of Mr. Timothy Dalton, B.A. the Teacher of the Church of Jesus Christ in Hampton, N.H. from 1639 to 1661" states:"the family consisting of two brothers, Timothy and Philemon Dalton, with their respective wives and sons, namely: Ruth and Timothy, Jr. and Hannah and Samuel, and their sister, Deborah, the wife of Jasper Blake of the same plantation" - "the elder Timothy left no surviving issue" - "we have no account of Deborah prior to the birth of her first child, Timothy Blake at Hampton in 1649, nor of Philemon, earlier than his immigration in 1635, nor of Timothy, anterior to his matriculation"-"the town books (1649) describe her (Deborah) as the wife of Jasper Blake. She must have been a young woman at that time having eleven children afterward"-"for ourself, we accept unhesitatingly the ancient tradition that she was their sister"-"Among her twelve children were five with Dalton names, to wit: Timothy, Philemon, Samuel, Dorothy and Deborah"-"no similar coincidence is to be found in any other Hampton household of that date"-"the minister had a daughter Deborah in England who was born in 1619 and who died in 1624"-"the minister, in 1657, divided his Hampton farm equally between Deborah Blake's husband and two of Mrs. Dalton's kinsmen"-"the will of Jasper Blake made in 1673, appoints'my cosen' (nephew) Mr. Samuel Dalton to be the overseer in the settlement of Estate"; NOTE: Author's opinion: unless the father of Rev. Timothy Dalton remarried, it is quite unlikely that Deborah was his sister because Rev. Dalton's mother would be nearly age 70 by 1625 which is a good estimate of the year of birth of Deborah Dalton, so the Author believes Deborah to be a "replacement" daughter of Rev. Timothy Dalton; Jasper Blake married Deborah Dalton who was b c1625 in England;

7. Jasper Blake b Sept 16, 1663 (A) or Nov 16, 1663 (C); d Dec 19, 1678; search for inquest was fruitless; apparently unusual death as inquest was held;

8. Samuel Blake b June 6, 1666 (C) or Apr 6, 1666 (A); Diary of Dea. Sam'l Dow states (E) "In Queen Anne's War, shot and killed by Indians on the fourth Sabbath of June, 1706 at age 40"; the index to Kingston, N.H. Town Records states: Samuel Blake, born June 27, 1666, concernting the death of, Verdict put on file, Vol 2, page 118b; a search for verdict fruitless; search for any descendants also fruitless but he probably was married with a family by age 40; there are many Blakes living in Kittery, Me. area and a search there gave me much data but not that far back, however, there is possibility that some of these Blakes are descended from Samuel. If he was resident of Hampton at time of death, it should have been recorded there, so it appears he was resident elsewhere. During this period of time the name of Blake was often spelled "Black", as mentioned re John #4 of Greenland, N.H. This also occurred at Epping and Epsom. The book

Saco Valley Settlements and Families by G. T. Ridlon, Sr. lists on page 465: Josiah Black was in Kittery by 1718 and PROBABLY came over with Scotch-Irish that year. Samuel "son of widow Black" was in York in 1727. A Wm. Black made will in Kittery Jan 1, 1727, wife's name Sarah, sons William and Joshua, grandsons William, Benjamin and Jonathan. Joshua Black made will in Kittery Jan 19, 1753 and mentions ch: Jonathan, Henry, Thomas, Mary, Sarah, Alma, Catherine and Margery. Thomas Black of Kittery made will Apr 30, 1756. They went to Scarborough from Kittery and also to Bethel, Me.; The History of York, Me. and Her Families lists on page 297: Daniel and Josiah Black were settled in York before 1700, and their families are there recorded. William Black's will was probated 1 Jan 1727-8. It names wife Sarah and sons William and Joshua. William then had ch William and Elizabeth, and soon after he and his family moved to Bailey's Island, Harpswell, Me. Joshua, son of William Black, made his will in 1753, which was probated 6 Apr 1756. His wife Mary is not named. Descendants are still living in Kittery, and some have CHANGED THEIR NAME TO BLAKE. Children recorded were:
Benjamin b 19 Apr 1719 not named in will
Jonathan b 15 Feb 1720 Mary b 1 Jan 1722 Joshua b 27 Dec 1724 and d 3 May 1742
Henry b 27 Dec 1724 and d Feb following Henry b 1 Dec 1726 Thomas b Aug 1728 d 1729
Sarah b 12 May 1730 pub to Nicholas Collins 18 May 1754 Almy or Amy b 8 Mar 1731
Catherine b 15 May 1734 Thomas b Oct 1738 d c1756 unm Margery b 19 Aug 1739

It seems highly unlikely that Samuel Blake b 1666 would not have acquired a wife and ch long before his demise in 1706. As he is not mentioned in Church records in Hampton or in Hampton Falls, it seems likely that he moved to another area. Kittery and York were budding towns with good prospects for both farming and maritime endeavors. His brother Israel had died in 1678 at age 24 possibly from results of King Philip's War. His brother, John had all his childred recorded at Falmouth, Me. (43) and apparently settled there. Sister, Sarah's birth was recorded both at Hampton and at Portsmouth which is only a short trip from Kittery. His brother, Jasper, died in 1678 only two weeks after Israel. Brother, Philemon, was a part owner of a ship which certainly was large enough to make trips from Hampton to Kittery and to York. Note that all the male names listed above in Kittery and York also appear in the ch of Samuel's brothers. No one seems to know the name of the husband of the "Widow Black" who was in York in 1727 and had a son named Samuel. However, George L. Black of Sarasota, Florida has researched some of the above listed Blacks and states that there is no connection to our Blake Family. But, I wonder about the "widow Black" and her son Samuel.

Note: the death records (A) show an Abraham Blake who died June 5, 1759 at Kensington, N.H. at age 82. This would mean that he was b 1677. I find no other record. If this record is correct, it seems highly unlikely that he was of a different Blake family. He was b in same year in which Timothy Blake #1 was married or in year after, as death may have been in 82nd year. It is possible that there was no birth record in Hampton for him and that he married outside of Hampton and is not included in Dow's History. It is also possible that (A) record is incorrect or that I misinterpreted the handwriting. He seems not recorded elsewhere.

(u) age 87 yr 11 mo; Cs 1850 Lowell, Vt.: Timothy 45, Ann 41, Abigail 22, John 20, William 18, Joseph 9, all b Vt.; Timothy Blake filed a Claim for Pension for War of 1812 on Aug 6, 1888 at his age 86 in which he states that his father's name was Joseph, his father was a member of Capt Folletts Co in 11th U.S. Inf and got taken sick and obliged to come home, Timothy Blake went as his substitute and was a waiter for officers in Co. of 11th U.S. Inf, "I was b 1803 at Stafford, Vt. and enlisted Jan 8, 1813 at age 10 and served until Battle of Plattsburgh where I was wounded on July 5, 1814, my residence was Enosburgh until 40 years of age, then Lowell, Vt. for about 20 years, then Montpelier then to Johnson, Vt."; this claim was attested by Edmund Perkins and Andrew J. Blake (age 64 of Johnson, Vt); The widow's brief filed June 6, 1890 by Ann Wedge Blake age 82 of Johnson, Vt. states she m Timothy Blake at Enosburgh in Dec 1827, m by Elder Cole, Min of Gos. and that Timothy Blake d at Johnson, Vt. on May 9, 1890, at enlistment he was 5'4" dark hair, blue eyes, 150 lbs; The Adj. Gen office states Timothy Blake enl at Bennington Jan 8, 1813 by Capt Follett and was transferred to 6th Inf in 1815 and disch Feb 1816 and that Harvey D. Blake enlisted on same day and served in same companies and procured a substitute in Feb 1816; Even though Timothy Blake was able to list several of his comrades in arms in the same company and they were verified by records, his pension claim and the widow's claim were both denied with a comment on one item dated July 11, 1887 "this man was 11 years old when the war ended"; of course he was older than that, but the Census of 1850 listed him as born in 1805 by showing his age as 45 in 1850, this could be the basis of the denial; he m Dec 30, 1827 at Enosburgh, Vt. My Dear Grandson, Herbert P.

I have no doubt but what you will think I am a long time in getting ready to answer your very kind letter-so I have-but it is not because I have forgotten you-or mean to neglect you, but thought I had nothing to write that would interest you much till I went down to the Point (Magoon's Point) then I had so much talking and visiting that I could not get time-for I was all the time on the move- I went to your UNCLE WILDERS first- made that headquarters. They are all very well. Your uncle W. looks persisely as he did when we left Canada not a day older but AUNT ELECTA has grown old-much thinner in flesh than formerly, but just the same otherwise, the next day after I got to your Uncle Wilders (Tuesday) I went to THADS found almost everybody was there, your UNCLE CHAUNCEY & Gilbert's folks and the Ladies aid society met there in the afternoon from Georgeville. Your UNCLE C. has renewed his age and is about getting a new wife, a widow FERRIL or some such name. She lives near GILBERT'S. I presume your Father and Mother know her-but I do not- his CHILDREN are making quite a fuss about it. I cannot tell you the particulars it will take up to much time and paper.

GILBERT AND ESTHER have grown old considerably, especially Esther, their two oldest children have grown up, LESLIE is as tall as you are and fine looking- but CORA is very plain looking nat half as pretty as she used to be-they have a pretty BABY and smart too-your UNCLE THADDEUS has changed very much, his hair is nearly as grey as your Fathers and he is thin as a shad-his health is very poor-SALINA looks very much as she used to only a little older-just the same in other respects-they talk as if they should visit you some time-I think that Gilbert would sell and go to Kansas if his WIFE was willing to but she is not willing to leave all her friends and go to a new country.

Wednesday after dinner your UNCLE W. and Aunt LECTA and I went over to your UNCLE AARONS had a splendid visit-they have not changed as much in looks as I expected though your AUNT BETSEY's hair is quite grey-it is astonishing to see the amount of work she does-more than any three ought to do-they have 29 cows and she has no help but EAT(?) as they call her goes to school the most of the time- your Aunt does the work in house in forenoon then after dinner goes into the hayfield or harvest field and does more work than the hired man-she helps milk all cows night and morning-she works harder than any slave ever did-their farm is under a mortgage she hope to lift it-but your UNCLE WILDER says he dont think they can possibly-the mortgage is four thousand dollars-not a small sum. IDA is at home now having her vacation-her health is very poor, she is not going back to Montreal at present-she is going to teach in the academy at Magog the next four terms-if she is able-I shall not be able to go through with whole of my visit at the point this time to be continued some other time- All your Uncles, Aunts and cousins wished so much you and your Father and Mother was here to visit with us-Your Uncle Wilder would say a dozen times a day that he wished that WESLEY AND BERT were here to go a fishing with him, and Aunt LEC would say how I wish AMELIA was here, too;

A second letter as follows was dated Sept 18, 1878

FRANKIE BLAKE is a very nice looking and a splendid girl. I should say she is as smart as a whip - CARLTON looks very much as he did when a CHILD though he IS A MAN - I guess he is smart for business but he is not as pretty as Frank- both going to Derby to SCHOOL this fall- EVA is nearly as tall as I am - WINNIE is not pretty but smart for one her age. NOTE: Shortly after the Civil War, a group of Vermonters moved their families into a section of northern New York in St. Lawrence County and named the community "Stark". They were hunters, lumbermen and guides for N. Y. City big shots who spent their vacations in the Adirondacks. A typical New England community, they built themselves a church, school and Post Office. A BLAKE Post Office was granted by the government. The name of Blake found its way into the maps and census records, etc. and today there is a BLAKE DAM, BLAKE RECREATION AREA and BLAKE CAMP SITE. Go - visit - enjoy.

BENJAMIN BLAKE, son of Israel Blake and Leah Smith, b May 31, 1725 Hampton Falls, N.H. (A)(C); bp July 13, 1725 Hampton Falls Church (J); res Nottingham, N.H.; executor of his father's estate; involved in large number of lawsuits, from N.H. State Archives in Concord, N.H. the following suits:

Note: it is possible that some of these referred to Benjamin Blake #4-3-6 who was his cousin; A124-77C3-29215 in 1747, B.Blake of Hampton, note to Joseph Hubbard of Salisbury, did not pay, B.Blake sued as resident of Nottingham in 1751. Blake of Hampton Falls sued by Samuel Gilman Jan 28, 1755 for note signed at Exeter July 6, 1754. 6287 B.Blake of Hampton Falls won judgement against Edward Sinchlaire of Newmarket on Sept 29, 1755 and Dec 29, 1755 and July 29, 1755. 9842 B. Blake called (labourer) made note June 1, 1752 at Salisbury to Richard Long, B.Blake and Nathan Green of Hampton sued by Richard Long on Feb 8, 1757. From the foregoing, it would appear that Benjamin Blake lived in either Nottingham or Hampton Falls at least until 1757.

BENJAMIN BLAKE married ELIZABETH BOULTER (A) or Bolter (A) Feb 3, 1747 Kensington, N.H. (A); the m was performed by Jeremiah Fogg, Cl. of Kensington (A); From A to Zax by Barbara Jean Evans:

"The French had determined to confine the English colonies to the region east of the Alleghenies" 1753-1754 "The final struggle of the French and English for the possession of North America finally broke out in conflict known as the French and Indian War"; from the 250th Anniversary issue of the newspaper of Nottingham, N.H.: INDIAN MASSACRE, stories of Indians pouring down from north, 1747 to 1753, alarm such that Selectmen of town ordered all to shelter in blockhouse, work done in groups, Mrs. Simpson killed in her cabin, Robert Beard and John Foulsham killed, two Indians in Boscawen killed, Governor Wentworth arrested killers of Indians, 200 men from Nottingham went to Portsmouth jail and released them, etc.; these actions could account for the move from Nottingham of Benjamin Blake and his brothers. His father died in 1753 and his mother probably in same year. It may seem strange that his father chose youngest son to be his executor but it seems apparent that Benjamin Blake was more educated in the ways of the world than the others or more in contact with the government and so was chosen. Where he lived immediately after leaving Nottingham is still a mystery. But, the names of the children and the relationship to the Smith Family are prime evidence that he went to Scarboro, Maine by 1760 and settled in Gorham, Maine.

The following has been compiled with the help of Priscilla Waters of Westbrook Me. and Mrs. Albert Williams (nee Mildred Blake) Coleman, Historian of Benjamin Blake and Phebe Lombard Blake Society:

SMITH FAMILY and its relationship to Benjamin Blake #1-3-9

Jonathan Smith, brickmaker b 1640; m Jan 25, 1670 to Mehitable Holdred/Holdrige (William) settled in Exeter, N.H., children:

1. Israel b Exeter Jan 16, 1670/1; m Hannah
2. Jacob b Aug 10, 1673; Kittery, Me 1698-1716; m before 1701/2 Priscilla Rogers
3. Ithiel, age 38 in 1714; m Mary (?) -this was uncle of Benjamin #1-3-9
4. Abigail b June 22, 1678; m Moses Blake #1-2; this was aunt of Benjamin #1-3-9
5. Jos. b Feb 7, 1680
6. Leah b Apr 7, 1683; m Israel Blake #1-3; this was mother of #1-3-9
7. Mehitable b Aug 14, 1685; m Zachariah Clifford;
8. Oliver; m Ruth Blake #1-7; she was aunt of #1-3-9

NOTE THE REPITITION OF THESE NAMES IN THE BLAKE FAMILY OF GORHAM, MAINE.

Following from Priscilla Waters (83): as evidence of connections

1. Leah Smith had a brother named Ithiel.
2. In Vital Statistics of Gorham, Me., Benjamin is called Jr., although McLellan in his history of Gorham, Me. calls him brother of Ithiel.
3. Ithiel b c 1748 is not called Junior.
4. Benjamin Blake, Jr. died in Brownfield, Me Mar 1837 at age 72 and so was b 1765. Therefor his father must have been born about 1725 to 1745.
5. Benjamin Blake, Jr. cannot be Benjamin Blake who owned farm on Gorham tax list of 1777. He did not own a farm at age 12.
6. A Benjamin Blake was listed as a fence viewer at Scarborough Annuel Town Meeting Mar 27, 1764. At same meeting a Forgus Higgins was chosen constable. Note that oldest son married Apphia Higgins.
7. I can only assume that Ithiel Blake b c 1748 m first a Susannah Martin and that McLellan assumed that there was an older Ithiel. I also assume they divorced as I do not find any child in family named Susannah. However, Susannah Martin could have been second wife of Benjamin Blake, Sr. who is #1-3-9. I don't know where McLellan found the name of Susannah Martin, he gives no source.

From Documentary History of Maine, p 237, 2nd Series Vol XIII:

The name Benjamin Blake appears on a petition by a group of Scarboro, Me. residents to the Governor of Massachusetts (at that time part of Mass.) concerning voting rights, dated June 19, 1761. Also, in same book, p 296, Benjamin Blake appears on petition dated Nov 10, 1762 protesting installation of Rev. Thomas Pierce as pastor of First Cong'l Church. -

At Scarborogh Town Meeting Mar 27, 1764 Benjamin Blake elected hog reeve (J);

From Genealogical Dictionary of Me. and N.H.: Ithiel Smith, depos. in June 1714 #38 ab. Quamscot in 1703. Of Hampt. when adm. gr. to wid. Mary 5 Mar. 1717-18, of Exeter by inventory. She was liv in 1732 when sons Josiah (as admr) and Solomon (w. Abigail 1725) sold, other ch inc. Ithiel of Brentwood, Joseph of Stratham, William and Abigail (w. of Benoni Gordon) of Exeter. Note: Brentwood is quite near to Nottingham. Note: Ithiel Smith is listed later at Bethel, Maine.

Records from University of Maine at Orono give Rev. War records of Blakes of Gorham:

They state "prob b Cape Cod, Mass" on Nathaniel, Joseph and John but do not say that on Benjamin. (See individual records for Rev. War data.) Benjamin is listed as b 1766 and d Mar 1837 age 82, which is, of course, incorrect. Bur Blake Cem. states he m Phebe Dorset Lombard. Appears he enlisted twice. "Pvt Capt. Read's Co., Col. Nathan Tyler's regt R. I. service. Also enlisted late 1779 for 3 yrs in Capt Whitmore's Co., 5th Mass Reg't under Col. Putnam. Disch at West Point Dec 1783". This would appear to indicate that he enlisted 2nd time at age 13. So it raised the question of his age at first enlistment (or could it have been his father, Benjamin, Sr.?)

The circumstantial evidence of the continuation of given names in a family line is never conclusive but it is interesting to note the very great similarity of names between:

The family of Israel Blake et al of NOTTINGHAM, N.H.	The family of Benjamin Blake, Sr. OF GORHAM, MAINE
Deborah
Leah	Leah
Jedediah	Jedediah
Joseph	Joseph
Israel	Israel
Elizabeth	Elizabeth
Sarah	Sarah Melvina
Mehitabel	Mehitabel
Benjamin	Benjamin
Timothy (father of Israel)	Timothy
John (brother of Israel)	John
Ruth (sister of Israel)	Ruth
Ephraim (nephew of Benjamin)	Ephraim

This, coupled with the foregoing data on the Smith Family, shows a most unusual continuation of names between the family groups.

The Boulter Family of Hampton Falls, N.H. were in Scarboro by 1730. The names of Nathaniel, John, Lydia, and Martha are connected to the Boulters. Benjamin Blake #1-3-9 m Elizabeth Boulter.

Benjamin Blake and Benjamin Blake, Jr. are listed in the U.S. Census of Maine for 1790 under the towns of Gorham/Scarborough: Benjamin, Sr. 1-0-2, Benjamin, Jr. 1-2-1; in April of 1799 only Benjamin, Jr. is listed as owning taxable land in Gorham, so it would appear that Benjamin, Sr. d between 1790 and 1799. It is interesting to note that Benjamin Blake, Sr. has two females living with him in Cs 1790. Probably one was wife, who was other? Search of death records may give confirmation.

From Biographical Review of York County, Me.:

Jonathan Martin, Jr. was a native of Saco, Maine but he removed about 1780 to Buston, Me. He married Mrs. Leah Fogg, a daughter of Benjamin Blake, who was one of the first settlers of Gorham, Me.; it is certain that she could not have been the daughter of Benjamin Blake, Jr. who was b 1765. This alone indicates that there was a Benjamin Blake, Sr.

Therefor it appears that Benjamin Blake #1-3-9 emigrated from Nottingham, N.H. to Scarborough, Me. and settled in Gorham, Me. #1-3-9 was father of children. Joseph says on his Rev war record that he had lived in Gorham for 77 years past - and he was age 77 on application. Thus it would appear that the birth records have been lost for the children of Benjamin Blake, Sr. #1-3-9.

It appears that Benjamin Blake and Elizabeth Boulter visited Kensington, N.H. in 1756 at which time four of their 5 children were baptised. Probably Ithiel had been bp earlier at another place as 1st ch. Note that (PD) has listed bp for 4 of the children who were residents of Gorham, Me.: Elizabeth, Nathaniel, Lydia and Leah. They were brother and sisters to Ithiel, Joseph, John, Benjamin, Jr., Polly and Mehitable. This, in itself, should be conclusive.

Therefor, it is my conclusion that the "HISTORY OF GORHAM" is incorrect when it states "Ithiel, Nathaniel, Joseph, John and Benjamin Blake were the sons of Ithiel and Susannah (?)(Martin) Blake".

They were not. They were sons of Benjamin Blake, Sr. who was born May 31, 1725 at Hampton Falls, N.H., and (probably all) were sons of Elizabeth Boulter.

ROBIE BLAKE, M.D., son of James C. Blake and Eliza Thorne, b Sept 27, 1838 Sebago, Me.; res Cornish, Me.; (83); Physician, business man, inventor; m Oct 19, 1861 MARY E. FARNUM, dau Joseph Farnum of Hiram, Me.; York Co. Bio Review: "the first representatives of his family in this country were three brothers, Englishmen, one of whom settled in N.H., one in Mass. and the other was Dr. Blake's great grandfather, in Gorham, Me. John Blake grandfather of our subject, was born in Gorham, Me., was a lifelong resident of that town, and died at the age of 76. A farmer by occupation, he left his plough when the colonies were struggling for independence, and as Capt. of a company fought in the Rev. War. His wife, Deborah Tuckerman, of Boston lived to the great age of one hundred years. Mr. and Mrs. Blake were members of the Free Will Baptist Church. They reared seven children of whom James C. Blake, born in Gorham, June 19, 1800, was the second. James C. Blake learned the baker's trade in Boston with his uncle Tuckerman, and worked at it in the city for years. In 1822 he returned to Gorham and opened a general store, which he conducted for six years. In 1837 he moved to Sebago where he bought a farm of about two hundred acres which he tilled until 1874. Then he moved back to Gorham where he died in the following year, Oct 10, 1875. His wife Eliza, was dau of Benjamin Thorne of Sebago. Both parents were members of the Free Will Baptist Church. Eleven children were born to them, six of whom are living: Maria, widow of Ivory Johnson of Centre Conway, N.H. who has two children, Geo. and Abbie; Eliza A. wife of William A. Bassett of Boston; John T. a widower with five children; Robie, the special subject of this sketch; and Horatio who married Lizzie Martin of Sebago and has five children. Dr. Blake was married Oct 9, 1861 to Mary E. Farnum, dau of Jos Farnum of Hiram, Me. and has one child-Carrie A. b in Cornish Oct 18, 1862" Note: if a Bio writer did not know, he could always make it up. It is quite obvious that Dr. Robie Blake did not know his ancestry more than to his great grandfather and had the famous "three brothers from the ould countrie" story. Also, family tradition said Deborah Tuckerman lived to 100 but grave says age 94. Also, has James as second child despite data proving him #9. Actually, there were 4 brothers: Jedediah and Joseph in N.H. and Israel, Jr. in Brooksville, Me. which was part of Mass. and Benjamin in Gorham. Not too bad for family tradition 150 years later and four generations afterward.

Child of Dr. Robie Blake and Mary E. Farnum:
1. Carrie A. Blake b Oct 18, 1862 Cornish, Me.;

Child of John Blake and Hannah Bangs: (89)

1. Mary Blake b Apr 2, 1814; d Jan 22, 1815;

NOTE: I believe the above marriage data is incorrect. I believe that (84) is incorrect again when he says that John Blake, son of John Blake and Deborah Tuckerman, #1-3-9-7-5 was unmarried. The only logical explanation is that #1-3-9-7-5 married HANNAH BANGS. There is no other John Blake available at that time in that area. At his death he would have been unmarried, a widower, age 26. The Pension record of Abigail Cook, widow of John Blake #1-3-9-9-4 states clearly that they were married in 1813. Also the Town Record shows marriage in 1813. Surely he did not marry both in the same year.

Militia 13 Sept 1814 to 7 Nov 1814 disch at Portland. Res Brownfield. Testimony Eli B. Bean, Eliza A. Blake, Benjamin E. Blake and Jacob E. Hurd. Claim by Abigail Cook Blake age 86 of Brownfield states description at time of discharge was age 21, farmer, 5'9" black hair, blue eyes, dark complexion, born in Gorham, Me. and he d at Brownfield Oct 10, 1856. They married Porter, Me. Dec 29, 1813 by William Towle, Esq. as recorded by Joshua Hamden, Town Clerk of Brownfield; NOTE: we have testimony from Benjamin E. Blake above which shows connection with this family. The question still not resolved is the first marriage to Hannah Bangs by John Blake in 1813. This does not add up. Note that child born 4 months after m (Dec 20, 1813 to Apr 2, 1814) so possibly this is not a record of a m but only of filing int of m.;needs research on 1st m; all data 2nd m seems correct; Note that children listed same page as m on Porter record;

Note: the names of Ithiel and Elizabeth have been carried on in this generation by Mehitable Blake;
Note: (60) Elwell plot in Buxton also has: Mary Paine, wife of J. W. Paine, dau of Benj and Mehitable Elwell d 29 May 1872 age 31 yrs 8 mos;
Note: (60) Rounds, Ethelinda, wife of D. Rounds, dau of Benj and M. Elwell d Oct 11, 1887 age 42 yrs 11 months;
Either these dates from my source for (60) are incorrect or these could not be children of above Benj. and Mehitable Elwell. For anyone researching Elwell line: it could be that Joseph had son named Benjamin who married a Mehitable. I'm not researching Elwell so I did not check.
Note: Benjamin Elwell b Nov 10, 1733; d 1801 at Buxton; his wife was Abigail Ingraham (Maine Old Cemeteries Association); these are probably parents of Benjamin Elwell, Jr. above.

1-4-1 (PD 59)

CHRISTOPHER BLAKE, son Timothy Blake and Joanna Mitchell, b Aug 6, 1717 Hampton Falls, N.H. (A); bp Sept 24, 1721 H.F. Church (J); res Ox Pasture Homestead Hampton Falls (D); (C); I have been unable to trace this one but have found following: Cs 1770 Nova Scotia: Christopher Blake at 1775 Harbour of St. Johns River; a Mary Blake b St. John, N.B. May 6, 1772 married 1st to James Craig and m 2nd William Orser; from Daniel Turner of Cranston, R. I. who is a descendant of Mary Blake: "Mary Blake idolized as the "Mother of Hartland" by thousands of her descendants, many of whom still live in vicinity of Hartland, Carleton County, New Brunswick. In Town Hall at Hartland is small Orser Museum. On walls are color portraits of Mary (Blake) Craig Orser and several of her illustrious sons and grandsons. She and 2nd husband, William Orser, settled land where Town Hall now stands, and are buried in Greenwood Cem. within sight of Hall. In 1783 William Orser, a Loyalist of Dutch origin was "Invited out" of his native town of Ossining, N.Y. and settled in New Brunswick. About 1788 he married one Mary Craig, and at about the same time Mary's brother, James Craig "disappeared" and soon afterward his widow (Mary Blake) married William Orser. There must have been 6 children in each of the three marriages. Birthdate 6 May 1772 and deathdate 7 May 1856 are both from tombstone of Mary Blake Craig Orser. George Orser, son of Mary Blake Orser was the founder of the Primitive Baptist Church, popularly known as the Orserite Church. He wrote book which says Mary Blake was first English child b on the St. John River. Family tradition says that she was kidnapped by Maliceet Indians and dramatically rescued and returned to her parents several years later. On "Return of the State at the mouth of the River of St. John, 1 Aug 1775" by Mr. Simonds at Provincial Museum at St. John, N.B.: Heads of families listed includes: CHRISTOPHER BLAKE, 1 man, 1 woman, 2 girls, 1 cow, 1 sheep, religion Protestant, nationality AMERICAN; the earliest settlement at River's mouth was fishing post established by Simonds, White and Peabody Fishing Co. of Newburyport, Mass. In their records the following was established: Christopher Blake smoked and drank rum, but in the fall of 1771 (Oct) he started buying blankets, ribbons, cloth, etc., and cut down on his rum allowance, and wasn't docked for so many days absent. So one may assume he had married, and as Polly (Mary) was supposed to have been born in 1772, I would think that she might safely be assumed to be the elder of the two daughters listed in the census. This checks with the tradition that Mary was the "first born child at the river's mouth". Another story says that Christopher Blake mysteriously disappeared and some bits of red hair were found in the woods near his home (he was reputed to be red-haired) so the theory was that he was murdered by Indians."; There is no proof that this is #1-4-1 but if it is as seems likely, it would account for the lack of records in both Mass. & N.H. and N.B. because he lived in a fishing village considered temporary housing and was at sea much of the time.

Note: It seems strange that Perley Derby did not list Harriet Blake; in fact he did not list Hon. John Albert Blake, who first suggested (and probably paid for) the work that Derby did. So, I presume that he ceased work on the manuscript at a point when this data had not as yet been entered. He must have had the data, but something caused him to stop compiling it, perhaps he died, perhaps he was no longer paid, but surely he had the data.

CONFUSION ON THE BLAKES OF WEARE, N. H.

Perley Derby states on his #185 regarding Winthrop Blake: born Hampton Falls, N.H. Aug 10, 1724 (which I have confirmed) "it is quite probable that he removed early to Weare, N.H. which town was settled about 1749, and where some of his children and their descendants settled. Nothing whatever is known of his history and the names of his children have been ascertained only by the most persistent inquiry through their descendants. It is believed by some that he worked at shipbuilding in Salisbury and Newbury. The records are equally silent as to whom and when he married."

Those children attributed by Perley Derby to Winthrop Blake must be incorrect. Although it is possible that Winthrop had children by the same names, it is unlikely. Perhaps some are Winthrop's children. But, the following proves some are not:

1. The mathematics of the Census of 1790 at Weare, as well as the dates of birth and marriages of the children named in his manuscript do not compute. In 1790 at Weare, we do not find Winthrop Blake (b 1724) on the list. He is probably dead by that time. We do find a Winthrop with one male over age 16, 2 males under 16, and 4 females. (PD) does not mention the John Blake, Sr. who is found at Weare on Cs 1790 with 1 male over 16, no males under 16, 3 females. Then we have John Blake, JR. on Cs 1790 at Weare with 2 males over 16, 4 males under 16, and 4 females. This, apparently, is the son of the above John Blake, Sr.. The records of the births (A) of his children say that John Blake, Jr. was born in Salisbury, Mass. but (PD) says he was born at Weare; and First Church of Hopkinton, N.H. record shows John Blake, Jr. "of Weare" married Betty Basford. The Rev. War Pension application of John Blake of Milton, Vt. states: "born Seabrook, N.H., lived in Weare, N.H. and moved to Milton, Vt. in 1820$\frac{4}{}$ and cemetery record at Miltonboro shows he died Jan 16, 1842 at age 83, which means he was born in 1759 as stated in his Pension record which was dated 1832 at his age 73 and listed his Bible which he got from his parents as record of birth date.

2. The History of Weare, N.H. by William Little states: "John Blake came from Salisbury, Mass about 1770 and settled on lot 47, range six. His four sons, Jesse, John, Winthrop and Hezekiah, daughter Dolly, and perhaps others, came with him. Jesse lived with his father, and built a grist mill on Center Brook. He later moved to Lebanon, N.H." Jesse Blake was born 1753 and married Oct 23, 1771. He was born in Salisbury, Mass (A); in 1790 he had 3 males under 16. So far as I know, all his children have been found. Winthrop Blake was born in 1723 (or24) and if he had first child at age 15, this would be earliest that John Blake, Sr. could be born(if John Blake, Jr. was born 1759 when John, Sr. was age 15) 1748. Jesse was the son of John Blake, Sr. and Jesse was born in 1753. So it is not possible for John Blake, Sr. to be son of Winthrop Blake(b1723). However, it is quite probable that Winthrop lived in Weare.

3. The following from (95) shows direct relationships: Land records Aug 17, 1784 "I, John Blake of Weare in the County of Hillsborough and State of New Hampshire, Taylor (tailor) for love, good will, and affection which I have and do bare (sic) to my son Jesse Blake of Weare in the county and state aforesaid, Yeoman, and for divers other good reasons and considerations me herewith unto moving, have given, granted, etc. to the said Jesse Blake--a certain part of a lot--to contain sixty acres more or less--to him the said Jesse Blake his heirs etc. in fee simple--my heirs, executors etc"- dated 17 Aug 1784. Not recorded until 7 May 1800. This would indicate that John Blake, Sr. died between 1790 and 1800 as he is not on the Census in 1800.

(95) June 8, 1786: "I, John Blake of Weare in the County, etc, Taylor (note same occupation), for the love and good will, etc. which I have and do have to my son John Blake of Weare in the county and state aforesaid, Yeoman, and for divers other good causes etc.--have given and granted--unto him said John Blake--a part of a lot of land in Weare--containing sixty acres, more or less--to have and to hold--in fee simple--etc." dated June 8, 1786. Recorded 7 May 1800.

(95) Note that John Blake, Jr. received his land two years after Jess but that both deeds were recorded the same day. This probably indicates date of John Blake, Sr.'s death. There seems to be no reason why the deeds were two years apart. But, in the case of Jesse, the deed states "to him the said Jesse Blake his heirs etc forever free of all incumbrance, as a good, sure and absolute estate of inheritance in fee simple without the least --hindrance, denial, molestation, or interruption of me, said John Blake, my heirs, executors, administrators, or any claim challenge or demand whatsoever by us or any of us".

This language is not used in deed to John Blake, Jr., so why stronger language for Jesse? Why is Jesse listed as Yeoman when all other records show him as a Miller?

(95) On May 29, 1786 Winthrop Blake bought thirty acres of land in Weare from Amos Stoning, located in lot 25, 4th range from the north side of Weare. (The land given by John Blake, Sr. to Jesse and John, Jr. was in lot 47 in the second range from the north side of Weare); Winthrop recorded the deed to this land on Aug 20, 1793. Winthrop Blake sold this land on May 6, 1793 to Ebenezer Breed of Weare at which time Winthrop Blake was "of Weare". Apparently Winthrop left, for he bought land from Moody Bedell in Bath, Grafton County, Nov 14, 1794. He appears on the town inventories of Bath until 1809. The 1810 Census shows him in Lebanon, N.H. In 1813 we find the first record of Winthrop Blake buying land in Barnet, Vt. Winthrop Blake was active in buying and selling land in Caledonia County. He was on assessment list from 1813 to 1820. Winthrop Blake, Sr. conveyed land to Winthrop Blake, Jr. in 1818, 1823, and 1834 in Caledonia Co.

Then we find him back in Weare on May 15, 1821 when he bought 12 acres in Weare of Benjamin Alcock of Hopkinton. The deed states that Winthrop Blake was living in Weare at that time. This twelve acres is described in the deed as "a part of the land which John Blake conveyed to me, Benjamin Alcock by deed dated Feb 22, 1820". This must be John Blake, Jr. This deed was signed by Benjamin Alcock and wife, Dolly Alcock. Recorded Aug 18, 1821.

(95) The Weare Records indicate that Jesse Blake remained in Weare until he sold the mill to an Oliver Edwards. Then on May 8, 1806 Jesse Blake received land from Oliver Edwards of Lebanon according to Lebanon land records. This appears to be an exchange of property. Also the 1810 Cs. shows Winthrop and Jesse in Lebanon, N.H. together. This indicates a relationship between Jesse and Winthrop, as stated by Little.

4. (95) The South Hampton Annual Meeting of Mar 5, 1770 voted to allow the constable to cross off the list of rates the amounts due from John Blake and Timothy Davis, indicating that these individuals were no longer residents of the town (South Hampton Town Records 1:97).

5. I find only one John Blake, Jr. on the records who could be born 1759. This is #10-2-5-4. However, his father, John Blake, Sr., died in 1776 and his estate was probated and is so indicated in this book. Thus, he is eliminated as a possibility.

6. South Hampton and Seabrook are so close that reference should be made to the above record of John Blake moving from So. Hampton in 1770: a John Blake "of Seabrook" bought land in Weare from Enoch Dow on Dec 2, 1768. This could not be John Blake, Jr. who would have been too young since he was born in 1759 in Seabrook. This must be John Blake, Sr. By an Act of June 2, 1768 various people living outside of Hampton Falls, N.H. were polled into Hampton Falls; (D) page 59 states that John Blake, a minor, polled from Seabrook to Hampton Falls and a Nathan Blake, a minor, also from Seabrook polled into Hampton Falls. At same time some Salisbury men polled land from Seabrook to Hampton Falls. Before 1768 the books of Hampton Falls (D) showed persons living in Seabrook.

We find Aaron Blake b 1688 #1-5 rated Hampton Falls in 1726 (D); he was the brother of Timothy #1-4 who was an original proprietor of Weare. Timothy #1-4-2 was listed as a Weare man in Expedition to Crown Point. Aaron had a son named Amos who lived in Newbury, Mass. and had a son named Jesse.

Aaron apparently was a Quaker as the record of his daughter's birth is a Quaker record and from Seabrook. So we may assume that Aaron lived in that part of Hampton Falls which was in Seabrook or So. Hampton.

Seabrook was set off from Hampton Falls June 2, 1768. There were many Quakers in Seabrook (D); By the Act establishing the Presbyterian Church and the new town of Seabrook, any person living in either town could elect in which town to be rated with their polls and estates. We find Hampton Falls men owning land in Seabrook who polled into Hampton Falls: Jeremiah Blake and Henry Blake.

(D) page 69-a vote nearly on sectional lines shows Joshua Blake, Henry Blake and Jeremiah Blake probably living in Hampton Falls and Christopher Blake probably living in Seabrook area - with Christopher being objected to as "too young" at meeting Jan 30, 1770. Note that there was no vote by a John Blake of Seabrook. This could indicate that he had moved by that time or that he was a Quaker and thus would not vote at a meeting regarding the Presbyterian Minister and Meeting House.

7. John Blake, Jr. and wife Betty (A) had a son named Aaron Blake born Dec 13, 1787. This indicates a relationship to an Aaron but not how close. It is only one piece of circumstantial evidence. But, Aaron #1-5 had a son named Amos, and Amos had a son named Jesse. This strengthens this bit of evidence, showing a closer relationship to that branch of the family.

8. Little states that John Blake came from Salisbury, Mass about 1770. The town of Seabrook was set off from Hampton Falls in 1768. That portion of Seabrook now called So. Seabrook is adjoining Salisbury, Mass. Seabrook Beach is just north of Salisbury Beach. The border between Massachusetts and New Hampshire was in constant disagreement. It is quite possible that Aaron Blake #1-5 who was rated Hampton Falls in 1726 was actually in So. Hampton or Seabrook depending upon the time and the line. A very short move would have put him in Salisbury - or a move of the line. On the rates for Hampton Falls in 1709 Aaron Blake appears to have had no property. On the rates for Hampton Falls in 1726-7 we find Aaron Blake with one poll, one house, no cultivated land, no oxen, 2 cows, 1 horse no hogs. Without cultivated land, he was in the minority. Possibly he was a tradesman of some sort. Possibly a tailor. We know that John Blake, Sr. was a tailor from his land deeds to Jesse and John, Jr. There is nothing conclusive about any of this. But, merely one more item for the search for the identity of the father of John Blake, Sr.

In view of the foregoing, there is no doubt that John Blake, Sr. was father of Jesse, John, Jr. and Winthrop. The question is: who was father of John Blake, Sr.?
There are few possibilities:

A. John Blake, Sr. was not a part of this Blake Family. This is unrealistic in view of the close relationship and continuance of the names of Winthrop and Aaron.
B. John Blake, Sr. was illegitimate son of Blake girl. I find no Blake girl of age in this part of family who could be mother. I find no record of Guardianship.
C. John Blake, Sr. and Winthop Blake #1-4-4 were one and the same person!!! We know that Jesse Blake had a middle name from History of Weare p 559 which says he carved initials "J.C.B." on a beam in the mill. This is earliest middle name I find in Blake Family. But, note that I found a baptismal record for Winthrop #1-4-4 at Hampton Falls Church dated Sept 8, 1723 - but the (A)(C) records state he was b 1724. Of course this could be same person, but this could also indicate that a 2nd child (or replacement) was born 1724. This child could be the John Blake, Sr.. Possibly he was named John Winthrop Blake and the b record gave only Winthrop, but he went by name of John. He may have been first with middle name. This too, appears possible but illogical. However, if so, both Little and Derby are correct.

D. John Blake, Sr. is the son of Christopher Blake #1-4-1 which is almost a mathematical impossibility. But, we know little about the early life of Christopher.
E. John Blake, Sr. is son of Timothy Blake #1-4. This is possible, but there seems no place to put him as Joanna was so busy having 11 children. Also, the records are so excellent for that family that it seems unlikely that one of the children would have no record.
F. John Blake, Sr. is the son of Aaron Blake #1-5. This is the most logical assumption in view of the above data collected on Seabrook and the time span during which there are no Civil records. Probably his birth (and that of Nathan and others, possibly) was recorded by the Friends. This could account for the lack of a marriage record. Perhaps these records were destroyed as (PD) suggested. Perhaps I will find it someday - but for now, I will list John Blake, Sr. as: #1-5-4, son of Aaron Blake.

1-5-4 (PD 185)

JOHN BLAKE, SR. son of Aaron Blake and Martha Coker, (see preceding discourse) b c1724, prob at Hampton Falls or Seabrook area; wife unknown; tailor (95); surveyor highways in Weare, N.H. 1777 (J); had a fight near Weare with a bear (q) p 259; on Aug 12, 1771 his grist mill was on a road list (q) p 502; possibly a Quaker, not that #1-5-2-5 had b recorded by Friends; land records indicate that he probably died about 1800 and that his wife probably d before 1784 but Cs 1790 shows him with 1 male +16, no males -16, and 3 females.

He was the leader of the community and JP for several years. First lived Canada, then Auburn, N.Y. then Licking Co., Ohio for 9 yrs, then to Iowa overland with teams, the journey taking 6 weeks because of rain, town was laid out by Theophilus Blake and Cyrus Van Cleve in 1852; he is listed Theophilus Black on Cs 1860; (97) as a youth he trapped and traded with the Indians, taking his furs to Quebec on a flatboat. On one trip he stopped overnight at a house along the river on the outskirts of Quebec. This was the house of the Adams family and he later married their daughter Mary. He settled in Vt. with his wife, later moving to New York and then to Newark, Ohio. The country was being settled up, so in summer of 1844 he rode horseback to Iowa and picked out a section of land on which to locate. He brought his family the next year, arriving near Ottumwa in July 1845. He homesteaded a tract of land and Blakesburg developed on this site. When his youngest son James was killed at Fort Donnellson he enlisted in the Union Army in 1864 at age 65. He rode a horse 90 miles to Keokuk and did guard duty. He contracted a disease which caused his death one week after he came home on furlough. When they moved to New York a brother was an official at the state penitentiary at Auburn. Another brother moved to Michigan. This brother is possibly the grandfather of Ruth Blake of Grass Lake, Mich. who married Charles Landis. A fourth brother located near Osceola, Iowa and had two sons Norman and Samuel. Mary married Dr. Wm. Gutch and died of scarlet fever two years later - had one dau, Annie. Charlotte married Paul Groff, a stonemason in Blakesburg, she had one dau, Frona, and d of scarlet fever at the same time as her sister Mary did (97);

Note: it is quite obvious from above that this family moved around a bit and settled in Massachusetts which state I have not researched to a great extent. Many descendants could be discovered if there was reasonable research in Massachusetts. The rest of this page has been reserved for the data that I expected to gather on this family group, but circumstances caused the discontinuance of this research and therefor the above is it for now. Gathering the data on descendants in Massachusetts should not be difficult as much should be on the Census of U. S.for Massachusetts which is in the exhibits of this book. You will note the following:
Nathaniel is listed at Salisbury, Mass;
Charles is listed at Salisbury;
Simon F. is listed at Salisbury;
a Samuel listed at Newburyport should be checked;
a Daniel listed at Newburyport should be checked;

After about 1825, the farms of New England had been divided so often among the descendants that they had become too small for further division in many cases. There was room only for one family to make a living from the farm. Therefor, it was often left intact to one son and the other sons had few options to earn a living.
Sometimes on reaching maturity, a son would earn his living by a trade.
Sometimes he might leave home to follow the sea - many did.
Sometimes he would head west for new land to become a farmer as he had been trained.
Others sought their fortune in the larger cities, especially Boston.
The above family seems to show a picture of this movement to areas of employment, while leaving behind at Dover, N.H. the elder son, William.

DEARBORN BLAKE, son of John Blake and Mary Dearborn, b May 30, 1727 Hampton, N.H.; (C); bp 1727 at Greenland, N.H. (73)(43); d Apr 3, 1799 at Epping, N.H. (57)(J) on Governor Plummer's Death list; res Epsom, N.H. then Epping (C)(k); land record Oct 29, 1764 Thomas Blake of Epsom got land in Epsom from Dearborn Blake of Epping; Thomas then sold to Jethro Blake; (57) gives first wife as Elizabeth Shaw and 2nd wife as Elizabeth; will at Epping May 3, 1799 names wife Elizabeth as executrix and bequests to son Dearborn, wife Elizabeth, son Paul, dau Molly Dearborn, son John; on Oct 29, 1798 he sold "all land & buildings I now own in Epping"to his son Dearborn Blake, Jr. for $10 (don't you wish we could do that today and avoid the estate taxes, but IRS won't permit it); Elizabeth was wife of Dearborn on Jan 20, 1798 when they deeded land to Benjamin Brown Shaw of Hampton; Note: will is dated after his death. It is possible that will date should be Mar instead of May, and also possible that year should have been 1798, also possible confusion with Dearborn #4-3-4-1 son of Thomas of Epsom, but highly unlikely as he only 6 years old in 1755, but handwriting quite bad; (73) names and dates of all children were attributed to Elizabeth Shaw on basis of old diary in possession of Jonathan C. Blake #4-3-5-1-3 of Monmouth, Me., grandson of Dearborn; see (57) or (73) for more detail on b and bp of children; both (57) and (73) give names of both wives as Elizabeth; (x) gives mother of John Blake #4-3-5-2 as Elizabeth Shaw-however, she was 2nd wife of Dearborn: see Gov. Plummer's Death List, also see marriage to Elizabeth Shaw; (x) says John #4-3-5-2 was cousin of Gen. Henry Dearborn; Therfor: I suggest that he married 1st to RUTH DEARBORN (C)(9), dau John Dearborn and Anna Sanborn, b June 5, 1734 at Hampton, N.H. (C) and d c1777 according to Gov Plummer's list of deaths; he m Ruth Dearborn on May 24, 1755 (C) p604; see 2nd m;

State Archives in Concord list Court actions re Benjamin Blake: 29414 B.B. Blake of Epsom sued by Jonathan Longfellow of Nottingham on May 30, 1757 for note signed Aug 18, 1754--2092 Samuel Connor of Pembroke sued b Blake of Epsom Sept 3, 1763 for note signed in Pembroke on July 19, 1763; Note: was this the father or the brother of his wife, Molly Connor??; #705 B. Blake of Epsom made note to John Car at Pembroke on Jan 4, 1764, sued by Car on Mar 4, 1764; #15393 B. Blake of Epsom sued by Joseph Hicks of Madbury on Apr 1, 1766 for note signed in 1765; Question: were these all suits of this Benjamin Blake or did suits involve the other Benjamin, his cousin #1-3-9??; see list of suits on #1-3-9; from the above we deduce that Benjamin Blake lived in Epsom until about 1767 when he pioneered at Wolfborough, N.H.; thus, the first children were born in Epsom although records list births in Wolfborough;

Benjamin Blake married MOLLY CONNOR of that we are sure. Just who she was is debatable. The various applications on file at DAR give many possibilities. Possibly she came from Epping or Henniker but more likely from Pembroke -see above suit - she is listed as a sister of James Connor who came from Henniker; she is listed as ANNA CONNOR (PD) and on one application at DAR but with nothing to confirm her parentage; a paper on file at N.E. Hist Soc written in 1932 by Alice Lucinda Priest entitled "Lt. Moses Connor of Hopkinton and Henniker, N.H. lists a James Connor who signed a petition in 1767 at Pembroke for a JP and apparently was son of David Connor who probably was brother of Dr. Samuel Connor; in any event she was a remarkable woman according to (W): "distinuished as an accoucheuse. It was a common saying that she had been present at a thousand births" "a large practice, which she held for a long period, as no physician was in Wolfborough" "brave and vigorous woman, and neither difficult traveling or inclement weather could deter her from heeding duty's call. In cases of emergency she would put on her snow-shoes, and give her anxious companion a close race over the drifted roads". This leads me to believe she was associated with Dr. Samuel Connor as above; some records list her as Anna Connor; proofs would be gratefully received; (P) Benjamin Blake served in Rev. War as private in company formed with John Sinkler as Capt in Col Joseph Badgers Reg't and served as member of Wyman's N.H. Reg't; as Benjamin Blake is my Rev. War ancestor, I feel obligated to quote (W) "he enlisted as soldier in the campaign which resulted in the capture of Burgoyne's army, and being discharged in the interior of the state of New York, walked barefoot to his home in Wolfeborough from choice." This is a puzzling statement which indicates that he had shoes but did not wear them. Only two reasons seem apparent: he carried the shoes or he gave them away. The logical choice after reading about the lack of shoes in the Continental Army is that he gave them to someone who was continuing to fight on with the Army. Gentleman Johnny Burgoyne, commander of the British, surrendered at Saratoga, New York on Oct 17, 1777. That's a long walk from Saratoga to Wolfborough, N.H. in the winter at age 46 with his feet bare. GR GR GR GR GR GRANDPAPPY, why didn't I inherit your good feet instead of your bald head? NOTE: the first two children must have been born at Epsom even though records list Wolfboro because he did not go to Wolfboro until 1767.

" Oliver Blake was the son of Oliver and Sally Maxfield. He married Sophronia Kelley, daughter of Daniel Kelley, one of the wealthiest men in town, whose untimely drowning in 18-- left Oliver and his wife his large farm of Blake Brook. Oliver built up the homestead, erecting a sawmill back of the house and damming the brook for a millpond. He became in time one of the richest and most prominent farmers in the western end of town, and was a pillar of the church. He was described as a lame man, of medium stature, his ears pierced with bright silver earring to ward off rheumatism. His wife, being somewhat peculiar and less pious than Oliver wished, Oliver is said to have often got down on his knees and prayed for her deliverance."

Checking my records, I do find that the Blakes in the 1-3-9 line who lived in Gorham had some records in Gray. Perhaps there was contact between these branches of the family at that time. Or perhaps it was a good spot to have their honeymoon. Anyway, it seems that Perley had a good business going.

DEARBORN BLAKE, son of Henry Blake and Susannah Colby, b May 19, 1764 Hampton Falls, N.H. (A); d Feb 13, 1832 Atkinson, Me. (I); birth also recorded (I) on Atkinson records "born in Hampton Falls"; bur in Atkinson Corner Cem; (J) Atkinson Town Record states "Dearborn Blake came into town in 1814" which means that his children must have been b elsewhere although listed as b Atkinson; (81) worked on the Atkinson-Sebec Bridge; (81)"all buried No. Atkinson Cem"; This appears to be new name for Atkinson Cor Cem; (81) Dearborn Blake bought land in Atkinson Mar 21, 1822 from William Grant of Pownal, Me. for $400. This land is across from house of father of Charlotte Nicely. The house burned about 1962. The land owned by Blake Family until this generation and is still owned by descendants; he m c1791 prob at Hampton Falls to MIRIAM BROWN (81) b Apr 25, 1760 Hampton Falls (J)(I) who d Oct 29, 1826 (I) age 56 (60) bur Atkinson Cor Cem;

2. Isaac Blake b Mar 4, 1795 Atkinson (I); d 1824; the following excerpted from History of Piscataquis County, Me. by Rev. Amasa Loring: Title is "The Mysterious Disappearance of Isaac Blake":
   "There lived in this town a Blake family, inwhich there were several sons. One of the elder sons, Isaac, early went away, and followed the sea for a few years. He returned home, and then went to New Brunswick. There he worked at lumbering, traficked in stock, and accumulated quite a sum of money for the times. In the fall of 1842, probably, he started from Merimachi for Atkinson, and was known then to have $1,200 in gold. Blake arrived safely in Bangor and was known to start homeward; he was met by an acquaintance, near sunset on the top of the Jameson Hill. After that, no one could give any account of him. They made diligent inquiries, but got no account of him. Foul play was feared, and a strong excitement raised in Atkinson. His disappearance remained an unsolved mystery. Years later, a certain woman of that vicinity was dangerously sick and thought her time had come. She made a statement that Blake had stopped for the night at the Tavern; in the room where he slept in the still hours of the night, she heard footsteps of men, and the running of some kind of liquid; she heard them go out and bear away a heavy burden; they came and opened her door, but she feigned sleep. The news spread and the community believed the missing man murdered. Unexpectedly the sick woman recovered. Some of the parties implicated were still living. One was her sister's husband. Death no longer stared her in the face, the living were now a terror to her and she took back all her statements. But this did not stop the talk. A few years later a newspaper in Ohio recorded that a man formerly known in these parts, had been executed for murder and had also confessed to murder of a man in Maine. This also was referred to Blake's case by those who formerly knew this guilty man. He was often at that tavern, and was afterward often seen in the large places of the Provinces, where he could change Doubloons for money that could be put in circulation in Maine. "Murder will out" and as I have been writing, an aged man died in Atkinson who confessed the blackest deed of all he had done was at the foot of Jameson Hill; up to this time this individual had not been suspected of any connection" etc.

THE FIRST CENSUS OF THE UNITED STATES WAS IN 1790 AS ORDERED BY PRESIDENT GEORGE WASHINGTON. THERE HAD BEEN VARIOUS LOCAL CENSUS TAKEN PRIOR TO THIS DATE. PART OF THE 1790 CENSUS RECORDS WERE DESTROYED WHEN THE BRITISH BURNED THE CAPITOL DURING THE WAR OF 1812 THUS THE FOLLOWING IS LOST OR PARTIALLY LOST FOR DELAWARE, GEORGIA, NEW JERSEY, TENNESSEE, VIRGINIA. THE NUMBER OF BLAKES AS HEADS OF FAMILIES ON REMAINING RECORDS IS: CONN. 9, MASS. 69, NO. CAR. 13, SO.CAR. 14, ME. 34, N.H. 68, PA. 7, VT. 7, MD. 11, N.Y. 12, R. I. 1, VA. 17;

THE CENSUS OF 1970 SHOWS OVER 60,000 ADULT BLAKES IN THE UNITED STATES.

ONE DAY I FOUND A SARAH BLAKE,
AND SHE BECAME A REAL HEAD ACHE.
WAS SHE SISTER, WIFE OR COUSIN?
I ONLY HAD A HALF A DOZEN.
THE BOOK SAID THAT "SHE TAUGHT THE SCHOOL"
I TRIED TO FIND HER (LIKE A FOOL)
I WASTED TIME, AND THEN I QUIT.
I GET SMART, BIT BY BIT.

PERLEY DERBY

According to his handwritten manuscript, Perley Derby commenced work on "The Descendants of Jasper Blake, of Hampton, N.H." in 1879. His number 693 shows that he was still adding to it in 1883. Each page is headed "Part 1" with the generation listed. This indicates that a part 2 was contemplated or possibly also completed. There are 501 handwritten pages in the first part. The second part never has been found.

Each male BLAKE with children is carried forward to a new number. One person is carried forward to a number which does not exist; which indicates that there is at least one sheet missing from Part 1.

It appears that Perley Derby discontinued active work on the manuscript of the Blake Family as there is a period of time after 1883 until his death in 1897 during which no references are included in Part 1. However, it may be that all such were in the missing Part 2.

There is no doubt that he was a most competent and careful genealogist, which is borne out by corroborating evidence from other sources which I have indicated in my genealogy. The few minor errors probably stem from letters from descendants who made great effort to recall long past events. The one major error appears to have occurred by reason of a lack of documentation available to him in Weare, N.H. or from the insistence of descendants. However, the entire work is singularly free of many of the common errors in genealogies and shows painstaking effort for detail.

From SALEM NEWS (Salem, Mass.) for Monday, March 29, 1897 (not exact quote)

Perley Derby died Sunday morning (probably March 28, 1897). He was son of Charles Derby, watchmaker in Salem. In 1820 he (Charles) moved to Nashville, Tenn. where he married Nancy, daughter of Henry and Betsy Ann Pulling. They moved to Murfreesboro, Tenn. where Perley was born October 26, 1823. When he was young the family returned to this area and lived in several towns before settling in South Danvers (now Peabody). He attended private schools until he was old enough to be apprenticed to a tailor. He remained at this work only a short time and then went to Boston to study portrait painting. He also studied with Charles Osgood of Salem. He painted many fine portraits of local people until such work was no longer profitable. He worked for a dentist carving teeth, was an engraver, a jeweller and city census taker. He was employed by many as a genealogist.

In 1862 he served one year with the 23rd regiment at Newburne, N. C. He returned home to regain his health and re-enlisted. He served at Galloupe's Island, Boston Harbor until the end of the war.

He married Harriet, daughter of William Knight and had two children-Caroline Putnam and Roger Perley. He was patient, cheerful and upright in all his dealings. NOTE: this obituary says Perley was born in Memphis, Tenn. but Perley in his own genealogy says Murfreesboro and he should have known where he was born so I changed it to Murfreesboro. The above from Irene R. Norton, Reference Librarian of the Essex Institute, which is the owner of the Derby manuscript and has kindly given me permission to reproduce it as a part of this book.

ESSEX INSTITUTE

The Essex Institute, founded in 1848 as a result of the merger of the Essex Historical Society (1821) and the Essex County Natural History Society (1836) is one of the oldest and largest privately endowed regional historical societies in the United States. The collections, broad in scope and rich in composition, include books, pamphlets, periodicals, manuscripts, graphic materials, furniture, paintings, and other decorative and utilitarian objects associated with the civil history of Essex County, Massachusetts, and adjacent areas since the early seventeenth century. Through its varied treasures, amassed over many generations, the Institute is uniquely able to chronicle and document the life and culture of one of the most historically important regions in the northeastern part of the country.

The Institute maintains a research library of extensive printed and manuscript materials, a museum collection of approximately 39,000 objects of historical and artistic interest, and a publications department which publishes a quarterly journal of history, a quarterly newsletter, and scholarly books and pamphlets. Of the six historic house properties owned by the Institute, four of them, in addition to the museum, are open to the public on a year-round schedule. The Institute's collections of artifacts and historic houses represent the richness of Salem's and Essex County's material culture from the early seventeenth into the twentieth centuries, and are particularly strong for the period 1790-1820 when Salem was at the peak of her economic power as a dominant part in the Far Eastern Trade.

General Introduction

To Hon. John A. Blake, ( ) of Danvers, Mass., is due the first suggestion, leading to the compilation of the following history of the descendants of Jasper Blake,-he being a member of this particular branch of the Blake Family, and of the eighth generation. The work was commenced about the middle of February 1879, and prosecuted with almost unceasing labor to its close. Several towns in New Hampshire and Vermont were first visited, during the months of February and March when the weather was excessively cold, and the snow so deep as to intercept much of the travel on the common highway, compelling the teams in many cases to cross the fields and pastures where there was the least danger of becoming completely submerged in the drifts. At several points, both in New Hampshire and Vermont the writer was obliged, for want of regular public conveyance, to travel many weary miles afoot, sometimes through immense forests, with the snow frequently up to his armpits-now and then meeting a native, who served as a guiding star for a few miles farther on, till the point of destination was finally reached. Thus, nearly a month's time was consumed in that section of the country, in visiting many families, and several town church and county records which laid the basis of this memorial. Although the season was very unpropitious, and the labor performed quite arduous, yet, the experience was truly beneficial and the retrospection exceedingly pleasant, especially when there arises to mind the uniform cordiality bestowed, the generous impulses everywhere displayed, the overflow of good cheer, and a God-speed to the work in hand, all of which lent an inspiration,-and a stimulus to future effort not soon to be dispelled:-

The name of Blake is widely diffused throughout every section of the United States, Canada and the Provinces. Their name is legion; and to compile a complete history of those representing some nine or ten distinct branches in this country, would consume the better portion of one's lifetime:-that these distinct lines can be traced and united transatlanticly under one common ancestor there is no doubt, could the time, patience and means be faithfully used to that purpose.

The name is also of English extraction, the etymology of which, is briefly described in a "Genealogical History of William Blake of Dorchester and his Descendants", compiled by the late Samuel Blake, Esq., of Dorchester and is as follows:

"The ancient and respectable family of Blake, is of British extraction, and traditionally descended from Ap Lake, whose name appears as one of the Knights of King Arthur's round table. Succeeding generations, however, seem to have paid little attention to the orthography of the name, so variouly do we find it written. In the first instance, by dropping the initial letter it was rendered P-Lake, and then, by compression, Plake, one entire word, both of which, alike, produce a sound and utterance uncouth and unharmonious. It was corrupted into Blague, to the confusion of all etymological explanation, had it so continued, but chance or design applied a remedy by substituting Blaake, and ultimately Blake, which latter reading took place many centuries back, and has continued invariably the same from that period to the present day". It is believed that no foreign research has revealed the true origin of the Blake family, and the remotest account of the name, falling under the compiler's notice is found in an English work deposited in the library of the Essex Institute, Salem, Mass., entitled "Parliamentary Writs" and "Proceedings in Chancery".-From the former we extract the following - viz:

"Gilbert Le Blake of Lincoln, with other citizens, becomes surety for the repayment of 900 marks, borrowed from the Bishop, Dean and Chapter. Letters patent tested at Lincoln Oct 16, 1314".

"John Le Blake, Burgess, returned for Leicester, Oct 6, 1320."

"John Le Blake preemptorily commanded to proceed forthwith to the King, wheresoever he may be. Writ tested at Gloucester, Feb 10, 1322."

"Richard Le Blake, Manucaptor of Walterus Le Specer, Burgess, returned for Gloucester----1311."

"Robert Le Blake, Manucaptor of Robert de Ardene, Knight of the Shire, returned for Oxford ---1314."

"Roger Le Blake, Burgess, returned for Bodwin. John and Richard Le Blake returned as his Manucaptors. Oct 6, 1320."

"Walter Le Blake certified, pursuant to writ tested at Clipston, Mar. 5, 1316, as Lord of the Township of Ogburn,-Moisy, in county of Wills.

Southampton Co." (Elizabeth)

Thus, a few items are given of this antiquated family obtainable in this country; and if the means could be procured for that end, volumes of names and families both ancient and modern could be compiled-in the whole range of Great Britain, showing the vastness of territory over which the tribal name holds sway and doubtless descended from one humble source. But to unite these families into one harmonious whole, would as aforesaid, be the work of a lifetime,-consuming a mint of money and putting patience, one of the prime elements of success, to the severest test.

The original intention of the author was merely to compile a history of the descendants of Jasper Blake of Hampton; but as good fortune threw in his way a large amount of material, already collected by others pertaining to several branches of the family in this country, a selection was made from them, that of John Blake of Wrentham, Mass., to be also included in the work, partly on account of the brevity of its numerical force and easy approach to the old homestead and its surroundings. Every facility has been fairly tested to render the whole work as complete and correct as circumstances would possibly allow,-nescessarily involving a prodigious amount of correspondence and pertinacity of effort;-notwithstanding all of which, there are at least one hundred and fifty persons who have as stubbornly refused after repeated attempts to win their consent, to render any assistance whatever, however slight the request may have been;-thus leaving quite a hiatus in the history of many important and several ancient and interesting families, which is known could have been well supplied, had the parties addressed been so inclined. It is quite probable however, that nearly all of this missing information could have been readily obtained by a personal visit to the said parties, if their residence had been within a reasonable distance, as the writer has found by experience that many persons are more willing to give such information verbally than to subject themselves to the dread ordeal of a written correspondence; and on many such occasions, he has found the slow and apparently indifferent correspondent in social converse to be most deeply enamored on the subject of his ancestral antecedents; and many happy hours have been wiled away with profit which otherwise would not have been improved and thus lost to the expectant and inquisitive public.

It appears that all compilers of works of this description, although imbued with the intensest love for their work, and endowed with Job-like patience and a pertinaceous zeal in its pursuit,-make one common complaint-of the many and almost insurmountable difficulties which prevent a true and reliable solution of scores of genealogical problems, which ever and anon spring up unexpectedly to annoy the tender sensibilities and temporarily obstruct the wheels of progress. And they are all agreed as to the multitude of discrepancies existing in dates as found on most public records; births, marriages and deaths are often found to entirely disagree with private family records, rendering it an impossibility to determine the correctness of either without ample proof that the date of birth, marriage and death were recorded at the time of their occurrence. It is well known to the writer that several families who had not for many years kept a family record, made at one sitting from memory alone an entry of births, marriages and deaths of large families of children; and as the memory of dates in particular is so very apt to prove treacherous, it goes far to show in many cases how these discrepancies are brought about. Dates of infant baptisms are often found to be nearer correct than the births recorded after this manner. One case in point comes readily to mind.

A wholesale entry of births was made in the family Bible by an elderly lady long since deceased, (who, if living, would still take oath to the correctness of her statement) wherein some of the births were dated several months subsequent to their baptism; and as these baptisms were recorded consecutively, and doubtless within a short time after the ceremony,-it is obvious to all that the latter should be regarded as nearer the true date. Even gravestones are not exempt from the general charge of error and should be held only in substitution till the inscription thereon can be verified. Most gravestones are not erected till a long time after the deceased person has been laid away, and memory is once more brought into play to supply the date of his or her departure.-

Another annoying difficulty has arisen and one which is likely to produce some degree of dissatisfaction to those concerned, wherein different data has been received from different members and relatives of the same family, pertaining to the same subject matter, and which in fact does not agree in some instances with the town records. In these cases the only way to bridge the trouble is to give the due authority of each statement, that all may become satisfied with their own figures at least.

In preparing this history for the press, it has been carefully compared with the original correspondence, as far as that goes, so that no blame may fall upon the compiler in that direction; and it is hoped that the criticising public will deal leniently as possible with him, after the foregoing explanation, and in the consideration of the fact that the uninitiated who have taken no part in its compilation, cannot have a comprehensive idea of the vastness of the work, the reconciling of doubtful data, anxious waiting for delinquent correspondents- and a multitude of other perplexities, sandwiched in between the upper and nether millstones of hope and despair,-all of which necessarily, it would seem, are constituent properties of, and adjuncts to, the common experience of the average genealogist. But this is only the shadowed part of the picture, necessary to throw out in bolder relief and contrast, that other side which, after the last stride has been taken up the hill Difficulty, stands forth in a glorious effulgence as a reward for years of anxious but pleasurable toil.

Although it would be a source of great satisfaction to all concerned, to know more of their ancestral kin across the great basin, the great expense alone has prevented any research in that direction-this appertains alone to the two lines under consideration. In the aforesaid history of the descendants of William Blake of Dorchester, by Samuel Blake, four generations of Enlish pedigree are given, which, however, by later research, has been ascertained to be erroneous, and another ancestral line, which is thought to be the correct one, subsequently established. The Blake Bros., bankers of Boston, have been at great pains and expense, through the instumentality of Mr. George H. Somerby, the noted genealogical expert, then located in England, in obtaining an English illustrated preface to their Blake history in Manuscript, depicting several of the more ancient and prominent homestead residences of the period, now extant.

In the Appendix will appear a brief notice of several independent Blake lines, without doubt having their origin in the main old English stock, and which may be of interest to their descendants scattered throughout the country at large; and it is hoped that at some future day an exertion will be made by some interested party or parties to enlarge upon the same, even to completion. Such a combined work was begun several years since by Rev. Charles M. Blake, Chaplain of U. S. Army, but serious hindrances compelled him to abandon the effort, although his interest in its fulfilment is not a whit abated, and he would rejoice to see the grand combination carried to its entire completion.

A few words in explanation of the family arrangement may not go amiss. The Slafter system has been adopted, and, with one or two examples is quite easy of comprehension: viz.

Jasper Blake is number 1, and of the first generation.His descendants who bear the family name stand in numerical order from himself to the end of the list.

Small figures at the end of a name, thus "Jasper 1," indicate the generation to which the individual belongs.

Figures enclosed in parenthesis after a name, in its numerical order, thus; "15 Moses 2,(42)" denote that he is a subject for future and distinct notice,and will be found forward at number 42, in its consecutive arrangement.

In the first instance, he is mentioned at No. 15, as a child, and is carried forward to No. 42 as head of a family. Likewise, in order, to readily ascertain his original numerical position, his first number, 15, will be put in parenthesis after his name, thus; "42 Moses 2, (15)"; and by turning back to 15, his name will first be found.

The pedigree of every head of a family will be preserved throughout, thus; "Alonzo 7, son of Samuel 6 (Jesse 5, Winthrop 4, Timothy 3, Timothy 2,Jasper 1)"

The family history of every married woman will be treated of immediately, and not carried forward, unless too voluminous in its description; in which case the usual references will be made.

The following abbreviations will be used; such as, b, for born; bapt for baptism, m for married; unm for unmarried; d for died; res for reside, or residence; adm for administration; est for estate; ch for children;Ch for church; gr for granted.

The Descendants of Jasper Blake of Hampton, N.H.

First Generation

1. Jasper Blake 1, the patriarchal ancestor of this branch of the Blake family, was of Hampton, Rockingham county, N.H., sometime prior to 1649, (date of his first child's birth), which is the earliest known of him on record. It is supposed by some that he was one of the first settlers of Winnicumet, (now called Hampton), in 1638,-Godfrey Dearborn and fifty five others, chiefly from Norfolk Co., England, having presented a petition,"praying for liberty to settle there", which was granted them. They began the settlement by laying out a township in one hundred and forty seven shares; and having formed a church they chose Stephen Batchelder for their minister, with whom Timothy Dalton was soon after associated" (Belknap's Hist. N.H.).

It has also been presumed that he was related in some manner to the family of William Blake, perhaps a nephew, who came from England to Dorchester, 1630, in the ship,"Mary and John", and that said Jasper, nine years later may have accompanied Rev. Timothy Dalton, from Dorchester, or its vicinity to Hampton. But, these are matters of assumption and speculation only, there being no visible proof that the writer can seize upon to corroborate the foregoing assertions, and locate his whereabouts, prior to 1649. His vocation was that of a mariner or fisherman, which he followed for several years, and his frequent and prolonged absence from his adopted home, may account in a great measure for the limited knowledge we have of him. That he was married four times, according to the history of Raymond, N. H. is without the slightest foundation for belief; nor does the author of that work have the faintest recollection at this late day from what source he obtained the said information. Doubtless there may have been some little matters of record to give rise to that opinion; but it is more probable the outcome of some local or family tradition, that, like many others of the same nature, have been suffered to linger along in a smothered growth, no one caring to question its truth. The records have been carefully scanned, and so far are clear of any of the foregoing imputations.

In the old Norfolk County deeds, (which are deposited in the Essex registry of deeds office, Salem, Mass) Vol 1 p 134, appears the following instrument, under date of Nov 4, 1650, which is the first recorded land conveyance in the name of Jasper Blake, and probably made some two or three years after marriage with a view to settling down in life.

"Jasper Blake, Hampton, fisherman, from Thomas Ward of Hampton, for £35, "One dwelling house, with the Appurtenances one barne and one house Lott, containing by estimation seven acres & halfe an acre adjoyning to the said house & barne; And also ten acres of upland, six acres of salt marsh, and one share of the Cowes common, All which said house barne land & premises with the appurtneances are cituate lying & being in Hampton aforesaid and lately were in the possession of the said Thomas Ward and now are in the tenure and occupation of the said Jasper Blape". John Dand. John Redman Jasper Blake settled in the northern part of the town, and the above house-lot as located by Dea. Joseph Dow, a life long inhabitant of the place, "lies nearly opposite to the School house in District No. 4, and has been occupied by his descendants till very recently."

Another deed, recorded in Vol. 1, p61, Norfolk Co. Rec is as follows:
Jasper Blake, Hampton, seaman, from Rev. Timothie Dalton, of Hampton "on just & Matuer considerations give & bequeath one hundred acres of meadow & upland being part of my farme lying wth in ye bounds of ye towne afores d yt as to say eight acres of medow & ninety two of upland, ye meadow being on this side of ye brooke yt runneth through ye meadow between ye said brooke on ye north & part of ye upland, on ye south the upland lying between the land given to Em: Hilliard on ye north & ye farme of Rodger Shawe towards the South one head uppon ye meadow towards ye East & the other head butting ye aforesaid farme towards the west, to have" etc. Nathan Batchelder Tho. Nudd Vol 3 p32, Old Norfolk deeds under dat of Feb 28, 1669, Jasper Blake of Hampton, seaman & wife Deborah, sold to Joseph Moulton of Hampton 10 acres of planting land "in certain field called ye North playne" bounded south on Morris Hobbs, now in possession of John Hobbs, North on Robert Marston, now in hands of Benjamin Moulton, abutting with one head on common way towards the west and common ground towards the east" Hannah Dalton Samuel Dalton, jr.

Vol 1 p 61, under date of Oct 8, 1657, Rev Timothy Dalton, bequeathes by deed of gift "to Emanuel Hilliard, my loving kinsman of Hampton," one hundred acres, being a portion of his farm, eight acres of which are fresh meadow, "lying beyond ye brook yt runs through the meadow, lying between Tayler's river on ye North & ye afores'd brooke on ye South & ye rest of ye aforesaid one hundred acres to be made up in upland lying between Tayler's river on ye North & another part of ye farme given unto Jasper Blake on ye South one head abutting uppon ye aforesaid meadow towards ye East, & the other head butting uppon ye part of ye aforesaid farm towards ye West." Mr. Dalton

On the same day Mr. Dalton made a deed of gift to Nathaniel Batchelder, it being "ye remainder of my farm as yett undisposed of to Manuell Hilliard & Jasper Blake, seamen". It will be observed that Mr. Dalton calls Mr. Hilliard his Kinsman, how this relationship exists, has not yet been determined; but singularly enough, within a week after the latter had received his deed of gift of 100 acres, he with several others met with a fatal accident, in the river by drowning, as thus says the Norfolk Co. record of deaths. (The number stated, however, should be seven, not eight) viz: "A boate going out of Hampton River was cast away & the persons all drowned who were in number eight: Em: Hilliar, Jno Philbrick & An Philbrick his wyfe: Sarah Philbrick there daughter: Alice the wyfe of Moses Cox & John Cox his sonne: Robert Read: who all perished in ye sea ye 20th of ye 8th mo: 1657" (Oct 20, 1657).

Mar 22, 1663-4, there was an indenture made between Ruth Dalton, widow and executrix of Timothy Dalton and Nathaniel Batchelder, wherein for consideration of £ 200, she constitutes him her heir and delivers into his hands all her possessions including all the houses, barns and lands given to her by her husband, Timothy Dalton, in his last will, and after her decease to pay to the following legatees, their apportioned legacies: viz:- Deborah, wife of John Smith, Elizabeth, wife of Joseph Merry; Phebe, wife of Thomas Arnall, Joseph Parkers, George Parkers, Mary, wife of Thomas Carter of Woburn, Timothy and Benjamin Hilliard, Elizabeth Hilliard, daughter of Elizabeth Merrie; (after the decease of Emmanuel Hilliard, his widow married Joseph Merry); Abigail Ambros, daughter of the wife of John Severans, of Salisbury, Mary, wife of William Fifield, Walter Roper of Ipswich and Hannah Willix. In a following deed of conveyance Mr. Batchelder bestows upon the widow Ruth Dalton, the appelation of aunt. He married Dec 10, 1656, Deborah, dau John and Deborah Smith.

The following is the will of Jasper Blake, copied verbatim et litteratim, from the original on file in Essex Registry of Probate at Salem, Mass: viz:

Note--The above Inventory followed that of Deborah Blake on the same original paper and which was appraised probably at the same time. (P.D.).

Jasper Blake married Deborah, sister of Rev. Timothy Dalton; she died, as per inventory, Dec 20, 1678; he died according to Northwood, N.H., Town Records, Feb 11, 1673-4. For several years he followed the sea, and in later life settled down to farming. [It may as well be noted here that the old Norfolk Co. return of births marriages and deaths, deposited in the Essex Registry of Deeds office, Salem,Mass begin several years earlier than the Hampton records as also the deeds and probate matter. The Hampton town records beginning 1654, and the Norfolk Co. records in 1637. The two first births of Jasper's children are found in the latter, while the third is found in neither]

32. Philemon 2, [11], (Jasper 1), b May 23, 1671; there is no will or administration of his estate on record, but the compiler found in the possession of Mrs.Ira Blake of Kensington, among several quite ancient documents, which she very kindly submitted to his inspection, an original will, which apparently was never presented for probate:-likewise several unrecorded deeds. This proved an unexpected, and pleasurable pastime, and all the papers, as they were directly connected with the object of the visit, were duly copied. This will was made Sept 16, 1743, in which he gives his wife Sarah during her widowhood, one half of his dwelling house, and all the movables & utensils in the house; all his stock of creatures; one half of his land between the road that leads from deacon Sanborn to Samuel Blake's and the road that leads to Caleb Swain:-the house and land at his wife's decease to go to son Joshua.

To son Joshua, the other half of the house and buildings where he now lives, and all his right in the town of Chester.

To son Philemon, one half the land where he,(Philemon) now lives, and the other half after his mother's decease, and part of the land at Burnt Swamp, reserving nine acres for son Elisha on the west side; all the rest of his land at said Burnt Swamp he gives to son Philemon, and his land in Chester he bought of Nathaniel and John Ambros, and one half of a lot at Grassy swamp.

To son Elisha all the lands he has in Kingston, and three half shares in first west division in Hampton, and nine acres in Burnt Swamp.

To two daughters, Elizabeth Lane and Deborah Veasy, he gives £10 each.

To daughters Sarah Bean, £10, to be paid by son Philemon who is appointed executor.

There was another paper purporting to be the will of Sarah, widow of Philemon Blake without date, and a subsequent agreement between the children, made Dec 29, 1755, which is substantially as follows:
"To Joshua Blake, she bequeaths her great Bible and great chair. To Philemon Blake her crosscut saw. To Elisha Blake a pair of handirons that were commonly used in the room where she lived. To her granddaughter Sarah Blake, (now Sarah Stevens, wife of Nathaniel Stevens), her brass Kettle, her little Iron pot, one cow, a feather bed and bedding; and to her three daughters, Elizabeth Lane, (wife of Samuel Lane), Deborah Veasey, (wife of Benjamin Veasey), and Sarah Bean, (wife of Jeremiah Bean), all her movables except what is before disposed of, and appointed her two sons the said Philemon and Joshua, Executors, and ordered her stock of creatures to pay her debts and funeral expenses:-

Now it is agreed between said Joshua, Philemon, Elisha, Sarah Stevens and Nathaniel Stevens, Elizabeth and Samuel Lane, Deborah & Benj. Veasey, and Sarah and Jeremiah Bean, That sd Joshua shall take to his own use and profit the said stock of creatures and shall out of them discharge all the debts of sd deceased & funeral charges x x x, and further agree to take and receive of sd Joshua the said legacies x x x and hereby acknowledge to have rec'd the sd legacies of the said Joshua before the ensealing of these presents x x x

June 18, 1707, he bought of Love Sherburne of Hampton, and John Sherburne of Kingston, for £5, two half shares in West division, Hampton, not far from Daniel Tilton's farm, xx being Nos 305 and 306, lying between a lot of James Fellows and a lot of Eben'r Davis: said two lots containing about 30 acres.

Joseph Smith Mary Smith

Aug 20, 1712, he bought of Zechariah Clifford, 11 acres in Hampton, being one half of a share in the first west division, lot 216, bounded west on James Johnson, east and south ends on highway, and northward on Exeter line.

Dec 2, 1717, he and wife Sarah convey to Dr. Nathaniel Sargent of Hampton, 7 acres at Hampton Falls, bounded east and north on Timothy Blake, south on Joseph Shaw, west on the town's land, or a highway leading from Hampton Falls to Blake's gate, with a dwelling house, barn and other buildings.

Aug 4, 1718, he sold to Benjamin James for £5:10S, one quarter share of a cow's common.

April 1, 1718, he bought of Joshua Wingate, of Hampton three half shares in first west division, formerly belonging to Francis Page and Abraham Cole: one lot being the tenth from Salisbury line containing 11 acres, the other two, of 22 acres being lots 102 and 103. Jacob Green Samuel Marston

Dec 27, 1720, he deeded to James Leavitt of Exeter, 20 acres, it being 2 half shares in first west division.

Apr 14, 1725, conveyed to Benj. Hills of Newbury, cooper, a house lot of 23 acres in Chester.

Apr 13, 1725, for £60, he and Robert Dow bought of Samuel Blake jr, (son of Timothy), 35 acres in Kingston on Hampton line, bounded on John Webster and Capt. Joseph Tilton.

The last deed of record, we find in his name, is that of thirteen and one quarter of acres conveyed by way of exchange, to Benjamin Moulton Mar 1, 1727; and the only public office he is known to have held, is that of constable, in 1719.

In a petition, signed by 110 persons Sept 24, 1719, for a township "in y^{e} ll Chestnutt Country", addressed "To his Excellency Samuel Shute, Esq., Capt. Gen^{ll} & Command r in Chief in and over His Majesty's Province of New Hampshire," etc., appear the names of Philemon, Samuel Sr, Samuel jr, and Israel Blake. "The petition was granted Aug 26, 1720, and the town was subsequently called Chester" (Hist:Chester).

Philemon Blake resided in Hampton Falls, where he is first found as constable 1719, and subsequently as tax payer. As an inhabitant of Hampton, he joined with Moses, Timothy Sr, and Israel Blake and others, 1709, in a petition to sett off the southern part of the town, as a separate township, which was in 1711, incorporated as a parish, and called Hampton Falls. Feb 28, 1732-3, he with Moses Sr., Timothy, Jedediah & Samuel Blake, and other inhabitants of Hampton Falls petition for a tavern license. Mr. Blake appears to have been endowed with considerable energy of character, a leading man of the town, and, as a farmer for those times, quite wealthy. He married Jan 20, 1697-8, Sarah, dau of Henry and Elizabeth (Marian) Dearborn, b Nov 9, 1675; d as per will about 1755. She is descended from Godfrey Dearborn, the patriarch of the Dearborn family in this country, who is said to have been born in Exeter, Devon Co., southwest part of England. He was twice married; the first wife and date of marriage are unknown. She was living, 1650, and died previous to Nov 25, 1662, when he m Dorothy, widow of Philemon Dalton, bro to Rev. Timothy, by which marriage there was no issue. He first settled in Exeter, N.H., and removed to Hampton 1638, where, Mar 4, 1650, seats were assigned to "goodman and goody Dearborn in Hampton meeting house". By his first wife he had six children, among them Henry, b 1633; m Jan 10, 1665-6, Elizabeth Marian, probably dau of John and Sarah, as we find on Norfolk Co. Rec the death of Sarah, wife of John Marian of Hampton Jan 26, 1670. He had seven children, one of whom, Sarah, as above stated, m Philemon Blake. On the incorporation of the parish Mr. and Mrs. Blake were dismissed from the Church at Hampton to help form one at the Falls.

40. Moses 3 [15], (Timothy 2, Jasper 1), b Hampton___1682; d May 4, 1752, aged 70 yrs. He made his will Feb 17, 1746-7; admitted to probate May 27, 1752, in which he calls himself "aged", and names his wife Abigail, grandson Josiah Blake, to whom he gives 2 half shares in his first West division, "as I have given his father Hezekiah"; sons Moses and Jonathan, 2 eldest daughters Hannah, wife of Edw'd Locke, Abigail, wife of Tristram Sanborn, other daus Mary, wife of Francis Batchelder, and Maria, wife of Theophilus Batchelder.

He was of Hampton Falls as late as 1737, and after that we find him a resident of "Kensington Parish of Hampton", whether he removed from the Falls into the place, or he lived within that section of territory, which was sett off about 1736 for the new town or parish of Kensington, is not certain; but the latter theory seems more probable as at the first town meeting held in Kensington Apr 18, 1737, he was chosen tything man. He was both a weaver and farmer. June 18, 1712, he and his brother Israel received a deed of gift of one half of their father Timothy's farm, lying between the land of Joseph Shaw and Timothy Hilliard, of Hampton, except the timber, which was to be at his disposal.

Jan 9, 1724-5, he sold for £40 to Joseph Richardson, of Newbury, Mass. "one original right in ye new town called Chester,-lot 114."

Apr 30, 1728, he conveyed by deed of gift to his son Hezekiah 72 acres in first West division, 3d range, it being 2 half shares he bought of Richard Taylor.

Nov 2, 1730, he and his brother Israel divide the one half of their father's farm he gave them June 18, 1712; see above.

May 31, 1738, he, of Kensington Parish of Hampton, weaver, and wife Abigail deed to Wm. Russell of Hampton Falls for £165, one eighth of an acre of upland in Hampton Falls, which was comparitively a very large sum for so small a quantity of land in those days.

Feb 4, 1743-4, he, of Kensington, deeded to his son Moses 22 acres in Kensington, it being two half shares in the first West division.

In anticipation of trouble with the French and Indians, in 1708, a scouting party was raised, who, ranged the country from Kingston to Cocheco to prevent any sudden surprise from the enemy, and four hundred men from Mass were posted in various sections of this province, besides an additional force, furnished by Portsmouth and Hampton, who were stationed at Fort Wm. and Henry at Newcastle, N.H. among whom was Mr. Blake, who served from Jun 1 to July 15 of that year.

In 1710, he was one of the signers to a petition to sett off the south part of Hampton, as a distinct parish, known afterwards as Hampton Falls, and he was chosen 1718 one of the first Selectmen, and afterwards in 1732-3, and he also joined in a petition for a tavern license in that place, which was granted "In council, Feb 28, 1732-3". He became quite a prominent and influential citizen, and took a leading part in all the prominent affairs of the town, whether at Hampton Falls or in Kensington. It is quite probable that he kept the tavern, aforesaid, for a while at least, as we find Sept 2, 1737, that "His Excellency was pleased to order that the General Assembly should be prorogued, to Thursday the 13th Oct next 10 O'clock, and then to meet at the house of Moses Blake in Hampton Falls; and the said General Assembly was prorogued accordingly to Thursday, Oct 13, 1737."

At the first town meeting held at Kensington, Apr 18, 1737, he was chosen "tything man"; Mar 20, 1739, he was elected as a leather Sealer, and highway Surveyor, and Mar 4, 1745, chosen assessor. ioned with his brother Moses at Ft. Wm. and Henry at Newcastle, from July 13 to July 27, 1708, to guard against the attack of the French and Indians.

He was one of the original grantees of Andover, N.H., 1746,(Vol 1 p14, Farmer & Moore's Hist N.H.). Sept 24, 1719, he with 110 other persons signed a petition for a township in the "Chestnut country", afterwards called Chester.(See Philemon Blake,[32]). Selectman of Hampton Falls, 1718 and 1734.

May 29, 1725, a vote was passed in the N.H. House of Rep. making an allowance "to Capt. Nath'l Hill for dieting Timothy Blake and seven souldiers 3 weeks and 4 days at 7S per week,-£10." 71. Samuel 3 [21], (Timothy 2, Jasper 1), b Hampton, Nov. 3, 1696; nothing has been discovered to note the time of is decease, but was living in Kensington late as 1766, after which his name disappears from the tax list. On the deeds he is variously called farmer, miller and laborer; in distinction from his cousin Samuel [26], son of John, he is designated "Samuel jr" or "son of Timothy". "The "jr" on ancient records was commonly substituted for a term now used as "2nd", as well as "cousin" which often signified nephew;-both of which terms often mislead and confuse the best experts in their antiquated researches. Timothy Blake in his will bequeathed to son Samuel his grist mill; and as a miller he continued his father's vocation in connection with the farm. He was an original grantee in the town of Chester; and June 10, 1721, while of Hampton, he sold to Mary Dow, widow and adm'x of Josiah Dow of Hampton, his one half right of 20 acres, 2d division, "lying west from Kingston in part, and West from Exeter, commonly called Wendfield, being lot 119, originally laid out to sd Samuel".

Dec 26, 1722, he conveyed to Benj. Marshall of Ipswich, Mass., one half of an original right in Chester, lot 119, "except 5 acres sold to Benj. Smith in the room of which Mary Dow is to have 20 acres in 2d div., as will appear by sale of my other half of my right at sd Chester to sd Mary Dow."

Feb 6, 1723-4, sold to Luther Morgan one-half of a 60 acre lot in Kingston. July 2, 1725, he deeded to Oliver Smith of Exeter, N.H., 15 acres in Kingston. Apr 13, 1725, for £60, sold to Philemon Blake and Robert Dow, 35 acres in Kingston on Hampton line, bounded on John Webster and Joseph Tilton.

June 5, 1728, conveyed to John Green 10 acres, 2d west div., north end of 54th lot. June 27, 1728, sold to Edward Tuck, 4 acres, bounded on Philemon Blake; also Dec 12, 1732, he and wife Ann for £212:12S, sold to said Tuck 26 acres.

He lived in that part of Hampton, which was set off for the town of Kensington; and Oct 30, 1742, when of the latter place he conveyed to Benj. Prescott, 8 acres meadow in lot 14. Mar 13, 1744 he sold to Jona. Prescott "4 acres in Kensington where sd Samuel now lives, bounded north on the way from Drinkwater to Kensington." May 14, 1747, he is called an "Inn holder", at which time he sold 10 acres in Kensington to Charles Govwood of Portsmouth. In 1746, he and his son Samuel were original grantees of Andover, formerly New Britain, N.H., and Dec 25, 1761, the former sold to Enoch Poor of Exeter, one of his rights there.

The Indians haveing commenced their depredations on the settlements early in 1723, Mr. Blake joined May 6 of that year, a scouting party of 54 men under Capt. John Gilman, "who marched to Winnipissiocky Pond through the wilderness." Their mission ended on the 18th, having been in service 13 days, apparently without the loss of a man. He removed early to Breakfast Hill (now Greenland), N.H., where his name appears in a petition of the inhabitants in 1725, and where all of his children were baptized. At that period the attacks of the savages were so sudden and frequent that a law was passed compelling the inhabitants to go constantly armed from place to place, especially to church on the Sabbath. For a violation of this ordinance, Mr. Blake was, Oct 15, 1722, fined 1S 6d. (Greenland, which lies above Northampton, was originally a township of Portsmouth). He enlisted May 6, 1723, in the same scouting party with Samuel Blake, previously mentioned, and discharged at the same time. Between Mar 1741-2 and Dec 1743, he removed with his family to Epsom, which place received its town charter in 1723; first town meeting held under the charter 1727, and on whose records his name first appears in 1729, as drawing a 20 acre lot; and again in 1732, when, as one of the twenty original grantees, he drew a 50 acre lot to fulfil the charter. In the same year, he drew a proprietors lot. (Epsom T. Rec.)

June 2, 1714, while of Hampton, he sold Nathaniel Prescott of Hampton, 20 acres, in 2d west div., 106th lot.

Apr 5, 1737, when of Greenland, township of Portsmouth, he sold to Wm. Wallis of same place, 5 acres.

Mar 2, 1741-2, he and wife Mary, for £595, sold to Thomas Berry of Greenland, 50 acres; also 7 in Vaughan's farm and 1 acre in Rye.

Dec 2, 1743, we find him in Epsom, when he conveyed to Thos. Berry 23 acres, lying in Hampton on Portsmouth line.

Apr 21, 1749, he sold to his son John of Epsom for £100, 47 acres in 48th lot, 2d range, in Epsom, which was given to the 20 men to settle said town; also same day he deeded to son Samuel 50 acres, it being the home lot, No. 10.

Dec 14, 1754, he conveyed to son Dearborn, 2 tracts in Epsom, one being the home lot, No. 5.

Oct 11, 1759, he made a deed of gift to his son Thomas of Epsom, of 50 acres, "on which my house stands, it being the original lot of Thomas Berry, No. 4."

Mr. Blake m Dec 30, 1714, Mary Dearborn, dau of Samuel 3 (Henry 2, Godfrey 1), and Mercy (Batchelder), b Northampton, N.H., Apr 23, 1695. He removed with his family between April, 1737, and April, 1738, to Falmouth, (now Portland), Me., the place then being a complete wilderness, and almost entirely unsubjected to the plow and axe of the sturdy yeoman, inhabited by plenty of wild game, (some too wild, in fact, for comfort), and surrounded by hordes of treacherous savages who gave but little peace to the settlers at times. At home in Hampton he had acquired a considerable estate which he disposed of before removal as follows: Nov 18, 1723, he sold to Joseph Towle, Sr., one-half of a right of 15 acres in 2d div., near Peter Pevey's house. Apr 5, 1735, he deeded to Henry Dearborn, 7 acres in 2d North div., at the North end of lot No. 19. Sept 15,1735, he and wid. Mehitable Godfrey as executors of the will of Jona. Godfrey, sold to Wm. All of the foregoing deeds were abstracted from the Rockingham Co. records; those following were taken from the York co. Me. records: viz:- Mar 15, 1736-7, "Jasper Blake of Hampton", bought for £300 of Cornelius Hall of Falmouth, and wife Elizabeth, 25 acres with a house and garrison thereon, and part of the fence enclosing the same, it being the land where said Hall dwelt, "at a place called the Back Cove in Falmouth", it being the estate he and Thomas Emerson bought of Caleb Wallis of Salem, mariner, except what they sold Eben'r Hall, jr. out of their said purchase. Apr 11, 1738, he bought of Eben'r Hall jr nine and one-half acres, bounded at the S. W. corner of 7 acres sold to Cornelius Hall, Mar 7, 1737-8. Bought of Corn's Hall June 4, 1738, for £34, a tract of 80 acres and 54 rods, bounded W. on Isaac and Thomas Sawyer, E. on common land, S. on James Barbour, and N.on James Merrill. Dec 25, 1739, he sold for £30, to Samuel Bean, of Falmouth, 4 acres at Back Cove, bounded on the 20 acres, which said Bean bought of Stephen Jones. Mar 31, 1740, sold for £30 to James Barber, three and one-half acres.

It is quite probable that Mr. Blake settled on the 25 acres at "Back Cove", so called, and occupied the garrison house, and there resided till his decease. Doubtless "Casco Bay", so named on the Rockingham Co. deeds, is a general name for the whole district, and both identical, perhaps, with Cape Elizabeth, one of the oldest towns in the state, situated on the S.E.shore of said bay, adjoining Portland.

On account of the total destruction of the Probate records of Cumberland Co.

by the late disastrous fire at Portland, we are unable to give any material facts concerning any settlement of estates pertaining to the Blake family of that section of the state, and the descendants of Jasper 3, alone, are very numerous in the state at large. Falmouth, (now Portland), was in York co. till the county of Cumberland was set off in 1760.

He was a shipwright; removed early to Newbury, Massl, and probably lived in that section of the town now known as Newburyport, as it was only there he could ply his trade. Nov 8, 1721, after his removal, he sold Thomas Marston, Sr., of Hampton, 30 acres in first north div, lying between land of Simon Marston and John Johnson, on Portsmouth line. (Rockingham Co. Deeds). The following are from Essex co. records. Dec 1, 1722, he sells John Ordway for £100, twenty-five of land on Merrimack river known as the river lot, together with a dwelling house on said land. Apr 7, 1725, the same is deeded back to him.

Oct 26, 1730, he sells for £50, to Benj. Badger, shipwright, the east half of his dwelling house, and one-half of his 25 acre lot on Merrimack river, known as the river lot. Sept 11, 1732, Mr. Badger sold the same estate to his sister,Mary Badger.

There is no will or settlement of his estate; and as no mention is made of the family after 1745, it is probable he removed from the county. He made his will June 2, 1774; probated Feb 26, 1777, in which he names wife Susanna, (who d before her husband), and sons John, Jeremiah and Henry; the last two of whom he appoints executors. He was a sturdy yeoman, and resided in Hampton Falls upon his father's farm, which he inherited after his mother's decease. His habits were peculiar and amusingly eccentric. A great grandson describes him thus: "Joshua Blake, my great grandfather, was a very active, industrious and well to do farmer, and possessed withal an iron constitution. It was his habit in the winter season to rise quite early,-put on his sheepskin breeches,and then,bare legged, barefooted, and without coat or jacket,(no matter how intense the cold), run through the snow drifts to the barn,-feed his cattle, and after choring around awhile, return to the house, kindle a fire, and put on the bean porridge pot; after which he would complete his toilet and calling all hands to breakfast, he would heartily indulge in his favorite dish,-bean porridge, which was quite a common article of food in those days, and then proceed to the labors of the day. Another habit he had, (which would try the nerves of most men now-a-days), in arising from his bed on some cold morning,-go to the river, and after cutting a hole in the ice, would set down, and submerge his feet in the water one half hour at a time; thinking by this torturing process of self denial, to unure and harden himself to the chilling blasts of a long and tedious winter. But during the latter years of his life he became very decrepid and suffered much from rheumatism, probably brought on by his indiscreet habits of exposure. He was obliged to hobble painfully around on two stout canes visiting alternately the barn and the dwellings of his sons who lived near by on the undivided homestead, making himself useful as he could under the circumstances. Notwithstanding his sore infirmities, he would sit in his chair and do all the churning for both families; thresh grain at the barn and clean it up with a large corn-fan made of birch bark. In hoeing time his grandsons would carry his hoe, while he trudged slowly along on his canes to the field, where, throwing the latter aside, he would challenge the boys to keep pace with him in hilling corn or potatoes. Work, work, work, was the motto of his days of labor, and well did he exemplify it to the last."

By his father's will he came into possession of the former's 100 acre lot in Chester, it being an original grant, one-half of which he conveyed, Jan 15, 1759, to Wm. Presbury of that town. This is the only deed recorded in his name, as doubtless most of his landed estate was obtained through inheritance. In 1739, he with several other persons in Hampton Falls and Kingston petitioned for those places to be annexed to Mass; which petition however, failed in its passage.

He was a true and uncompromising patriot, and signed, 1776, the Association test. In 1751, he was chosen tything man. Towards the close of Rev. Mr. Fogg's ministry there arose between him and the parish, some little petty disturbances which finally culminated in his removal from the pastoral office he had sustained for over a half century. Before his resgnation, however, an attempt was made to bridge over the matter, and to effect a reconciliation. For this purpose, Mar 11, 1789, a large committee, among whom were the subject of this notice and his son Elisha, was chosen to arbitrate and heal the existing differences, but without avail. The position having become vacant, another committee was raised, Oct 1, 1789, Elisha being one of the number, "to hire a candidate upon probation to settle as a minister, if they shall think after hearing him a convenient time."

He was also on a committee, who "voted to give Mr. Fogg $50 and 5 cords of wood, during the rest of his life", which, however, he refused to accept. (Kensington Parish Rec.)

Edward, and were posted by orders of Gen'l Webb at the Fort of No. 4,(now Charlestown, N.H.). This call was in consequence of the horrid and brutal massacre of the N.H. troops by the Indians in violation of the treaty between Gen. Moncalm and Col. Monroe. Fort Wm. Henry was invested by the French and Indians, Col Monroe in command; and on Aug 3, he capitulated, Montcalm promising an escort to Ft.Edward with their baggage. But the troops on leaving the fort were attacked by the Indians, robbed and murdered. The N.H. battallion being in the rear, suffered severely, and out of 200 men, 80 were killed and taken. Of the Blakes enlisted in this battallion, there were Eben'r (69), Philemon(118), and Jethro(133).

He resided in Kensington till about 1740, when he removed and settled in that part of Kingston, which was set off and incorporated as the town of Hawke in 1760, which name was subsequently changed in 1836, to that of Danville. Dec 13, 1738, while of Kensington, he and wife Mary sold for £2, to Samuel Sleeper, carpenter, of Kensington, his lot No.26, in said town. Oct 8, 1740, after his removal to Kingston, he and wife Mary conveyed to Phineas Batchelder, of K__, 40 acres, it being lot 24 in the upper west division,"originally laid out to our father John Sanborn, late of Kingston, dec'd, and which fell to us as part of our portion". Dec 5, 1763, when of Hawke, Kingston, he deeded to son Timothy, two tracts of land in Kingston, and in 1792, to son Jonathan, Esq., 35 acres in Hawke. In 1779, he with others, signed a petition for a town meeting, to pay the minister more salary on account of the depreciated currency, (a natural result of the war), which rendered his salary insufficient. As a test of his general usefulness and trust worthiness as a citizen, he was often identified with public office, and in 1792, in his advanced years was chosen selectman. In 1745, he enlisted as private in 5th Co. Mass. troops in expedition to Louisburg, under Capt. John Kinslagh. Jan 9, 1783, it was "Ordered that the Treas r pay him", (Jona.Blake), "57S & gd, being ful of his acc't for keeping and nursing Abraham Matthews, a continental soldier" (Comm. Safety papers, N.H.)

His first recorded deed is dated Dec 20, 1768, when he conveys to "his son Pain Blake of Exeter", for £75, one-half of the home place where he then lived, in Epping, and the two rooms in the west end of the house, with the west half of the chamber over said rooms. It was probably about this time that Paine removed to Epping. July 10, 1770, he sold to Nathan Gove Prescott, blacksmith, 23 acres in Epping. He retired from the army that year and "built the house which was for many years the residence of his son Judge John Harvey. It is very pleasantly situated on the northerly side and commands a fine view of Harvey Lake, so called; and is now (1880) kept as a hotel known as "Harvey House." At the time of its erection, it was so much superior to most dwellings then built thereabouts, that some of the Colonel's townsmen were inclined to hint at his extravagance as they regarded it. It is said he was a man who believed in good cheer; and that war-worn veterans, his former companions in arms, were often welcomed to the generous hospitalities of his new mansion" (S.C. Buzzell, Exeter, N.H.)

Com. Pleas, 1818 to 1820, and Judge of Probate for Rockingham Co. from 1826 to 1838, when he resigned on account of failing health. He was likewise first President of the Manufacturing Co., and for many years President of the Granite State Bank, Exeter. Commencing in early life with limited means, by close application to business and strict integrity of character he succeeded. He was a man of fixed principles and maintained a perfect system in all his undertakings; he had the respect of the people of his town and county, who placed him in positions of responsibility and trust, which he filled to the satisfaction of all. 168. Israel 4[53],(Israel 3, Timothy 2, Jasper 1), b Hampton Apr 2, 1716; removed with his father from Hampton Falls about 1749, to Nottingham, N.H.; thence, about 1757, he appears in Kensington, where he had a daughter baptized that year, but no other children. His stay here was somewhat limited, and he may have returned to Nottingham, where he probably remained till between 1765 and 1773, when he, so says a descendant, accompanied with his wife, son Ephraim and two daughters removed to Cape Rozier, a village in the S. W. part of the present town of So. Brooksville, Me. Here he cleared a fine lot of land that joins the farm of one of his great grand sons, Nelson Blake, of Cape Rozier, which farm has not been out of the family since its first settlement. He, with his father was one of the original grantees of Andover, N.H., in 1746, but did not settle. July 21, 1752, while of Nottingham, he, and his brother Benjamin, of the same place, sold for £450 to Robert Kelsey of N-, 17 acres on Bow st., it being the original right of Jacob Rowell, which they bought of Samuel Goodhue.

Mar 9, 1756, he sold to Capt. Joseph Cilley of Nottingham,25 acres he bought of his father, and one quarter of a 100 acre lot, originally laid out to Jacob Rowell.

After most persistent enquiry, and a diligent search of the records, no date of his decease, marriage, or name of his wife can be found. The records of most of the more lately settled towns of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, were very loosely kept as to births, marriages and deaths. Quite frequently, several years would pass over a new settlement before its incorporation as a town, and during that period several important changes might transpire, which would never go upon record to the edification of after generations. In this way alone much valuable material is forever lost.

In 1739, he, with others of different towns, petitioned for annexation to Mass. In 1732, at the age of twenty, he owned the Covenant at the church in Greenland, N.H.; but it does not appear that any of his family were baptized there subsequently. As the earlier town records of Greenland were destroyed by fire, it is impossible to glean any information respecting this branch of the family as having at any time, a residence there, before or after 1736, the date of his first born child. It will be perceived that a hiatus of twelve years exists between this date, and the birth of his second child; and yet it cannot be known if he had others born in the interim; but surely he had two more than the town records give him credit for, --one of them certainly born after Enoch. He m Mary .

203. Samuel 4 [74],(Samuel 3, Timothy 2, Jasper 1), b Hampton Falls (now Kensington), ; d Andover, N.H., ; living 1782. He was both a farmer and miller; was in the Louisburg expedition, and, Nov 20, 1745, a member of Capt. Jona. Prescott's Co.; also, in the following year, he was a soldier under Maj. Hill and drew from the Provincial Treasury a bounty of £2:10. As early as 1746, he and his father Samuel, are named on the Proprietors Records of New Britain (now Andover), N.H., as two of the original grantees of that town, belonging to Kensington. It is certain that the father did not settle, nor did the son remove thither till between 1761 and 1767. The township of New Britain was laid out forty miles square, and incorporated as a town June 20, 1773, at which time Mr. Blake was chosen one of the three assessors. At the next town meeting, held Mar 15, 1774, he was chosen Moderator. He appears to have been a very active and influential man in church and town affairs. It seems that no attempt at church organization had been effected in Andover till as late as 1782. June 10th of that year, it was "Voted that Samuel Blake", and others, "be a committee to hire preaching the present year. Voted that Wm. Blake" (Son of Sm'l), and others, "be a committee to look out a place to set a meeting House & to purchase land to set it on.

"July 18, 1782, Voted to give Mr. Josiah Badcock a call to settle in said town. Voted to build Mr. Badcock a house the bigness of Mr. Samuel Blake's, so far as to put up the frame and board it.

"Sept 16, 1782, Samuel Blake, "& others, "chosen to call a counsel to ordain Mr. Badcock the last Wednesday in October."

The foregoing are a copy from the town records of Andover; and Rev. Samuel Kingsbury records the fact (May 4, 1829), that "no records nor church documents of any kind could be found".

A church was formed on the day of Mr. Badcock's ordination, consisting of six members, which increased to about thirty, and gradually diminished till 1809, when, June 5, Capt.Wm. Blake, (son of Samuel) with others, was deputed to call a counsel for the dissolution of the pastoral connection with the town.

June 30, 1767, when of New Britain, he sold for £40 to Paul Smith Martin of Raymond, 100 acres in lot 35, first range. July 9, foll'g, he deeded to Benj. Connor of Exeter, his lot No. 1, in said Exeter, on south side of the highway leading from Exeter Meeting house, to the meeting house in Brentwood. In 1775, he was on the "Committee of Safety", and in 1779, chosen Selectman. He m Oct 6, 1748, Mary Beard of Kensington, and they both were members of the first Cong. Ch. of that town, Rev. Jere'h Fogg, pastor. All of their children were born in K., and bapt. at said church.

224. Samuel 4 [78],(John 3, John 2, Jasper 1), b Hampton, Aug 17, 1718; d about Sept, 1801; made his will Aug 22, 1797; pd. Sept 16, 1801. He was a farmer, and settled with his father in Epsom prior to Dec 1743, and is supposed by some to be the first white settler in town. Samuel, it is said by a descendant, purchased his home farm of the Indians for the nominal sum of 9S., giving as part pay a well worn jack knife, valued at 1S; and that before marriage, he lived alone seven years, with no other companions than a cat and dog. This statement, doubtless, is purely traditional and does not seem to agree in all respects with recorded facts, A review of the estates conveyed to and from his father,John Blake, (taking into consideration that the town of Epsom received its charter in 1723, and Mr. Blake not removing until twenty years after.), is convincing evidence that neither father or son could have been the first white settlers of Epsom, although the former was one of the original grantees: and it is not very probable the son would have lived so many years alone with a pair of dumb animals for his only society, when the attractions of a father's home so nigh, could have been made available, and its full comforts and enjoyments secured.

Apr 21, 1749, he rec'd of his father in Epsom, a home lot, No. 10, containing 50 acres, which probably is the farm he conveyed in 1823 to his son-in-law, John Chesley(who m his dau Elizabeth), and who in 1834, conveyed the same to his son John, the present occupant. This farm is situated on or near Sanborn hill in Epsom.

Nov 5, 1762, he sold for £550, to Samuel Dearborn, of Epping, 78 acres in Epsom.--Dec 3, 1799, he deeded to John Chesley, blacksmith, for $150, one and one-half acres, it being one of the home lots in Epsom on the road leading over Sanborn hill.--Sept 4, 1802, he conveyed to Joseph Allen of Boston, for $60, two lots of land containing 30 acres.

He had early acquired the military rank of "Sergeant", under which cognomen an interesting story is told of him in "Farmer and Moore's History of N.H.",Vol 2, p 321, as follows. "Sergeant Samuel Blake one of the early settlers of Epsom, was an expert hunter, and always lived in the greatest friendship with the Indians, by pursuing a conciliatory course towards them. He first saw a company of them in the distance, approaching the direction of his house, through the opening, from the top of Sanborn's hill. He fled to the woods, and there lay concealed, till they had made a thorough search of the house and enclosures, and had left the premises. The next time his visitors came, he was constrained to become more acquainted with them, and to treat them with greater consideration. Nor had he long to wait for the desired opportunity; for, as he was busily engaged towards the close of the day in constructing an enclosure for his cow his attention was suddenly attracted to several enormous shadows cast upon the ground before him by the declining sun. Turning to see the cause, he was somewhat disconcerted at finding himself in the company of several stately Indians, who, observing his perturbation, patted him on the head and told him "not to be afraid, for they would do him no harm". They then went with him into his house, and their first business was to search all his bottles to see if they could find any "occupee",(rum); whether they did or not, there is no recorded or traditional evidence. Then they informed Mr. Blake that they were very hungry, and desired something to eat. He fortunately happened to have a quarter of a bear at hand, which he placed before them, and which they laid whole upon the fire, and before it was half cooked, and while quite raw, they cut and ate from it, like half famished wild beasts. While they were eating, Mr. Blake employed himself in cutting choice slices from it, and broiling them upon a stick, with which they were quite well pleased. After their repast, they next desired the privilege of lying by his fire through the night, which was granted. The next morning they proposed trying their skill with him in shooting at a mark. To this he readily acceded; but he so far outstripped them in his marksmanship, that they became utterly overwhelmed with astonishment and chagrin; but nevertheless they accorded to him the victor's palm, and highly commended him for his skill, patting him on the head and telling him that "if he would go home with them, they would make him their big captain". After this they made him frequent visits, always friendly, and his kindness to them they never forgot even in time of war."

249. Benjamin 4 [82], b Greenland, N.H., Feb 3, 1731; d Wolfborough, N.H., Feb 12, 1824, at the advanced age of 93 yrs. He rem'd with his parents from Hampton to Epsom, thence, Nov 9, 1766, to Wolfborough, he being, as said, the first white settler of that town, and four years prior to its incorporation in 1770, John Wentworth, Gov. The writer was informed by one of his descendants, that, after his arrival, and for want of better accommodations, he lived with his wife and three small children in the hollow of a prostrate mammoth red oak tree, which he improvised for the occasion until he built a rude but substantial log hut after the fashion of the early settlers of those days. To guard against the attacks of the savages, small port holes were made in one side of the building, through which many a shot had been fired with fatal effect.

Not far distant, on the margin of a beautiful pond, was an ancient Indian camping groud, the surface of which was rendered almost as solid as stone by the frequent war-dances held upon it from year to year, and was often visited by several of Mr. Blake's descendants of the present generation. Mr. David Blake of Wolfborough, a grand son, writes that he first built him a rude shelter on the lake shore and subsequently built him a house about a quarter of a mile from the present residence of the said David not far from the cemetery on the Tuftonboro road; and some years later he erected another, on the above premises in the rear of Mr. Blake's house, which was afterwards converted into a cider house. He had frequent trouble with the wolves who made sad havoc upon his sheep, and it cost him strict and constant vigilance to prevent their entire slaughter. He was a great and skilful hunter, and it was his joy in the winter season to hunt down the bear and deer, with which the woods abounded, and the crack of the rifle as it reverberated through the aisles of the forest wild, was generally a precurser of a successful hit somewhere. Mr. Blake lived to a great age,-the result of a sound and rugged constitution; but for the last nine years of his life he was totally blind. He is named by Farmer & Moore in their history of N.H., among the aged men of those times, and that he was a soldier in the French and Rev. wars.

Aug 24, 1768, he bought of Paul March of Portsmouth, for £30, all his right in a tract of land in Wolfboro containing 100 acres, on which Mr. Blake was then living, bounded in part on land of Walter Bryant jr; also the 50 acre lot No. 3, which latter he sold Aug 14, 1769, to Oliver Peavey, of a place called the Gore, for £7:10S. Mar 23, 1787, he and wife Anna, sold for £360, to his son David the above farm of 100 acres. - Dec 30, 1795, he deeded to son Jonathan for £120, the south-easterly part of his 100 acre lot, containing 50 acres, conveyed to him by Paul March Esq., dec'd, "and is the same whereon I now live". Richard Rust and Jacob Folsom, witnesses.

At the first town meeting held Sept 22, 1770, he was chosen, surveyor, also in Mar, 1778; fence viewer, in Mar 1773, 1774, and Apr 1781; tything man, Mar. 1782, 1783, 1786, and 1787.

265. John 4 [91], (Jasper 3, John 2, Jasper 1), b Hampton, Oct 6, 1724, (Bible Rec); bapt Jan 17, 1724-5; living 1790. He removed with his father to Falmouth (now Portland), Me. and settled on, or near the old homestead. He was gigantic in size and possessed of enormous strength, and was familiarly known far and near as "Muckle Blake". Like many others of his namesake, he was a famous hunter, and exercised much ingenuity in capturing wolves and other wild beasts of the forest by means of numerous pitfalls. As the woods were infested with this kind of game, he found ample employment and pastime to fill up his leisure moments; and in his old age, it was his greatest pleasure to recount the scenes and experiences of his more youthful days. Prior to the Revolution, he was frequently employed to cut and make masts for the British Navy. On the homestead premises there is an old cellar, over which an old block house once stood in Indian times. The old "Blake house", so called, built by Capt John, was taken down a few years since, but the correspondent fails to state whether or not any other building has been erected upon its site.

In the York Co. Me. registry of deeds, we find May 24, 1748, that he, and Joseph Merrill, both of Falmouth, bought for £600, O.T., of John Blethen, 114 acres of land on both sides of the Piscataqua river, bounded on Moses Person and John Tyng's 300 acres, granted by the Proprietors.

Dec 17, 1751, he bought for £6, of Jabez Fox, "10 acres in common lands where he can find it free from other grants.

Aug 9, 1755, for £133, he purchased of Rich'd and Elizabeth Temple, and Isabella Gustin, 32 acres on the westerly side of Presumpscott river, bounded on Marston and others. This river is an outlet of Sebago lake, and falls into Casco Bay at Falmouth, 6 miles N. of Portland.---Sept 28, 1761, he bought land of Matthew Livermore. On the Cumberland Co. Records, we find Feb 16, 1774, that he had laid out at his request, 50 acres "being for the 50 acres granted Matthew Livermore, Esq., by the Proprietors for his services, and which said Matthew sold said Blake. We will state here that Cumberland Co. was set off from York Co. in 1760, and prior to that period, the courts and records for the whole province were kept at the ancient town of York; but on the incorporation of Cumberland Co. the deeds and probate records have been and are now kept at Portland, (formerly Falmouth.) "The town was first settled in 1632, by George Cleaves and Richard Tucker, from the west of England, who procured a grant of it, in 1637, from Sir Francis Gorges, the proprietor of the province. The place was twice destroyed; once, 1675, by the Indians, and afterwards in 1690, by the French and Indians; and thence from that time, it lay waste for about 20 years. In 1718, it was incorporated under the name of Falmouth, including within its jurisdiction the present towns of Cape Elizabeth, Westbrook and Falmouth. This part of the town went by the name of "Old Casco". It was separated from Falmouth, and incorporated by "its present name, in 1786." (Haywards Gazetteer of U.S.).

"Apr 6, 1784, Mr. Blake had laid out to him, 15 acres; and Sept 13, 1790, 52 acres more. (Prop'rs Records)

As the Probate Records of Cumberland Co. were destroyed in the great conflagration at Portland a few years since, a large and valuable amount of useful information has been swept away in a moment forever. The existence of a will, inventory or some settlement of his estate, would give an approximate date of his decease, and perhaps throw a little more light upon his personal and family history.

He m Oct 23, 1753, Dorothy Merrill, of Falmouth, b Dec 10, 1735; d July 21, 1780. The family record communicated by Mrs. Charlotte Hawkes of Appleton, Me., being copied from an old Bible in her possession; and formerly owned by Mrs. Charlotte Estes, of Durham, Me.

He lived in that part of the town called "Ireland", next lot south of his son Jasper, and where his grandson Francis P. now resides.

A few years prior to his decease, being then quite aged, he had the great misfortune to fall from his chair and break one of his legs, which accident disabled him from active duty during the remainder of his life.

It is quite probable that his organ of acquisitiveness was marked large, phrenologically speaking, and that the saving of pennies, was the outgrowth of an inordinate desire, to get rich, as illistrated by the following sample of the means adapted to the end. One day he had occasion to go to Newbury, and it was necessary to take his son John with him. Before arriving at the old chain bridge, and in order to save toll, he put his said son into a barrel, paid toll for one passenger and team, and passed over. When clear of the bridge, the toll gatherer happened to be looking in that direction, and discovered the young heir apparent making good his escape from the aforesaid barrel, thus exposing the little trick of his father, which the toll taker did not fail to remind him of on his return.

He also states that said Jonathan, father of John, who d 1840, was in the Rev. war, and at its close with his young wife, Shuah Stevens (b 1755; d 1840), joined a party of six families of pioneers, who settled in Gilmanton, N.H., which at that time included the present town of Gilford. Moses Foster's Co., to do garrison duty at Suncook, N.H., from which he was discharged June 9, following. He again enlisted May 10, 1755, and served until Nov. 13, in Capt. Thos Tash's Co., Col., Jos. Blanchard, in the expedition sent against the French Forts at Crown Pt.; at this time he was Sergeant of his company. After his discharge, and while on his way home, he was waylaid in the woods, by a party of Indians, and in so sudden a manner that he could have no opportunity to defend himself, notwithstanding he had a good trusty gun with him. At some time previous he had in a manner given offence to these very Indians, and for this, after a brief consultation, they condemned him to be burned to death. He was strongly bound to a tree, and pine faggotts whittled to a point were prepared to be thrust into his flesh. These set on fire, would produce that slow, lingering and torturing death, which the savage delights to witness, and but for the timely arrival and interference of a friendly Indian whom he had warmed and fed at a tavern, his death would have been inevitable, and their vengeance appeased. He was released from his bonds, and his own clothes having been destroyed, another suit was given him and he was set at liberty. Unfortunately however, the clothes were infected with the small pox from which he took the contagion and died before reaching home. He m July 31, 1749, Abigail Prescott, dau of Capt. He was highly respected as a citizen in the community where he lived, and a gallant soldier in the Rev. war. He was 1st Lieut of Capt Isaac Baldwin's Co., No. 1, First N.H. Reg., John Stark, Col. This Co. was formed at Medford after the battle of Lexington, from men who had hastened there from N.H. At the battle of Bunker Hill, June 17, 1775, Capt Baldwin was shot through the body, and was borne dying from the field. The command thus fell on Lt. John Hale, as Capt. of the Co., and it is probable he was commissioned as such soon after, because he made returns of the losses of the Co. after the battle, and signed the report as John Hale, Captain. He lost his knapsack in the battle, for which he was paid, and also £3, lawful money, for his services.

He was also in command of a Co. at Saratoga, Henry Gerrish of Boscawen, Lt. Col. The Co. marched from Pembroke, N.H., Sept. 29, 1777.

383. Timothy 5 [139], (Moses 4, Moses 3, Timothy 2, Jasper 1), b Kensington, N.H. Jan 6, 1740; d Castine, Me.,___; and, as is said, was buried on old Fort hill. Mar 14, 1760, when 20 years of age, he enlisted in Capt. Jeremiah Marston's Co., under Col. John Goff, for Crown Pt. and the invasion of Canada. The Reg't had its rendezvous at Litchfield, and marched by way of Monson, (now Milford), Peterboro & Keene, to township No. 4, (Charlestown), N.H., and then cut a road through the wilderness to the Green Mts.; thence to Crown Pt., following the road cut mainly by the Rangers under Capt. Stark the year before. They were 44 days in cutting the road to the Green Mts., which they crossed, hauling their stores on horse barrows. He was engaged in this service 8 mos. and 13 days, and discharged Nov 27, following his enlistment. Soon after, he removed into the wilds of Me., and settled in the township of Bagaduce, (now Penobscot), where he cleared a large farm and raised his family. Tradition says, that within a few months after his settlement at that place, when the premises were just beginning to assume a homelike appearance, and order was coming out of chaos, he was one day suddenly surprised by a band of savages, taken captive, and carried many miles away from home into the northern country. What he experienced during the time of his captivity, there is no record to show; but suffice it to say, that being ever watchful to improve the earliest opportunity, he soon made his escape and returned home uninjured. Towards the close of life he removed to Castine, leaving the old homestead in the hands of his children. Great pains have been taken to learn more of the history of this family and their descendants; but the earliest records are altogether too late; family records, if any had been kept, are irrecoverably lost; and many who have been repeatedly addressed upon the subject have maintained a most stoical indifference, at once discouraging and disheartening. The name of Timothy's wife is unknown. It is supposed she was of Kittery, Me., and that she died at St. Andrews, N.B.

388. Oliver Smith 5 [140],(Moses 4, Moses 3, Timothy 2, Jasper 1), b Kensington, N.H., Nov 6, 1742; d Hebron, N.H., Feb 16, 1820. About 1778, he rem'd with his family to New Hampton, N.H. which was then a wilderness and settled on the site where the New Hampton Institute now stands. The first settler of this town was Samuel Kelley, in 1775, and Mr. Blake may be accounted as one of the earliest inhabitants of the place. Apr 24, 1778, he bought of Jona. Moulton of Hampton, 50 acres in New Hampton, it being a part of lot No. 13,-3d range;-100 acres of which lot said Moulton, on the same day conveyed to Eben'r Ingalls, adjoining Mr. Blake's 50 acres.--May 15, 1798, he bought for $60, of Eben'r Ingalls, one-half of lot No. 25, in range 1.---Feb 20, 1805, he and wife Deborah, sold to Nathan Emerson of Campton, N.H., "2 lots of land in N.H.;" and it was soon after this sale that he rem'd to Hebron, where he spent the remainder of his days with his dau Mary, and son-in-law, James Kidder. Their farm was situated on Hebron hill, about a mile from the road, known as the turnpike, beginning near the head of the pond. He and his wife were buried in a small enclosure on the farm, after which, Mr. Kidder removed to Enosburgh, Vt., leaving the farm to his son Reuben; his eldest son Oliver lived on a farm adjoining. Mr. Blake was not a whit behind his kinsfolk in patriotism, in the service of his country. At the early age of 15, he enlisted, 1757, under Lt. Col. Goffe, and Gen'l Webb, and took an active part in the French and Indian war. The regiment at first went into rendezvous at No. 4,(Charlestown); afterwards it took up its line of march to Albany and was posted at Ft. Wm. Henry, near Lake George, under the command of Col. Munroe, of the 35th British Regt. This fort was attacked Aug 3, by the French Gen'l Montcalm, at the head of a large body of Canadians and Indians, and in 6 days the garrison capitulated on condition that they would not serve against the French for 18 months. In 1759, he was at the taking of Ticonderoga, Crown Pt. and Quebec, by the British under Gen'l Wolfe. Mar 14, 1760, he again reenlisted in Capt Jere'h Marston's Co., under Col. John Goffe, and made the usual rendezvous at No. 4, and shortly after proceeded on their march to Albany. His brother Timothy was in this same expedition. In August, after their arrival, they moved down the lake to Isle au Noix, where they carried the French fort at that place by storm. While at this place, Mr. Blake, with three others, was deputed to carry a private despatch of great import to Mass., travelling the entire distance on foot through a thickly wooded country infested with savages, and wild beasts; and although he was in momentary danger of losing his life, the journey and mission were safely accomplished. When the first news of the battle of Lexington reached him, he was plowing in his field. The old spirit of the warrior was instantly rekindled within his breast, and like his contemporary, Gen'l Putnam, he left his plow in the furrow, drove his cattle to the barn, and hastened every preparation for his long journey towards the scene of action. Orders were given for the future conduct of the farm, and his domestic affairs generally, and bidding his family farewell, he shouldered his gun and started off afoot for Lexington, and subsequently enlisted once more in his country's service, although in a different cause,---the liberty and independence of a nation. He was at the battle of Bunker hill, and fought valiantly in the desperate and deadly conflict, till he and a few others were taken prisoners, and afterwards, strange as it would seem, placed in the care and keeping of a party of Indians going north. A while after when travelling through the forest, they came to a large clump of bushes of two years growth. Here they stopped, and it was suggested by the Indians, that they would try one of their petty games at wrestling with the captives; which was not only a grand trial of strength and agility on the part of the combatants, but was often fatal in its results. The tops of quite a number of these bushes were cut off contiguous to each other, to within a foot of the ground, and each of the stumps was well sharpened to a long point. The grand result of the trial was for the victorious party to throw his antagonist upon this bed of sharpened sticks, with all the strength he was master of, and pin him to the spot. The challenge was given out to the prisoners by one of the most athletic and best trained of the savages, which, after a little hesitation, was accepted by Mr. Blake who, confident of his own ability to cope with the defiant red man, stepped forward, and was soon engaged in the contest. It is quite probable that all forms and rules generally observed in scientific wrestling matches of to-day, were dispensed with on this remarkable occasion, and each one for himself, was the watch-word then. As Mr. Blake was naturally endowed with both strength and courage, he soon brought the contest to a close, and succeeded in throwing his foe on top of the stumpy bed, and pinned him so effectually there, that the remainder of his red brethren concluded not to carry the fun any farther at that time, and applauded Mr. Blake as "one brave, great and good yankee man". It is not know how long he was held in captivity, but in some manner, by concerted action, he, with his fellow prisoners made good their escape, and rejoined their regiment in safety.

Mr. Blake, it is said, when a young man, made a tour of adventure into the wilds of Maine, and after rambling around for some time in an indefinite manner, he one day fell in with a small party of Kennebeck Indians, with whom he encamped for a short time. But during his brief stay, in some unknown manner, he did or said something which greatly offended one of their number, which necessitated his immediate return to his home in N.H. Soon after, he was informed by a friendly Indian of the same tribe, that his enemy had started off in pursuit, and was then coming down the river in a canoe, in search of him. This news put him on the defensive, and he immediately bought him a fine Indian rifle, and laid in store a plenty of ammunition; but the savage, it seems, lost the trail, and never appeared to avenge the supposed wrong done him. This rifle was preserved with great care by Mr. Blake during his life, and was doubtless the same one used by him in his several engagements on the battle field. 392. Mehitable 6, b June 17, (Bible), May 29, (Amassa Kidder), 1773; d Holland, Vt., Mar 24, 1863; m Nov 17, 1796, John, son of John Kidder and Jane (Lynn), b__; d Enosburgh, Vt., Feb 8, 1856. His death was caused by three successive shocks of paralysis. Mr. Kidder began farming in Bridgewater, N.H., on a new lot of land three miles from any inhabitant. Early Monday morning, he took his axe and provision enough for a week on his shoulder, and by the guidance of spotted trees he wended his way through the forest to his possessions, returning home every Saturday night. He there built a camping hut which he covered with bark and boughs sufficient to protect him from the weather, and then fell to work cutting down the trees till he had cleared and prepared about ten acres of land for a crop. This course he pursued a second year; but with it came the care and anxiety of closely watching his corn and other crops, to prevent their destruction by the nocturnal visits of bears and other wild beasts, with which the woods abounded. In due time he built a small frame house, and moved his family into it. He remained on the farm until he cleared nearly 100 acres, built another house, and barn and accumulated a large stock of cattle, sheep and horses. But in process of time just as he was beginning to realize the comforts of life through a comparitive independence, he was doomed to the entire loss of his estate through a friendly act of suretyship for another man's note. After this, he alone removed to Rochester, Genessee county, N.Y., and located on Genessee river, where he took 130 acres of rich fertile land, including the Falls. He cleared some, planted four acres of corn, and assisted in raising the first framed house where the present city of Rochester now stands. He was there in 1812, when the war came on, by which he was once more doomed to the loss of all his hard earned possessions. He had nought else to do now but return to his family in Bridgewater, where he remained till March, 1814, when he went to Hebron, and thence, March, 1815, to Enosburg, Vt. All his children but the last, were born in Bridgewater.

At 19 years of age he left his home in Sandown, and shipped aboard a merchantman at Newburyport, Mass., as a common sailor, and subsequently was promoted to a position as midshipman. He afterwards entered the naval service on board of a privateer at Portsmouth, N.H., to guard our shipping interests against the French. During this time he volunteered with others to go in a small boat and seize upon a French vessel, which they did without accident or loss of life. After his discharge from the service, he shipped for Labrador and engaged in cod fishing. No data or memoranda has been preserved incidental to his maritime service, but what is included between 1797 and 1807. He became fitted as a commander of vessels, and had he continued, would doubtless have proved efficient and successful in his calling. He had a thorough knowledge of mathematics and nautical science of his time and left in Mss. at his decease, an arithmetic and almanac of which he was the author, but never were published. On account of the loss of his naval discharge papers, his widow was consequently deprived of her pension. After his sea life, he married, settled down to farming, and was an honored and respected citizen of the town.

Dea. Simon Dearborn (b July 31, 1706;) is said by tradition to have been born in the garrison house which stood on the "Green" at North Hampton, near the spot where the old meeting house once stood. His mother was lodged there for security against the Indians, who at that time were exceedingly troublesome in all the new settlements. He signed the petition for incorporating North Hampton in 1742, and was the father of the late Maj. Gen. Henry Dearborn. He md Dec 5, 1728, Sarah Marston, dau of Simon 3 (Eph'm 2, Thos 1) of Hampton.

He was a revolutionary soldier, having joined the army when quite young; a farmer and shoemaker. Dr. Taft being principal, and under whom his collegiate studies were pursued. In 1843, he returned to the Maine Wesleyan Seminary, as assistant teacher. In 1844, he was elected Principal, which situation he has retained till the present time, though occasionally absent in government service. In 1855-56, he was chairman of the committee on education on the part of the State Senate, and had much to do with the draughting and passage of the bills which essentially changed the common school laws. He spent a portion of 1864-65 in So. Carolina overseeing freedmen's interests, and in Treasury agencies for the states of Georgia, So. Carolina, and Florida. He was appointed by President Lincoln, Secretary of Montana Territory, but declined on account of ill health. He united with the Methodist Epis. Church in his youth; received a license to preach in 1838, and was admitted to the Maine annual Conference in 1850, from which body he has been three times elected to represent them in the General Conference of the Church. He has received the distinctive titles of D.D. and L. L. D.

435. Paine 5 [154],(Jedediah 4, Israel 3, Timo.2, Jasper 1), was bapt by Rev. Jere'h Fogg at Kensington, N.H., July 4, 1742, his birthplace being at Hampton Falls. He was without doubt named for his uncle Paine Rowe, who is mentioned in Robert Rowe's will as a son and legatee. Mr. Blake removed with his parents, prior to 1747, to Epping, N.H.; and when next heard of, he was residing at Exeter, when his father in a deed, dated Dec 20., 1768, for £75, conveyed to him "one-half of the home-place, where I now live", in Epping. It is quite probable he soon after returned to Epping; and under date of Apr 25, 1786, he disposed of his estate to John Phillips, of Exeter, consisting of 60 acres, the two West rooms, and west chamber in the mansion house, and one-half of the barn. Mar 9, 1792, for £105, he bought of Joseph Cilley, Esq., and wife Sarah, 200 acres in Sanbornton, it being the 2d division, laid out to the original right of Daniel Kelley.

He soon removed and took possession, and seven years after, June 6, 1799, he sold to Richard Kelley for $250, fifty acres of this estate, bounded on N.H. line.

In 1758, he enlisted in Capt Jeremiah Marston's Co., under Col. Meshech Weare, for the Crown Point expedition; and in 1776, he signed the "Association test". He was also a soldier in the Revolutionary was, where he fought manfully and valiantly, and maintained to the utmost his principles of right and patriotism. He removed from Epping___, at what time, is not known; and it is said that he went from the town of Hill, N.H., to Stanstead, P. Q., Canada and returned sometime after to his native state, leaving his dau. Hulday in Stanstead. He

He was a farmer, and lived in Epping, until 1771, when he removed to Northwood, where he was in 1776, when he signed a petition to disarm all citizens, disloyal to the cause of liberty. In 1787-8, he, with William Prescott, removed to Vershire, Vt., then a new township in Orange Co., first settled in 1780 and organized in 1783. They pioneered the way and worked all summer in clearing a road through the forest over which they might move their families and goods to the log-houses they had erected. It was then three miles to the nearest inhabitant, and in that solitary wilderness they chose to locate themselves and families, trusting in Providence and hard muscular effort for success. "Mr. Prescott was born in Epping about 1746, and was the son of Sergeant Jeremiah 5(Sam'l 4, James 3, James 2, James 1), and Mary (Hayes); was a farmer and died in Vershire 1815, aged 69; m Mary, dau of Henry Dearborn and Margaret (Sherburne); he served in the Rev. as one of the new levies, in 1780." (Prescott Memorial).

Mr. Blake is described by his youngest dau. as a man about six feet in height, light blue eyes, brown hair, rather spare build, and weighing about 166 lbs. His education was limited as to books; but being possessed naturally with good practical common sense and executive energy, he was enabled to overcome most any obstacle that rose before him in his pathway of progress. He was a true patriot, and an efficient soldier in the Revolutionary war, but the date of his enlistment, and time of service are not accurately known. When discharged he was paid off in Continental currency, which, at the time had considerably depreciated in value and of but little account to him; and when the soldiers first began to draw pensions, he had, by shrewdness and tact accumulated considerable property; but not as much as some of his comrades, who, from policy had temporarily assigned over their estates to accommodating friends, to represent as far as possible a false indigence. Mr. Blake, being a truly loyal and honorable man, knowing of this propensity of his former comrades in arms, said that "he had fought for his country, and was ready to die for it, but would by no means whatever degrade himself by covering up and concealing the true condition of his financial affairs"; but before the time arrived to draw his pension from government, he had passed away.

450. Robert 5 [157], (Jedediah 4, Israel 3, Timo. 2, Jasper 1), b Epping, N.H., Dec 27, 1752. Of his early history little is known, either by tradition or record, or how long he lived in Epping prior to his removal to the state of Maine. By a deed dated Feb 27,1792, wherein he and his brothers and sisters disposed of a portion of his deceased father's estate,he is represented as a tailor, and living at that time in the township of Washington, Me. As the records of Epping show the births of but two of his children in that town, and the second one having occurred in 1779, it is quite probable that he may have removed within a year or two after. From Washington he went to Mt. Vernon, Kennebeck, Co., a few miles distant where he d Mar 22, 1841. This town was incorporated in 1792, and Mr. Blake is said to have been among the first inhabitants of the place prior to that date. As all his children but the first four are represented by his descendants to have been born in Mt. Vernon, there appears to exist a slight discrepancy between that statement, and what is shown by the aforesaid deed; and it will be somewhat difficult at this juncture, without more light, to reconcile this difference except upon the score of probabilities.

Mr. Blake's life terminated in a most sudden and tragic manner. On the morning of his decease, he had started from home in his wagon, to go to his farm, and on the way thither he drove down to the river to water his horse; and while he was engaged putting on one of his mittens, from some unknown cause--probably fright--the horse plunged suddenly into the deep and rapidly flowing stream, completely overturning the vehicle and submerging Mr. Blake in the depths below, from which he arose unconscious and oblivious to all he held so dear in life a few brief moments before. The horse was also drowned, and the wagon, becoming detached from the shafts, floated some distance down stream, the dead body of the animal, and his owner, following slowly after.

Mr. Blake lived at Epping corner, where he kept a large country store; he was also a large owner in real estate and possessed a fine farm which he tilled to advantage. 491. Jonathan 5 [167], (Joseph 4, Israel 3, Timothy 2, Jasper 1), b Epping, N.H., Nov 25, 1754, (Town Rec.); Dec 7, 1755, (Bible). About 1770, he removed with his brethren Asahel and Sherburne to Northwood, and settled upon an elevated tract of land since known as "Blake's hill", which lies between the turnpike, Harvey lake and Deerfield, and from which, on all sides, there is an extended and magnificent view of the surrounding country.

He was a substantial and successful farmer; and, with his brother, Sherburne, was, not only among the first settlers of the town, but one of the original members and founders of the first Cong. church in Northwood. Here he lived all his days, a consistent Christian, honored and beloved by the community in which he resided; his decease occurred Nov 4, 1825. He accompanied his father to that part of Penobscot, now So. Brooksville, and was among the pioneers of that unbroken wilderness. When he became of age he took up a tract of land adjoining that of his father's, and by dint of perseverance and untiring industry, he soon cleared it of the trees and had the soil in complete subjection, and good condition for cultivation. When married, he built him a rude log house, and settled down on his lot--, followed lumbering in the winter and farming the remaining portion of the year. By prudence and economy, he was, in a few years, enabled to erect a fine frame house, well finished and furnished, thus adding comfort to prosperity. In 1795, he built a sloop-rigged vessel of about 75 tons, to carry wood and other freight to Boston; it was named the "Polly and Hannah". When ready for sea he took charge of it, and conducted his traffic between the two ports, with good financial success until the Spring of 1801, when, through some unforseen accident, he was lost overboard, on his passage to Boston, and drowned. It was a sad loss to his family, for he combined the rare qualities of a loving husband and father, a kind and obliging neighbor, a man greatly beloved by all who knew him, and above all, a living, consistent Christian.

Wentworth, known as the "Governor's lot", situated in the N.E. corner of Barnet on Waterford line, and on the bank of Conn. river. - Mar 9, 1818, he, and wife Margaret, deeded this estate to his son Winthrop, in consideration that he would support his father and mother during their lives, and also his brother Isaac till 14 years of age; but the mother it appears, lived but a little while afterwards.

He was one of the 62 original grantees of Moultonboro in 1763, all but two of whom were natives of Hampton. Mr. Blake's name, being the last but two on the list. This tract of territory was six miles square, and in part lay contiguous with the North Eastern shore of Winnipiseogee lake. His lot was No. 17, 3d range, 1st division; but in non-compliance with the rules and regulations, as prescribed, and the non-payment of the required sum of £10, this lot was subsequently sold for £7:18S, to Reuben Rowe, with whom, however, he soon effected a compromise, and recovered the same back again. Mr. Blake's residence was in that part of the town called Moultonboro Neck. The town was not incorporated until Nov 27, 1777, and at their first town meeting, held Mar 31, 1778, he was chosen surveyor of highways; also in 1784 and 1787. Nov 28, 1769, he is named on the Registry of Deeds, as "Ebenezer Blake, of a tract of land called Moultonborough (not incorporated)" when he sold to Jona. Moulton for £60, "all my right title and interest unto one whole right or Proprietor's share throughout said Moultonborough, which tract of land was granted by the purchasers holding under John Tufton Mason, Esq., of which I am the original proprietor."

The same day he bought of Jona. Moulton, Esq., of Hampton, for £30, a 100 acre lot, No. 4, 6th range, 1st div., (except 20 rods which said Moulton reserves, to be taken off from the N.W. end of said lot) being the same that was drawn to the original right of Wm. Vittum. This estate he and wife Hannah, for £66, sold Jan 2, 1772, to Wm. Adams.

May 7, 1776, he bought for £40, of Jona. Wit. by Wm. Blake & Eben'r Maloon.

June 17, 1809, for $22, he sells to Benj. Clark 10 acres on Squam pond, being the N. W. corner of the land he then lived upon.
Wit. by Ezekiel French and John Blake.

Mr. Blake was a carpenter, as well as farmer; and it is said that he possessed a considerable taste for music, and was somewhat skilful on the violin, with which he whiled away many a leisure hour, both for his own edification, and the pleasure of his enraptured hearers. He enlisted as a soldier in the Rev. army, and joined his company at Portsmouth, of which he was soon after appointed Orderly Sergeant. On one occasion he and several of his comrades were captured by the enemy and incarcerated in prison, where they nearly suffered death by starvation and ill treatment. Finding that their days on earth would soon be numbered, unless relief from some unlooked for quarter would quickly arrive, he and two more of his companions suddenly conceived the idea of effecting their escape by means of an old bayonet they fortunately had in their possession; and with indomitable perseverance, -each relieving the other at times in their arduous undertaking, they picked away day after day, weak and faint though they were, till they finally dug through the walls of their prison and made their escape by night, at a moment when the guard had for a while withdrawn to a favorable distance, and out of sight. Having safely rejoined his company, he was soon after offered a commission by his commanding officer for his bravery and heroic conduct, which doubtless he would have accepted at once, had it not been for the great love and esteem in which he was held, and their persistent entreaties for him to remain as before in the company, that he was at length prevailed upon to yield to their desires.

He was present at the battle of Bunker hill; and was virtually commander of the company, at a time when most of the officers were in one way or another disabled from duty, and, which he gallantly led through the thickest of the fight; and, as he afterwards declared, that for the want of a little more ammunition their success would have been perfectly assured.

He m___, Hannah Garland, a native of Hampton; but, unfortunately, no data has been preserved.

He was of Billymead, Mar 27, 1795, when he sold the same lot to Nehemiah Jenks of Lyndon, Vt. The foregoing is all the history we have been able to obtain of him.
552. Josiah 6, b___; d___. He settled in Sandwich, where he m (1), June 3, 1801, Polly Sheriff. It is said he afterwards removed to Exeter, N.H. where he engaged in the manufacture of essences and m (2) Harriet Odiorne. On the Town records of Exeter is recorded the death of "the widow of Josiah Blake at the Alms house, Feb 25, 1839, aged 70 years", which would make the date of her birth 1769. As the Alms house in that place has been for several years an obselete institution, and the records scattered or destroyed, it has beem impossible to obtain the Christian name of this widow for the purpose of identification.

Sometime prior to his marriage he was living at Salisbury, Mass., after which he removed to Moultonboro, N.H., where, Jan 31, 1777, he, for £15, bought of Jeremiah Towle, of Hampton, a 100 acre lot, No. 2, 8th range, 2d div., the N. Easterly end of which, it being one-half the whole lot, he sold Oct 10, 1780, to Jona. Moulton of Hampton, for £114. The other half he sold Dec 8, 1786, for £400, to the selectmen of Moultonboro.

Sept. 2, 1778, he deeded to Jona. Moulton Esq., of Hampton, for £20, all his right in 50 acres, it being a part of lot No. 6, range 10, 1st div., originally laid out to Stephen Page.

Sept 5, 1780, bought of Wm. Atkins, cordwainer, 55 acres bounded on N.W. cor. of Benj. Kimball's land, to the road, thence on Eben'r Blake to Red hill river, Nath'l Shannon, to Cook's mill brook. D. Beede & Eben'r Blake, witnesses.

This appears to have been the homestead land on which Mr. Blake eventually settled, as by the following deposition. viz: "I, Dolly Atkins of Lawful age Testify that about one year past I gave up to Nathaniel Shannon, a deed of a certain part of land situate in Moultonborough, which deed was a conveyance from said Shannon to my late husband William Atkins, which deed contained that fifty-five acres which Sd William sold to Enoch Blake & is the land on which said Blake now lives. One cont'g about 500 acres, beginning at the N.W. cor. of Ezra Lee's land,-thence, S.W. to the road,-thence, on the road or Jos. Freese's land, to No. line of sd. land, to Red hill river, Nath'l Shannon,etc. The 2d. piece, contains 10 acres bounded on the mill pond, and is the same bought of Paul Blake, above named.

Feb 18, 1812, he bought of David Lee, all right in a tract of land at Lower Falls on Red hill river, being all the land that was voted to sd. Blake and Lee, be the Proprietors of M.__ except about 17 acres, where sd. Lee lives.

All of the forgoing deeds, which are abstracts from Strafford Co., N.H., records, represent Mr. Blake, up to 1812, as an inhabitant of Moultonboro, when it is fully established by record and family tradition, that, about 1797, he had removed to Sutton, Vt., whither his eldest son, Samuel, had preceded him in 1791, when there were not a dozen inhabitants in the place, to clear up a patch of land, and put it in complete condition for his father's family to settle down upon. In 1793, a frame house was erected, but it was not until the month of Feb., 4 years later, that Enoch and his family took possession. The old house is yet standing, in which two reunions have been held of his descendants, the last one having taken place Aug 27, 1879. Of the first, the writer, through the kindness of one of the participants on that occasion, received a full and interesting account of the proceedings, which he would have been quite happy to introduce here in a succinct form, had not the paper in which it was published mysteriously disappeared. Of the second, no report came to hand, although one had been promised.

In the Town records of Sutton, are recorded several deeds, among which are three, where Enoch Blake Sr., of Billymead, Dec 18, 1804, buys from his son Enoch, 50 acres in his lot No. 4.---Sam'l D. Blake, wit.

May 2, 1807, he deeds to sons Eben'r & James, the farm he lives on, in consideration that they return one-half of the profits of said farm, and leave sufficient barn room for his own use; and after the decease of his wife, they to come into full possession of the same-

Nov 2, following, he conveys to son Jacob, 40 acres.

July 15, 1811, he sells son Eben'r 31 acres, which shall be taken from the N. end of the 100 acre lot.

Dec 28, 1813, after his decease, a division of his estate was made among the following heirs; viz: Sons James (by Laban Taft), Jacob, Eben'r, Sam'l D., Enoch and Stephen; and daus. Susanna (Corlis), and Betsey (Cahoon); they to receive one-ninth of the estate each, of 53 acres, after the widow's thirds are taken off;--- the proportion of each being $17.30.

While a resident of Moultonboro, Mr. Blake was, for 2 years, 1780, 1782, highway surveyor, and several years as constable; or, as rendered on the records- "tythingman".

He then sold out his estate, and removed to St. Albans, Vt., where he bought and kept the first hotel in town, in which business he continued until his decease, Aug. 15, 1810, caused by malignant fever. He m at Andover, Dec 2, 1784, Mary, dau of John Purmort and Hannah (Sinclair), b Salisbury, N.H., Mar 22, 1758. Immediately after her husband's decease, she went to Fairfax, to recruit her health, which had been seriously reduced by much care and watching; but she carried with her the infectious disease, and three days after him, died Aug 18, 1810, and was buried in Fairfax.

They had no offspring; but from time to time while living in Fairfax, had taken into their family two or three girls, who remained with them until their majority or marriage. One of these, Miss Abigail Ford, was received into their household at an early age, and subsequently m ___ Pettingell. During her stay at Mr. Blakes, as she relates to her daughter, a strange woman, finely attired and of good address, called one day at the house with a little boy, whom, after due explanation, she said she was desirous of entrusting to the tender care of some good family, and that he might be brought up and well educated to some sphere of usefulness. The woman was quite reticent on all points respecting her personal and family history, and the place of her abode; but without doubt she hailed from some part of Canada, near Vermont line, as she gave the name of the child as William Spencer, and that his father was an officer in the British army, located in Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Blake having heard her story, and perceiving the boy to be quite comely and prepossessing in appearance, and apparently endowed with a quick and active mine, at length acceded to the mother's desire to adopt him as their own, on condition that she would never call to see him again. To this the woman readily assented, and after her departure, she was never more seen in that vicinity. The little boy's name was subsequently changed to that of William Blake, by which he was ever after know; but the secret of his early life and adoption, was studiously preserved from his descendants for many years after.

William Blake was b Canada? Sept (Dec, Mrs. G.T.B) 29, 1793; d Fox Lake, Wis., Aug 18, 1868. In 1821, he removed to Louisville, N.Y., and thence, a few years after to Norfolk, St. Lawrence Co., N.Y., where most of his children were born. At an early age he entered the army as private; was soon promoted to sergeant, from which he rapidly arose to a Captain's commission, thence to rank of Major General. At the age of 19, he was with Gen. Scott at the battle of Lundy's Lane, in 1812. After his retirement from military service, he drew a pension at Milwaukie. He had several times been severely wounded--once by a shell in his foot,-a musket ball in the calf of his leg, and by a bayonet near the temple. He had been engaged in various pursuits; was a merchant and carried on several foundries in N.Y., and was considerably interested in politics. When he removed to Wis., he purchased a large farm on which he resided the rest of his days.

Mr. Blake seems to have possessed a most endearing affection for his wife, and after her decease, and two or three months later, that of his first child, Cynthia, he was prompted, in the excess of his great trial, and affliction, to pay the following tribute to their memory in a poetical effusion, which was kindly furnished the compiler, and which will be given here in its original style, verbatim et literatum:--

1. "Come harken to me all ye my friends,
I will tel you my sorrows of life.
My greatest trouble begins
At the loss of a kind loveing wife

2. While she lived I was blessed with her smiles
Which softened my troubled heart,
My sorrows she soothed by her twils
Of trouble she bore a good part.

3. She said she was willing to die
Her body to lie in the grave
Her Saviour was then standing by Both ready and willing to save

4. To me she gave her advise
To her Children instruction she gave
I trust she has gone to her Christ
Though her body now sleeps in the grave

5. My Cynthia who was my first born
Lies lifeless and Could as the Clay
O is not my house now forlorn
As my trouble they ware not away

6. My Children they all proving kind
To a father who has lost a kind wife
O may thier young hearts be resigned
And god be thier portion through life.

7. I give thanks to my neighbors around
While in sickness did prove verry kind
May I freindley to them now be found
And always bear them in mind.

8. But soon I must follow the road
Where my loveing friend now has gone
May I b protected by god
Till that dreadful hour shall come

9. My god the disposer of all
And govern all in his way
Shure we must go when he calls
Nor should we be prompted to stay.

10. May I not run into dispair
Nor think that my god is severe
May I for my own death prepare
Tho nothing need I to fear.

11. While I think of concluding my song
Methinks she bends downward her wings
And whispers your are not to stay long
You will shortly come home to your King.

He enlisted Apr 24, 1758, in the Crown Point expedition, under Capt. Jona. Swett, in Col. John Hart's regiment, and was discharged Nov 9, following, after six months and sixteen days service. He was also a drummer in the Rev. war. Dec 9, 1762, while of Epsom, he and wife Sarah sold to George Wallace 4 acres, it being the S.E. corner of lot No. 10, on which he then lived: wit. by John McCleary & Benson Ham. He then rem'd to Nottingham, where Oct 6, 1767, he sold to Andrew McCleary of Epsom, a home lot on the north side of the main road. In the body of the deed the surname is written "Black"; but is signed Blake. This is not the only instance where the name is thus rendered. In 1780, we find him in Northwood, where he and wife Sarah, for £50 sells 8 acres to Increase Batchelder.

It was here that he signed the "Association Test", in 1776. Thence, he rem'd to Wakefield, N.H., where, Sept 29, 1783, he bought of John Haven of Exeter, for £50, all his right in 50 acres, in Wakefield, "it being the northernmost 50 acres in lot 70, 2d division." This estate he sold Dec 13, 1793, after his removal to Barrington, to his son John, then living in Wakefield. Within seven years after, the deeds show him to have been a resident of Dover, where Nov 3, 1800, he bought of Otis Twombley, for $310, a tract of 69 acres, in Rochester, being a farm formerly owned by Ensign John Ham, being 1st div. lot No. 4, and which said Twombley lately bought of Jacob Hanson, executor of the will of Thos. Roberts.

He had also bought on the 7th of the previous month another lot of 69 acres of the same grantor. Feb 11, 1804, he bought for $860 of Robert Haley of Rochester, 69 acres in Rochester, bounded on John Robert, Moses Young, the main road, etc. He resided in Dover for some years longer and then removed again to Wakefield, where he d Feb 21, 1824, aged 84 years, leaving 12 children, 85 grand children, 120 great grand children and 8 great great grand children; farmer.

Elisha 5 [221], (John 4, John 3, John 2, Jasper 1), b Barrington, N.H., about 1745; lived in Rye, Barrington and Northumberland, and thence removed to Stark, N.H., where he was among the first settlers, and died Nov 17, 1820, aged about 75 years; farmer. "This town was settled 1788, and formerly named Piercy; and was altered to compliment the memory of General Stark." (Hayward's U.S. Gazetteer).

He served in the war of the Revolution, as a private; was at the battle of Yorktown, Va.; at the capture of Gen. Burgoyne, and engaged in several other actions, receiving an honorable discharge at the end of his term of service.

Dec. 15, 1772, while of Barrington, he and wife Mary for £6, sold to Sam'l Hayes, his lot No. 84, 2d range, it being the original right of Abraham Libby.

Feb 24, 1775, he deeded to Ephraim Berry, of Epsom, a lot of 50 acres, which formerly belonged to his father, John Blake.

Jan 2, 1772, "Elisha Blake of the parish of Rye, fisherman", bought of "Joshua Foss, jr., Barrington, collector for 1771 (for clearing so much of a road from Durham to Cohorse" (Cohoes) "as lies within the limits of the town £7:1S.) 62 acres, 2d range, lot No. 84, it being the original right of Abraham Libby, he being delinquent in paying his part of said tax.

Jan 30, 1789, he appears as a resident of Northumberland, Grafton Co., when for £3, he conveys to Isaac Waldron of Barrington, all his right in the above estate, and his interest in the lot of Thos. Beck, jr, 3d range, lot 107. He soon after removed to Stark.

He m about 1766, Mary, dau of Robert Saunders and Mary (Foss), b Rye, Feb 22, 1744; d Stark, May 8, 1834. His name on the Rye records is written "Black"; and there appears to be an error, also, in the date of his marriage, as entered, "Dec.

11, 1770", and which we can but judge to be incorrect, as the births of all his children were furnished from his family Bible, by a grandson now living in Stark, and the first two, it will be seen, are prior to that date. His children Mary and Hannah were b Rye, the rest in Barrington.

682. David 5 [251], (Benj.4, John 3, John 2, Jasper 1), b Epsom, N.H., Feb 20, 1762; d Hanover, Ill., last of Oct., 1842, at the house of his dau., Mrs. Lucy May, with whom he had made his home since the decease of his 2d wife.

He rem'd with his father to Wolfboro, N.H., when that country was an unbroken wilderness, and the family the first and only white inhabitants of the place. In this rude and primitive settlement he grew up to manhood, a strong and stalwart farmer; and at 25 years of age he bought , Mar 23, 1787, of his father Benj. and wife Anna, for £360, the farm of 100 acres, on which they then lived, and which said Benjamin had purchased for £30, with other lands of Paul March, Esq., of Portsmouth, Aug 24, 1768. This farm was bounded S.W. on James Fullerton, S. on Winter Harbor, N.E. on Jacob Folsom and Sam'l Tucker, and N.W. on Stephen W. and Isaiah Ornet. Here he resided about 9 or 10 years, when he removed with his family to Gilead, Me., a little township in Oxford Co., situated between two mountains, on both sides of the Androscoggin river. As the town was not incorporated until 1804, he was doubtless among the earliest settlers of the place, and one of the founders of the town, then, a fit habitation only for bears, wolves, moose and Indians. In June, 1800, he met a serious loss in the death of his first wife; but he married again soon after, and in the latter part of the same year, removed to Bethel, where he cleared a fine farm, and erected a grist and sawmill, which latter found no lack of employment, from the great abundance of timber the country afforded. Dec 7, 1807, he and wife Louisa, for $1500, deeded to his bro. Jonathan, in Wolfboro, N.H., the farm of 100 acres, he had bought of his father in 1787, which was his final disposition of all real estate and homestead claims in that town. Five years or less later, a spirit of unrest began once more to bestir itself in the mind of Mr. Blake, just as he had begun to be well rooted and settled in his new domains, and his influence and usefulness made apparent among his fellow citizens at large. This time he had resolved to go West; and just at the breaking out of the war of 1812, he took with him his young family he had by his second wife, and sons Jonathan and Stephen, by his former marriage, he set out on foot, driving before him a small herd of cattle, having for his objective point, Gaines Four Corners, near Buffalo, N.Y. The journey was long and tedious, but they all arrived without marked incident or accident. Soon after the family was settled, Mr. Blake and his son Jonathan enlisted as privates and joined the army in N.Y., the particulars of which have not been preserved. It is believed however, that Mr. Blake did not serve through the entire war, and at the expiration of his time of service he returned home, where he remained until the cessation of hostilities, and removed once more with his family in the latter part of 1813, to the now flourishing town of Erie, Pa., 90 miles S. W. of Buffalo. The canteen in which he carried water to drink, is now in the possession of his granddaughter, Mrs. Josephine Hayden, of Blairstown, Iowa. In 1817, he went to Rising Sun, Dearborn Co., Ind., where he remained four years; thence, 1821, to Shawneetown, Gallatin Co., Ill.; and after a short residence here, he returned to Indiana, and settled in White Co, within 10 miles of the town of Carmi, and where he lived till the decease of his wife in 1828; after which event, he closed up his domestic affairs, and lived alternately among his children, many of whom resided both in Northern and Southern Ill. His method of transit was wholly on horseback--visiting those who lived South in the fall, and those North, in the Spring. Once, it is said, after his removal west and since the death of his wife, he returned to make a last visit to his childhood's home. He possessed a large and liberal heart; was a great lover of nature, which rendered it difficult for him to remain but a few years in one locality, and gave to him a sort of roving commission; by this means he became widely known throughout the country. 6. William 7, b Sept 6, 1822; d Dexterville, Jan 29, 1864; m Mar 10, 1846, Sybil M. Jeffords. His death was the result of a most terrible accident; and as related in a "Jamestown, N.Y. Journal", "he was at his usual occupation in the Axe Factory, at Dexterville, when the stone upon which he was grinding burst,"xxx and "in the explosion about one third of it, over which he was leaning carried him up to the floor above, and crushed his chest between the joist and itself, falling back with it into the fragments, sustaining besides several gashes and bruises on his face and head. He survived the fatal shock about 20 hours. On several previous occasions he had in way of accidents been most unfortunate. One he fell down a flight of stairs, and was taken up for dead; afterwards he had one of his limbs crushed from his knee down to the ankle, by the falling of a tree. Again he had the other limb broken at Frewsburg, by a stump machine; and at another time, at Westfield, he had a hand bruised, and almost torn to pieces; and in 1853, he had a little boy 5 or 6 years old instantly killed by the rolling of a saw log over him. This is a remarkable record for one man of 42 years; especially when we consider the well known fact that he was always a careful, cautious, temperate man. He was a faithful Christian, and he died firm and unyielding in his faith."
7. Elial Foote 7, b May 8, 1824; d at Bermuda Hundreds, May 18, 1864. The following account of him is likewise taken from the "Jamestown N.Y. Journal." "He was a member of the 112th N.Y. Vols., Heckman's Brigade, and coming to the Regiment with only the limited military experience of a single year, was placed in the responsible position of Major, and about 4 months after promoted to Lt. Col., and grew constantly in favor with both officers and men, to the last hour of his life. It was on a Monday morning at 4 o'clock, May 16, 1864, that Heckman's brigade of the 18th corps was furiously attacked by the enemy in a dense fog, doing terrible execution. Col. Drake was ordered soon after the fight began to send a regiment to the support of Heckman, Col. Carpenter to follow on immediately after. The latter reached Heckman's headquarters under a terrible artillery fire from Fort Johnson without loss. Finding no one there to whom to report, he sent Adjt. Hedges forward to find some of the General's Staff. It is probable that Hedges rode directly into the enemy's lines for the fog was so dense that nothing could be seen a rod in advance and nothing has since been heard of him. Col. Carpenter becoming anxious in regard to the situation, rode forward himself to reconnoiter, when some 15 rods in advance of the regiment a summons was given to surrender, and he could just discern the outlines of men through the fog. Wheeling his horse, he called at the top of his voice "Men, fall back". At the same time the enemy shouted "Shoot him", and a volley followed. One shot struck the Col. (who was bending forward on his horse, which was rushing back at full speed) just below the right lung which it traversed and striking the shoulder, broke the bone, but did not pass through. Another shot struck his hat knocking it from his head. The horse at length was arrested in his career, and Col. Drake being at hand helped the Col. from his horse, but he immediately sweened on reaching the ground. He was taken to the hospital that night and lived until 4 o'clock on the morning of the 18th. She is described by a granddaughter as "a very remarkable woman;-gifted with a happy spirit and a retentive memory- rarely forgetting any important event of her long and useful life. She kept herself well posted in the journals and literature of the day, and, like unto her husband, was a great reader. Her eyes were light blue, which ever maintained their lustre, till closed in death, and could see to read as long as she lived and retained her faculties. For a year prior to her decease she lost the use of her lower limbs, and the power of locomotion, and when reminded of her infirmity, she would reply "every back was fitted for its burden", and turn the subject to other themes. At the age of 91, she appeared full as young as most women of 70.

Her sons, with the exception of Hiram, were all owners of farms; he had a house at Bellows Falls, Vt. All were carpenters by trade, and many of the best buildings in the State are monuments of their skill. Samuel, John and Daniel were in the war of 1812, and the two latter held the various offices of the towns where they lived. William of Andover and Franklin performed the most public business, being Justices of the Peace and many times elected to various offices of honor and trust.

As a citizen, he was true to the interests committed to his hands. The duties devoloving upon him in the domestic and social relations, he discharged with promptness and assiduity; and long will he be remembered as the faithful husband, the tender and judicious parent, the obliging neighbor, and the trustworthy friend. He was a firm believer in the doctrines of the Christian faith; and his hope of acceptance with God rested on the merits of the Lord Jesus Christ. "This town was first settled in 1765, by two families named Fox and Taylor; and derives its name from the circumstance of the first proprietors building a camp there, when they went to survey Campton and Rumney". (Haywards' U. S. Gazetteer). Here Mr. Blake resided until prior to 1824, when he rem'd to that part of Cabot, now So. Cabot, Vt., where he cleared 200 acres of timber land, consisting of maple and spruce, residing for about ten years in a log hut, after which he built him a more permanent and beautiful structure. He brought her home many valuable presents which to this day have been preserved with great care--cherishing the gift with the fatherly love that prompted it. Remaining at home in Kensington but a few months, he set sail again, Sept, 1850, for California via Cape Horn, where, part of the time he worked in the gold mines, and for a number of years was engaged in the Salmon fishery at Humboldt Bay. He subsequently settled at Oysterville Washington Ter., where is at present employed in farming and the oyster trade,--never returning home since leaving it in 1850.

1. Adelaide Prentiss 7, b 1841; d early in 1844.
2. Adelaide Prentiss 7, b Feb 4, 1844. She was first named Lydia; after the decease of her sister her name was changed to Adelaide. On the death of her mother, when 18 months of age, she was adopted into the family of her aunt Sarah L. Morrill, at E. Kingston, N.H. Of her adopted mother she speaks in the most loving terms, who, during the tender years of her minority was cared for with all the love and affection a real fond parent could bestow upon a loving child. She attended the District school till about 16 years of age, then went to Lynn to work in one of the shoe factories there, where she remained a few months till business became dull when she returned home to E. Kensington to assist her aunt, where she remained over 6 years during her uncle's absence in California and other places; and on his return she went to work again in Lynn, until May 5, 1868, when she went to Chicago, Ill., to work for Nichols Bros., shoe manufacturer of Salem, Mass. where she remained 8 months, during which time she joined a class in Phonography with the purpose of perfecting herself as a reporter. But subsequent events changed her plans materially, as Jan 2, 1869, she m her cousin, Charles Warren Gilman, formerly of Lynn, son of Eben and Catherine Gilman, b Lynn, Apr 30, 1840; was a shoecutter by trade. At the age of 19, he went to Cal. to win his fortune in the gold mines, and was among the first adventurers. On his arrival there, he soon after went to Eureka, Humboldt Bay and joined his uncle (his wife's father) in the salmon fishery; remained a few months, then started for the gold mines of Montana and Idaho, where he labored and prospected for about 6 years, then returned home to Lynn to visit his friends, where he spent part of the winter, returning again to the mines taking his bro. John with him. The 3 years they remained were fraught with much hardship and adventure, and they returned to the states with a large and varied experience of a wild mountain life, not in the highest degree calculated to impress the heart with the most chaste and hallowed impressions. Finding his sister's health rather delicate and precarious, it was determined to try a change of climate, and the family as a whole decided on a removal to Wis., taking their departure in the spring of 1868, making the town of Metomen their objective point, 3 miles from Brandon, where they settled on one of the finest farms in the state. After the marriage of Adelaide in Chicago, she removed upon this farm where she and her family lived about 3 years until the decease of her cousin Lucy, in Aug, 1871, when they sold the farm and rem'd to Aurelia, Cherokee Co., Io., where they at present reside on a large stock and grain farm,-the country at that time being comparitively new, with but very few settlers. Since his residence at Aurelia, Mr. Gilman has held various civil offices; was a member of County Supervisors for 2 years; Justice of the Peace, besides various minor offices.

in the rear car. After the train had started, by some means the said car became detached and Blake discovering what had happened, immediately sprang to the ground to overtake the moving train, and in so doing he fell on the track, and the wheel of the car he had just left, still in motion, struck him a blow on the back of his head, causing almost instant death. He was conveyed to the depot, where he died in a few moments after. He was a man highly respected and esteemed, and his death caused great regret among his numerous friends.

He enlisted Sept, 1862 as a private in 1st R. I. Cavalry, the name of which was subsequently changed to N. E. Cavalry by additions from N.H. regiments. He became a member of the regimental band, to which he belonged till sickness compelled his removal to Washington. 890. Henry 6 [382], (Daniel 5, Moses 4, Moses 3, Timothy 2, Jasper 1), b Kensington, N.H., Nov 22, 1755; rem'd to Hopkinton, N.H., where all his children were born; thence, 1803, to Peacham, Vt., where he died - his gravestone bearing the following inscription: "In memory of Major Henry Blake, who died July 12, 1833, in the 78th year of his age. A Revolutionary Soldier". According to tradition, circumstances at one time were not very propitious to a lasting peace and happiness between him and his step-father, Isaac Fellows; so, at the breaking out of the Revolution, and against a most violent opposition, he started off from Kensington afoot to join the American army at Winter Hill, Cambridge, where he enlisted,- at first serving in the capacity of a mounted officer's attendant. In after years he used to relate that in the thickest part of the engagement at Bunker Hill, this officer had the misfortune to lose his horse. Blake at once went in search of another, which he soon found; and as he rode him upon the battle ground, he found it completely covered in human gore, which mingled with the groans of the wounded and dying, struck terror into his soul. Mr. Blake continued in camp at Winter Hill until the following March when, on Sunday, the 17th of that month, the British evacuated Boston. As New York was supposed to be the objective point of the British General, Howe, Washington, on the following day, "ordered five regiments and a portion of artillery under Gen. Heath, to march immediately for that place". (Frothingham's Siege of Boston). Mr. Blake's regiment being included in this order, he, from this time until his discharge, kept a diary of his long and tedious march to N.Y.; the invasion of Canada, and other disastrous and fruitless attempts upon the enemy's works on the line of the Hudson- interspersed with a weather calender and general camp experience. The writer has seen this diary, now in the possession of his grandson, Mr. Ira G. Blake, of Worcester, Mass., through whose kindness and permission a copy of the same has been made, and portions of which relating more particularly to his army life, will be found in the Appendix, verbatim et literatim, for the reader's perusal. Due allowance will be made for the limited amount of his education, as schools, teachers and seminaries of learning did not over abound in the locality of his youthful days; besides, the farm must be attended to, and the whims of a not over fond step-father be satisfied.

Mr. Blake was quite noted as a musician; and during his time of service in the Revolutionary army he played the role of fifer to advantage. In his diary is quite a collection of music written with his own hand for the fife,-the names of some of the pieces being as follows, as copied from the original; viz:---
"The Ladys Brest Not";-"Beliles March";--"Lovly Nancy";--"Too Arms";--The Roags March";--"Nancy Dauson";--"The Black Slauving";--"Patricks Day in the morning"; "Scotch trevelly", and a score or more of that ilk, with which he doubtless enlivened the drooping spirits of his comrades in arms and gave elasticity to the dragging step, while on the weary march, or else to beleaguer the weary hours, which may happen to fall upon him- through a cessation of hostilities. We wish that the fife as an heir-loom had passed down with the diary. In times of peace Mr. Blake followed the plough, and was a sturdy farmer.

He had served in the New Hampshire militia, and was honored in the line of promotion from Corporal to the rank of Major:-hence his title as Major Blake.

He also had been a perfect Nimrod in his day, spending as is said, weeks at a time, in the woods, and always returning home laden down with various kinds of game. Dec 31, 1777, while of Hopkinton he bought for £18 of Moses Straw, of the same town, 20 acres and 82 rods of land upon which said Straw then lived. Between 1799 and 1806, he removed to Peacham, Vt.

He md at Hopkinton, N.H., Dec 18, 1777, Molly, dau of William D., and Elizabeth Colby, born Hopkinton, N.H., Dec 10, 1762; d Peacham, Vt., Feb 27, 1840.

He was a Methodist clergyman, conncected with the N.H. and Vt. Conference until its division, when he was assigned to the former--The following notice of Mr. Heath is entered upon the minutes of the N.H. Conference 1853, and furnished the compiler by Mrs. Olive W. Sanborn of Manchester, N.H.

"Rev. Abel Heath was one of the aged members of our Conference. He entered the travelling connection in 1828, and until his death sustained an effective relation. He had many laborious fields assigned him in the vineyard of the Lord; but he was dilligent and faithful in his work and often encouraged by precious and extensive revivals of religion. While with us at the last session of our Conference he was called to go to East Sanbornton to preach the funeral sermon of the wife of Bro. L.D. Blodgett, since deceased, she having been converted to God under his labors. He remarked at the grave that he felt his work was almost done. This proved to be his last work. He returned to the Conference and before the close of the session, was taken sick with typhoid fever and in a few days brought to the grave. When informed that he was near the close of his earthly existence, he was asked if his trust was still in Christ. He responded, "Yes! glory be to God. My soul is full - full of hope." In about fifteen minutes, he said,"I have enjoyed the salvation of Christ for these many years. Glory to God, Amen." Afterwards, he said, "my only hope and my only plea is, Jesus died for me"! (these last words were spoken with emphasis), "Jesus died for me; Glory to God, Amen!" His last words were, "salvation by faith in our Lord Jesus Christ; glory to God, Amen!" In ten minutes after this the weary wheels of life stood still; the vital spark fled and our brother slept in Jesus."

The following obituary is quoted from the "Olive Branch" of Boston, edited by Mr. Thomas F. Norris, a cousin to Mr. Heath.

"Last Saturday's" Boston Gazette records the death of Rev. Abel Heath, a member of the New Hampshire Conferenc. We presume he is the gentleman who, for the last two years has been in charge of the society at Rye, N.H. Mr. Heath and wife put up at our house during the session of the late General Conference of the M.E. Church, which he attended, though not a delegate. He then appeared in excellent health. The gentleman is a relative of ours, a native of Corinth, Vt., and if he is the gentleman deceased, was little more than fifty years of age. He was a devout Christian and an able and efficient minister. His unexpected death must be sad news to his aged and widowed mother, and an irreparble loss to his family. Mr. Heath was widely known in New England and universally esteemed."

Mrs. Sanborn, the daughter, also contributes an article, originally written by a friend of the family, and one who well knew her mother, Mrs. Chloe Heath, a brief sketch of whose life is here given, in memoriam.

"Mrs. Chloe Heath the widow of the Rev. Abel Heath of the N.H. and Vt. Conference primarily, and of the New Hampshire, since the division, departed this life April 22d, 1877. She was born in Vershire, Vt., March 16th, 1800. Christianly taught, she early became personally acquainted with Christian experience, and at the age of twenty, gave her hand in marriage to one whom she had known from her childhood.

They settled, as they supposed, upon a neighboring farm, where four children were born to them. About this time the husband and father heard a constantly recurring command "go ye and preach my gospel."

After battling for weeks with this message, thinking it impossible to comply, and also impossible that the message was really intended for him, and yet not daring quite to turn utterly away from what might after all be a command, he said to the Lord "my family is too large for the itinerant field, too large to be acceptable"; when immediately the darling of the household was transplanted, and so immediately and directly, that he could hesitate no longer in regard to his life work.

This to the mother was an entire and unlooked for change; yet she hesitated only to comprehend the will of the Lord in the matter, and when this was given her there were neither murmurings nor repinings, but heart and hand she ready to do what she could for the Master and always cheerfully. It mattered not whether the work was a manual or a spiritual one, was it not for him?

Thus as opportunity offered, she endeavored to relieve the people as much as possible of the support of her large and increasing family, and at the same time assist her husband to the greatest possible success in his pastoral work. Sometimes in the poorest home in the parish, and the most inconvenient, yet never losing heart and never to the knowledge of her family complain of hardship or express a wish even that her husband would pursue other and more lucrative employment. Thus for twenty-five years she toiled and struggled, a heroine indeed in the itinerant field, making many warm friends while, more than all, she proved a treasure to the heart and life of her husband, with whom she was never known to differ in a spirit of irritation. This can be said of few women.

During these twenty-five years, seven more children came to them, and these must be cared for; but, dearly as she loved them Christ was dearer, and the life-work with its responsibilities, were not, could not be ignored so she toiled on, always cheerful and hopeful apparently however hard the struggle (and in those days there were not a few), until June 22, 1852, when the husband and father passed away to his reward. This occurred while attending Conference at Nashua, N.H. Now she who had struggled so herocally to sustain her family and, at the same time her church relations, found herself in one short week alone and almost destitute, among comparitive strangers,-for she immediately removed to Nashua.-and the people there had become measurably endeared to her from the kindly aid given her during the sickness and death of her husband, and the generous gift of a beautiful lot in the new cemetery in which to bury her dead.

The utter self abnegation that had marked her whole history should now, methinks, have merited a home at the hands of the church whom she and her companion had served so long and well, but no, she must now toil for a livelihood, keeping boarders, making boxes, painting bedspreads, anythink to obtain a living that was honorable. A son, a noble boy, came to her in this time of need and helped right manfully until a home of his own demanded his care. Then a married daughter prevailed upon her to find a home with her in Manchester, N.H.; and here with the exception of two or three winters with a beloved daughter in Washington, D. C., she has waited for the summons, "child, thy Father calls, come home."

During the last three years of her life, on account of paralysis, she was unable to converse audibly with her friends, yet still was trusting in God, and when the final summons came, she triumphantly entered the promised land, the very joy of deliverance being wonderfully portrayed upon her speaking countenance. Death swallowed up in victory! Surely one of earth's heroines had found her rest."

Boston, where he officiated eight years; and after his resignation June 24, 1832, he removed to Orange, N.J., where he died, July 6, 1857. A notice of him in the Gen. Hist. Reg r. of Boston, Vol II, p364, says:-

"Early in life he commenced compiling school books and considered himself a pioneer in that department. Before leaving So. Boston, he compiled a Universal Biographical Dictionary. This was chiefly from Groton's then recently published; and as a work of the kind was needed, it was a source of considerable income to him, although it did not add much to his literary reputation. When this had got very far behind the age, Mr. Blake undertook its recompilation and has produced another work of great value. He was Honorary Vice President of the Hist. and Gen. Society from 1856 to 1857."

"He received the Honorary degree of A.M. from Brown University and Burlington Coll., N.J.; and in 1852, commenced the practice of Law in Orange, N.J.; and was a member of the House of Assembly, 1857-8. Towards the close of life he made a generous donation of books to the Northwood Young Men's Lyceum, a Litterary association formed in that town about 1843, which has contributed largely to the intelligence of the community." While in N.H., he gave a practical test of his agility, perseverance and endurance, in hunting for a wolf, which had done much damage to the sheep in the town of Ellsworth. Leaving his wife in Barnet, he penetrated into the hitherto unexplored wilderness in the northern part of Vermont and, commenced in the month of March, 1798, the settlement of a township, now known as Salem, he being the first white inhabitant of that place. He was a noted hunter; and the unerring success he always met with on his hunting expeditions, in connection with his labor on the farm, proved a source of wealth to him. He was ever energetic and discreet in his management of business affairs. The forest was levelled, more land added to the farm and in process of time the little settlement began to assume repectable proportions, and thrift. Constant accessions of new families were being made in the neighboring vicinity, and Mr. Blake, already a man of influence and importance among his neighbors, lived to petition with the rest, for a town organization, which, being granted, was carried into effect Apr 30, 1822. He always employed a number of men, furnishing them and their families with supplies, as long as he lived. Soon after the decease of his father, he took charge of the latter's sloop and sailed her successfully; paid off all the estate's indebtedness, and eventually bought out the remaining heirs and became sole owner of the land that was taken up originally by both his father and grandfather. He still followe the sea and usually hired a man on his farm in the summer and fall until his boys became old and strong enough to do the work. He was master mariner for fifteen years, during which time he suffered no loss in mast, spar, sail or life in any vessel of which he ever had the charge.

When he retired from sea service, he, as an apprentice began life anew in the ship yard, and being intuitively gifted with an ingenious turn of mind, he soon became a first class mechanic, commanding the highest wages. In the fall of 1834, he commenced to build a vessel at home of about thirty tons, which he designed to run as a packet from Castine to Bangor and other places. She was Christened the "Greyhound", and when ready for sea, he took command of her, leaving his youngest son, Nelson, to manage the farm.

He followed fishing and freighting till 1846, when he sold the packet, came home and retired from all active employment, resting in peace and quiet comfort, till within four months of his 90th birthday, when he as peacefully and quietly passed away. It was not ascertained for a long while after, that this family was an adjunct to the numerous descendants of the patriarch Jasper, and was taken account of as a mere incident for future reference; it turned out however most advantageously; for, from this point, two generations preceeding, radiated hundreds of families who, with their descendants, settled in most every section of the United States and Canadas, and their progeny is yet rapidly on the increase.

Mr. Blake (1884) in his 86th year, enjoys a vigorous constitution, inherited from a long lived ancestry. He was useful as a citizen and at various intervals of time, occupied several positions of trust; in 1830, '37 and '39 was surveyor of highways; a juror in 1841, and on the grand jury, 1844; appointed town collector Apr 1, 1846, besides holding several other positions of minor importance. The preceding is as exact a copy as I could make of the 501 handwritten pages of manuscript by Perley Derby. Script has been used to set this section apart from the rest of the book.
Errors have not been corrected.
Words or phrases which were crossed out in the original manuscript have been omitted from the above.
Note that the last item refers forward to a number which does not exist, which indicates to me that one or more pages are missing.
Note that many brackets [ ] are blank. This indicates that Mr. Derby had further data and was planning to continue the line.
Blank spaces apparently were left to be filled in when more data arrived.
From this manuscript we find that Perley Derby commenced work in 1879 and was still adding data in 1884.
This section of his manuscript is headed Part I. It is obvious that he had some material available and had planned a Part II. However, this has been lost.

GARDNER G. BLAKE, 81, of Enosburgh Falls died Monday evening at a Burlington Hospital. Mr. Blake held several town and village offices in Enosburg. He served on the state Advisory Board of the Area Agency on Aging and was a Senior Citizens Council delegate. Mr. Blake spent most of his life in lumbering and lumbering related businesses. In a special article in this newspaper last summer he was portrayed as a fine and lively fiddler. He organized a fiddle contest here. He was an expert trapper and gave talks to children on the life of the beavers. He is survived by his wife, Eunice; one son, Edward; one daughter, Beverly Chellis of Tupper Lake, N.Y.; a foster daughter, Mrs. Edward Lee of East Hartford, Conn; a sister, Mrs. Harry Bean of West Burke. Funeral services today at 1 in the United Methodist Church in Enosburgh Falls. (from an undated obit received Dec 20, 1979); Gardner Blake was very helpful to the author in searching the ancestry in his own family group.

LETTER FROM DORIS BOUGHEN:

17 Dec 1979

Dear Mr. Blake:

In your last letter you asked if I could persue the line of Jasper Blake being a fisherman/seaman, you also asked if I could look at the registers in King's Lynn re the Jasper/Deborah marriage date. I'm afraid there are too many churches in Lynn for me to undertake that task.

I did however write to a friend of my husband's who is Librarian at King's Lynn re registers for the port in King's Lynn - his reply is enclosed plus further information of the Blake family, following his advice I wrote to the Records Office in Norwich. I received a reply also enclosed and have been waiting until I had a full day free in Norwich some 45 miles away, when I would have looked at Parish registers mentioned, although I would not have really known where to start. It wasn't until quite recently I had the opportunity - as you can imagine living in a rural area one is busy with Parish Council, Women's Institute, Recreation ground committee, Church and Dioscan meetings, etc etc) only to find that a limit has been imposed and some documents withdrawn because of the great interest in family trees. (Press cutting attached).

I fear I have done all I can and I would remind you of your promise to send a donation to my church for the research done.

I wish you a Very Happy new year.

Sincerely,

DORIS BOUGHEN

Note: in our previous correspondence Mrs. Boughen mentioned that the ancestral Church desperately needs a new roof. Help build the roof-donate.

YOUR REF.

6th September, 1979

Dear Mrs. Boughen,

Thank you for your letter just received and the s.a.e.

The information you are seeking may be in the Wimbotsham parish register, which commences in 1562 and is in the custody of the incumbent. Also in the Hare Collection here there is a great deal of material relating to Wimbotsham, in which the Blake family certainly figures. There is a detailed catalogue here, which you may care to examine.

Ships' captains were not registered at Lynn and no 16th-17th century local customs accounts survive there. However, Jasper Blake may have been a freeman of the borough and so may be mentioned in the published calendar of Lynn freemen, which should be available in the King's Lynn Library.

No marriage licence for Jasper Blake and Deborah Dolton has survived among the episcopal records here, and I cannot find an entry for the Rev. Timothy Dolton in the published admission registers of Oxford and Cambridge Universities or in Francis Blomefield's History of Norfolk. You may care to try Boyd's index of Norfolk parish registers (in fact, only covering about a third of the parishes in the County), of which there is a copy in the Local Studies Library here.

Yours sincerely,

Paul Rutledge

Dear Mrs. Boughen,

Thank you for your letter regarding your research into the Blake family history.

The staff of the local studies department have searched through our collection and have found a number of references to the family in the standard works on local genealogy. I expect that you may already have much of the information, but I enclose photo-copies of the relevant material, in case it contains anything that may be useful to you. Most of the information seems to relate to the earlier history of the family, linking it to the Blakes of Swaffham. However, I notice that the Visitation of Norfolk (1563), taken by William Harvey (edited by Bulwer, published 1895) states that a Jasper Blake, who appears to be the one in question was married to Frances, maiden name unknown, who appears to be mentioned as his wife in 1623-4. In his "Norfolk Families" (published 1911) W. Rye refers to Jasper Blake and the possibility of a link with the American line.

Original records for a period as far back as the seventeenth century may be rather scarce and difficult to trace. There might possibly be some material at the County Record Office, (Central Library, Bethel Street, Norwich) which would help (including wills, etc.). As regards marriages by licence, some records are held at the County Record Office, but where licences were issued by the Archbishop of Canterbury I believe the records may be at Lambeth Palace Library, London SE1 7JU.

I should guess that the chances of there being any tax or shipping records which would mention Jasper Blake would probably be rather slim. If any such records have chanced to survive, the Public Record Office might be a possible location.

It may be of interest to mention, in case you do not already have the details, that there is a Norfolk and Norwich Genealogical Society. (Honorary Secretary Mr. C. Farrow, 32 Varvel Avenue, Sprowston, Norwich NR7 8PH.)

I hope that this information will be of assistance to you. Please give my regards to your husband. If there is any other way in which we can help, please let me know.

Yours sincerely,

R. Wilson, F.L.A.,
Divisional Librarian - West Norfolk.

Bladwell. A Suffolk family from Thurlow, who came into Norfolk by Giles Bladwell, who d. 1606, marrying Susan Downing of Grimston, and settled at Swannington. One of them married Philippa, d. of Thomas Browne of Elsing. The d. and h. of the last (who by her mother, Anne, was d. and h. to Nicholas Helwys of Morton) married Charles Le Grys, son of Alderman Le Grys of Norwich (?) (see "Norris"). [Thomas le Grice, Mayor of Yarmouth, 1717].

When Blomefield wrote (vol. viii., p. 264), he says the Manor belonged to Mr. John Bladwell, an upholsterer in Bow Street, Covent Garden, who had bought it from his brother Charles. Charles had married Anne, eldest d. of Nicholas Helwis of Morton, and had a s., William, who d. young. His brother John, the purchaser, d. 1779, aged 80.

Burke's "Landed Gentry," sub Parker of Swannington Hall, says that (the late) Mrs. Parker of Swannington Hall, who was d. and h. of Major Charles Randall, of Swannington Hall, and who married Captain J. R. T. Hastings Parker, is the owner of Swannington Manor, which has descended to her "in a direct line from the Bladwells." As her surname was Randall (not Bladwell) this is clearly wrong, but is near enough for Burke.

A Maria Barbara Bladwell married General George Ogilvie, and had a son, Charles James Bladwell Ogilvie, who d. s.p., and the property then reverted to the family of Mary Susan Randall, d. 1857, who had married Thomas S. Norgate. See Norgate, post.

Blake of Swaffham. A Visitation family of this name was at Swaffham (see Harl. Visit., p. 38), and bore A pile indented sa. bezantee between two lions' gambs erased and erect gu., over all a bendlet vert, a mullet for difference arg. One of the name was a Jasper Blake (1645), who may be the Jasper Blake of America in 1649, from whom Mr. J. L. Blake of Orange, N.J., claimed descent.

Blake of Bunwell and Scottow (now Jex Blake). Burke, in his "Landed Gentry," says that the family is supposed to have come from Wiltshire previous to the Civil Wars.

Carthew, in his "History of Bradenham," p. 161, gives the pedigree of this family, thus:—

John Blake of Bunwell, by his wife, Martha, had (d. 1646)

124. Blage or Blake.

Arms: Ermine, a pile engrailed sable bezantée between two lions jambés erect and erased gules, over all a bend vert.
